

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE.

ALTHOUGH this work cannot boast of having been written at the "special request of a number of Noblemen and Gentlemen," yet the Author's sincere hope is that it will be found useful by "Noblemen and Gentlemen,"—indeed, by everyone interested in the Highlands of Scotland, whether by birth, possession, sympathy, or sport.

The Author has endeavoured to make its range of information wide and comprehensive, remembering all the while that "Brevity is the soul of wit," and, by consulting the best authorities, has endeavoured to secure accuracy in every detail.

Travellers will no doubt find the Tables of Distances by "Land and Sea" serviceable; and their special attention is respectfully directed to the announcements of the London and North-Western Railway Company, and Mr. David Macbrayne, of Glasgow, whose services of Trains and Steamers are unrivalled.

THE HIGHLAND SPORTSMAN.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THAT portion of the Kingdom of Scotland which lies to the north of the Firths of Forth and Clyde, and is known as the Highlands, was called by the Romans Caledonia, and in their time was peopled by a fierce, warlike race whom they never subdued and called Caledonians. Later on these Caledonians were known by the name of Picts, and later still gradually gave way before a powerful incursion of Scots, who came across from Ireland and spread themselves over the whole Western Highlands, eventually giving their name to their adopted country; the story about Pharaoh's daughter Scotia won't do at "any price," as Mark Twain might say.

The greatest length of this portion of Scotland is about 230 miles, being from Dunnet Head in Caithness to the Mull of Cantyre in Argyll; but from Dunnet Head to the Firth of Forth the distance is only about 200 miles. The greatest breadth is 160 miles, being from Buchan Ness in Aberdeen to Ardnamurchan Point in Argyll. Its narrowest part is from Dornoch Firth on the east coast to Loch Broom on the west, the distance being 24 miles only. The extent, including islands, is about 22,000 square miles, and excluding them about 18,000 square miles; the whole extent of Scotland being 30,463 square miles; and the population in 1881 1,576,147; of Scotland, 3,734,441.

Most of the country is of a wild and extremely mountainous character, and vastly better adapted for sporting purposes than for those of husbandry ; indeed, sheep-farming, which was once carried on profitably, has of late years become almost an absolute failure ; but there are tracks of extreme fertility in many places, chiefly around Perth (in the valleys of Strathearn and Strathmore) and along the shores of the Moray and Cromarty Firths.

It may be remarked here that land which has been cleared of sheep usually can be let to sportsmen at something like one shilling per acre over all (quite equal to the ordinary grazing rental), in addition to the ordinary sporting or "grouse" rental ; and that such being the case, coupled with the fact of Highland proprietors having such hard times of it, owing to their sheep farmers having harder times still, it will probably result in time, in this portion of the British Isles, or at least the greater part of it, becoming exclusively the "happy hunting grounds" of the wealthy classes.

The scenery of the Highlands is famed over all the world, and will bear comparison with that of any other country. Its mountains and glens, lochs and streams, are sufficiently large to make them deeply interesting ; you can grasp their size and beauty at a glance, so to speak, and so thoroughly imbued with the poetry and history and romance of the nation are they that every one of them almost is classic ground. Go where you will, through Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Italy, or any other country in Europe, and yet you will not find scenery more lovely nor more interesting than is to be found almost anywhere north of the River Forth. What sheet of water, for instance, can vie with Loch Duich, the king of lochs, from whose shores rise mountains over 4000 feet high !

The most valuable grouse moors of Scotland are those of Perthshire, which are, perhaps the most prolific too, generally yielding over 100 brace of birds to the 1000 acres ; though in many instances double that number may be bagged on 500 acres, notably on Dalreoch Moor, belonging to James Small, Esq., of Dirnanear, and Monzie Castle Moor, near Crieff. Two thousand brace is about the maximum bag of the best Perthshire moors. Aberdeenshire possesses many splendid moors, and boasts of the "biggest bag"—that of 7000 brace, shot on Delnadamph Moor, belonging to Sir Charles J. Forbes, Bart., of Newe, in the great grouse year of 1872. Inverness-shire also possesses some splendid grouse moors, especially along Speyside and the valley of the Findhorn. The tenant of Gaick generally runs up a bag of 2000 brace, and at Coignafearn the same number may be bagged, as also at Moy, I believe; but the extent of Inverness-shire moors is generally very much larger than those of Perthshire yielding like bags. The deer forests of this county are perhaps the best in the Highlands. Ross-shire contains very much better deer forests than grouse moors, although bags of 1000 brace of grouse are made on several moors, those of Braelangwell, Fearn, and Castle Leod, for instance. Sutherland and Caithness-shires have rapidly come to the front and yield the "biggest bags" of modern times, indeed "big" bags are as plentiful almost as peas in these counties; and when one reads of 4000 brace being killed here, and 3000 brace there, it almost takes one's breath away clean. Argyllshire deserves special mention as containing the princely deer forest of Blackmount.

There are several excellent mineral springs in the Highlands, notably those at Strathpeffer in Ross-shire, and Dunblane in Perthshire.

The largest landed proprietor of the Highlands is the Duke of Sutherland, who owns, including the Duchess's property, 1,326,453 acres, yielding a revenue of about £65,000, or about one shilling per acre over all; and it is interesting to note in these days of forest-making that, if his Grace went extensively in for clearance, he might almost double the present revenue of his Scotch estates. The largest sporting tenant is William L. Winans, Esq., whose huge forest comprises about 220,000 acres, the rental being close upon £20,000 per annum. This forest gives employment to a large number of men, possibly to many more than it would do were it under sheep.

CONCERNING GUNS.

A PLEA FOR SMALL-BORES.

It is almost impossible to get two sportsmen to agree as to which is the correct bore for fowling-pieces, but of one thing the writer is certain, and that is, that when all arguments have been discussed threadbare the fact remains as patent as ever, that the correct size after all is the light, handy, hard-hitting twenty-bore. I know a ninety-nine per cent. dissent will arise at that, but strong in my belief, and backed up by the remaining one per cent, I will not budge one inch from my assertion; and I am confident that were the majority to change their mind only so far as to give the "little plaything" a "fair field and no favour," they'd quickly come round to the same way of thinking. Some sportsmen have tried them, but the unfortunate thing about it is that the trial was in most cases made in company with others blazing away with big bores, and keeping a close eye upon the fellows with the "pop-guns," who accordingly got nervous and fluky, the result being more misses than hits, whereupon everybody blamed the guns and wondered why people would be such fools as to shoot with toys. Now I maintain that if gentlemen will only go out by themselves for a time or two, and so accustom themselves to the use of the small-bore before using it in company, they will have faith in them ever afterwards. Twenty-bore guns, to be up to the mark, should shoot 150 pellets on a radius of thirty inches at forty yards, and give the same penetration as twelve or sixteen bores would; that is to say, if tried at a powder cannister (an old test, but as good as any), the pellets ought to go clean through one side of it and almost through the other: the cannister should weigh not more than four ounces. This is as good a test as any, and should be made with the following charges—

For Pattern ... $2\frac{1}{2}$ drs. powder and $\frac{7}{8}$ oz. No. 6 shot.
„ Penetration $2\frac{1}{2}$ „ „ and $\frac{7}{8}$ oz. No. 5 „

When guns of 5 lbs. weight can be made to do that, of what use is it carrying a portable cannon?

NOTES.

If you think that your gun doesn't quite suit you, place yourself in front of a large mirror in a well-lighted room, and then aim at the glass, bringing the gun up to your shoulder in the manner you usually do when shooting at game. The reflection on the glass will show you if your eye is true to the line of vision, or if it is too high or too low, or to the right or left of it.

Hammerless guns are best, and much safer than those with hammers, and you can always take them from the loader "cocked" (although "bolted"), and at a warm corner this is a great boon, and does away with all risk of being blazed at from behind.

For deer-stalking .450-bore express rifles are best. Don't trouble about sights for various distances; one is sufficient and much handier.

Do not wear a cartridge-belt round the waist; it impedes the action of the kidneys. If you must have a belt of some kind, use a shoulder one; but a bag is best after all, and quite as handy.

In shooting down hill at deer, always aim a little low, the reason being that the object is much nearer you horizontally than perpendicularly.

Schultze gunpowder should never be "rammed." Merely press the wads down very gently, and then turn down the cartridge as lightly as you can.

Twenty-bore guns shoot remarkably well with No. 7 shot.

For hares use No. 4 shot; no animal can carry away so much shot as puss.

For grouse, No. 6 shot in right barrel, and No. 5 in left during the first fortnight; thereafter No. 5 in both barrels.

For ducks, Nos. 2 and 3 mixed will be found good.

If you are about to buy a new gun, go to a first-class maker, who will do his best to please you, and assuredly put a good weapon into your hands. No first-class maker will risk his name by giving you an inferior article ; and high-priced guns are always the cheapest in the long run.

CONCERNING DOGS.

THE dog is, naturally enough, the boon and trusty companion of the sportsman, who might almost just so well go out shooting minus his fowling-piece (there's a "bull" somewhere, I fear) as his dog or dogs; and there is no sight more enchanting in the eyes of the true sportsman than a brace of "good 'uns" doing their work with the steadiness and regularity of clockwork.

There is, as a matter of course, a difference of opinion among sportsmen as to which is the best dog for Highland work; but perhaps when all has been said and done the palm remains with the active, jolly setter—indeed the majority of grouse shots give him the first place. Craven says, "In style and dash of ranging, in courage and capacity of covering ground, in beauty and grace of attitude, in variety of colour and elegance of clothing, no animal of his species will at all bear comparison with him." Still for steadiness and guardedness against enthusiasm the pointer is perhaps his superior, for your well-bred and trained pointer never allows his zeal to outrun his discretion. The setter has one very marked natural advantage over the pointer—viz., the hairy protection on his feet, which enables him to scour over ground that would dead beat the more tender-toed pointer.

Every sportsman has doubtless remarked the different feeling with which each dog sets to work. The pointer begins with a cool, business-like air, as if he meant to do it all properly enough, but without the least bit of enthusiasm; whereas the setter goes at it with the utmost rollicking good humour, as though he did it out of pure love only, and if he has to flounder through boggy morasses, still keeps his "pecker" up to the last, and never snivels into heel shivering and whining like a half-drowned puppy.

The head of the pointer should be large, wide across the ears, and show a raised forehead; the nose long and broad, with its front outline square; the lips well-marked; the ears long, soft, and thin, set low and carried close to the cheeks; and the eyes large and intelligent, and varying in colour according to the coat, from buff to deep brown. A peculiarly rounded outline on the upper side of the neck marks the well-bred pointer. The loin and hind-quarter should be well arched, broad, and deep, and strongly knit to the ribs and couples—the latter wide and somewhat ragged; the shoulders oblique and well covered with muscle, the chest full, the back ribs deep, and the hind-quarters well bent at the stifles, with strong hocks and powerful muscles. The feet should be round and cat-like, with hard horny soles, short pasterns, and large bone and tendons, and should not slope backwards much; and the arm should be long and muscular, with elbows neither sticking in nor out. The tail should have a strong root, a straight, fine, stiff body, and a pointed tip. Colour, of course, is a pure matter of taste; but most sportsmen prefer dogs with a good deal of white, as they show up better. Whole colours are liver, red, black, and white. Liver and white, and lemon and white, are the most common; then black and white.

Setters are classed as English, Scotch, and Irish. The head is lighter than the pointers, and somewhat narrower across the ears, though equally high at the forehead. The nose is long, with a slight tendency to incline towards the eyes, the corners of which should be not less than four inches from its tip, which should be broad, with large open nostrils, and of dark colour and well bedewed with moisture. The lips should be full at the angles, but not so pendulous as the pointers; the ears about six inches long, rounded at the angles, set low and well forward; the eyes large and full of bright, sparkling intelligence; and the neck long and thin and slightly arched, but showing a clean cut line at its junction with the head.

The chest is rarely so wide or barrelled as it is in the pointer, but the hips are more ragged, and the loins rather more arched. The hare-footed setter is best adapted for Highland sport, and possibly for all other sport as well. The tail should be set well up the back, and the feathering should be flat, long, and soft—tapering both ways from the centre—and should be carried (like the pointer's) without the slightest curl in the world. A fine silky-looking but hardish-feeling coat, with little or no curl, enhances the value very much.

English setters are of the following colours, viz. :—Orange and white, lemon and white, black and white, Belton greys (black and white, slightly ticked with tan spots on feet and legs), pure white, black, yellow, liver, liver and white, and liver and tan.

Scotch setters (Gordon setters) are either rich black and tan, or black, white and tan, and have slightly heavier heads than the English dog, although equally lively and intelligent.

Irish setters are chiefly of blood-red colour.

Properly-trained dogs should stand as if turned to stone the moment they come into contact with the slightest scent of game, and should be perfectly steady "to bird, dog, and gun," which implies, "firstly, standing singly to a bird or covey; secondly, to backing or pointing instantaneously the moment they perceive another dog point; and lastly, not to stir from their point upon the firing of any gun in company, provided the game is neither sprung nor started at which the original point is made."

The best way to ensure getting good dogs is to purchase them of private breeders or at the sales of well-known sportsmen's surplus stocks, which are mostly held at Aldridge's in St. Martin's-lane during the early part of summer. You thereby run no risk of becoming the owner of some sorry brutes warranted to stand "dead" at grub only and as old as their vendor, which will get knocked all to pieces in the first hour or so, spoil your sport completely, give the moor a bad name perhaps, and cause your keeper to indulge in Gaelic profanity of the worst description—behind your back, of course. It is no advantage to become the possessor of a Tommie-beg performing dog when one is not in the line—in the “show bizness,” to quote Artemus Ward. So beware of the fancy when dealing with them.

The usual charge for hiring dogs for the Scotch moors is sixteen guineas a brace for the whole season or part of the season only, the lessee paying for the keep of the dogs during the time he has them in his possession.

Never chain up a puppy if you wish him to grow into symmetrical form; he will only pull himself out of all true shape.

Feed full-grown dogs once a-day only, making oatmeal porridge their staple food. Always well boil any animal food given them. Let your dogs have plenty bones to gnaw, and plenty fresh water to drink.

Kennels should be warm, thoroughly ventilated but free from draught, and kept scrupulously clean, also disinfected regularly. A damp kennel produces rheumatism, kennel soreness, liver complaints, &c.

When dogs are sick or ailing a little don't give them dry, rich, or fat food. Condiments, as a rule, almost are as bad for dogs as for men. Never physic your dog every time he seems ailing a little.

RECIPES.

CONSTIPATION.—Aloes and Rhubarb, 10 to 20 grains.

DEBILITY.—Cod-liver Oil.

DIARRHŒA.—Spirits of Camphor 2 drs., Laudanum $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., Sal-volatile 2 drs., Tinct. of Bark 1 oz. Mix; 20 drops in a tea-spoonful of water every three or four hours. Food—oatmeal porridge well boiled, and milk.

EMETIC.— $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ gr. Tartar Emetic. Emetics should be used very sparingly, as they frequently do more harm than good.

FLEAS.—Nothing in the world better than Keating's Insect Powder.

GLANDULAR SWELLINGS.—Tinct. of Iodine—paint the swellings daily with it.

MANGE.—(Red.)—Iodide of Mercury (green), 1 part to 7 of lard rubbed well in daily ; giving Fowler's Solution of Arsenic in food twice a-day, say 2 to 8 drops.

(Blotch.)—A lotion composed of Carbolic Acid and Glycerine 1 oz., water 3 pints, and Carbonate of Potash 2 drs., should be applied over the whole surface affected twice a-day ; washing the dog every three days with soap-and-water containing a teaspoonful of Carbonate of Soda to every quart of water used. Glycerine by itself is often very useful for Blotch.

PAIN.—For relief of pain, Syrup of Poppies is useful and safe, 5 to 30 drops.

RHEUMATISM.—Stiffness, sprains, &c., a liniment of equal parts of Turpentine, Rape Oil, Hartshorn, and Laudanum is excellent, or Tincture of Arnica in the proportion of 1 part to 10 or 20 of water. Sloppy, nourishing food is best.

TONICS.—Gentian Extract 1 to 5 grains, or Nux Vomica Tinct. 5 to 30 drops, or Quassia 1 to 5 grains, or Quinine $\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 grains. Do not give quinine when there is any irritability of the stomach or bowels.

CONCERNING GAME.

THE bird of the Highlands is indisputably the red grouse, and many Highland landowners owe a good part of their income to it. It is a truly British bird, and is found in no other part of the world save England, Scotland, and Ireland. Nowadays it is as much the fashion to have a moor in Scotland as a house in town, and the fashion is a wholesome one in every respect, bringing renewed health and strength to all who join in it, besides doing a vast deal of good to all the sporting localities—the lairds and the railway companies, and the shooting agents as well.

A sort of fixed rule in appraising the value of moors in most counties is that a brace of grouse represents a pound sterling; so that any place yielding 500 brace would be valued at £500, including house, stabling, &c., the sportsman having the run of any other game on the property, and paying the wages of the keeper, the expense of the garden, and one-half of the rates and taxes affecting his lease only. Stags are generally valued at, in regular forests, £30 to £40 a-piece; so that any deer forest yielding 100 stags would be rented at from £3000 to £4000, although some sportsmen pay much higher prices.

Don't begin grouse shooting till after nine o'clock in the morning.

If you are a stranger to your moor, give heed to what the gamekeeper and shepherds tell you about the haunts and habits of the grouse.

However good your ground may be, do not shoot over it more than twice a-week, or thrice at the very most.

The most likely places for grouse are patches of old and young heather, with springs and pools of water about.

Black-game are partial to moist flats.

The most likely places for partridges are the wheat-stubbles and turnips, but they often lie well on the fallows, near the hedgerows in particular.

"Snipe lie best in windy weather, when the shooter should always be down wind, as the birds when sprung generally face it, and thus present finer and often cross shots."

"PHEASANTS IN AVIARIES.—In constructing an aviary select ground free from damp, and with a southerly aspect. Four or five hens will be sufficient for each cock ; place them in pens not less than twenty feet square. If you are unable to give them frequent change of ground, be sure and see that the pens are kept quite clean, and a liberal supply of lime or old mortar spread about ; gravel or drift sand should also be given to help digestion. Furze bushes in the centre and at each corner of the pen for the birds to run under, and one or more round poles for roosting. The sides should be made of latticed laths, not wire netting, and the partitions between the pens blinded, to prevent the cocks pecking each other. If a covering is used it should be made of string netting."

The following recipes will be found very serviceable for the complaints of pheasants—indeed for all kinds of poultry :—

GAPES, ROUP, AND CROUP.—Two handfuls each of rue, wormwood, and rusty nails ; sixpenny-worth each of gentian-root and saffron. Boil together for three-quarters of an hour in six quarts of water over a slow fire, then strain the liquid, and when cold bottle it ; it will keep. Dose : Half a pint for one hundred head, mixed with food. It is claimed for this medicine that it will both cure and prevent the above complaints.

CRAMP.—One part each of powdered alum, Friar's balsam, and oil of thyme ; mix and bottle. Dress the joints, feet, and heads of the sickly birds with the mixture once a day, using a feather for the purpose ; and also gargle their mouths with it.

CONCERNING ANGLING.

GOOD salmon-fishing nowadays is almost as expensive a luxury as deer-stalking, and is quite as eagerly sought after and harder to get. For some favourite stretches of the rivers Tay, Tweed, Dee, and Spey fabulous prices are willingly paid, and the six beats into which the river Lochy and its tributary, the Spean, is divided, generally fetches £1800 a-year, being about £160 a mile. The Thurso is also a very highly-priced river, and so is the Naver. Of late years, however, the quality of the sport has fallen off very considerably, and an ugly fungus disease has become epidemic in some rivers, and threatens to spread itself everywhere if piscatory scientists do not discover the cause and, what is better, the remedy.

It is a good rule in fly-fishing never to remain very long at one particular spot. When you have the water, take the best streams and fish them carefully, but as quickly as you can.

The best and pleasantest, and indeed the only efficient, mode is to fish down river, no matter what may be said by many fishermen against it.

A salmon will rise again and again at the fly after it has once missed it, provided it is not pricked by the hook ; but trout seldom do so. It is better therefore, when fishing for the latter, and a big fellow rises and misses your fly, to allow it a little time to regain its former position before casting again.

When the salmon takes a fly, the angler must immediately give it line, and bear particularly in mind that the slightest degree of rashness at this moment will lose the fish. It is only by giving it gentle tugs and letting it feel the weight and pressure of the rod and line that you can make it rush about until its strength is exhausted.

A double-handed rod of from 16 to 18 feet in length is best suited for salmon fishing.

A single-handed rod ought to be from 12 to 15 feet in length.

A pike rod ought to be strong and stiff, and as straight as an arrow; length, 14 feet.

A trout rod for minnow should be from 12 to 16 feet long, firm and elastic, but not nearly so elastic as a fly-rod.

The best line after all perhaps is horse-hair; it always falls lightly on the water, and in trout fishing that is almost everything.

Big fish are seldom found in streams; the end of a good long stretch of water where there is a bed of gravel is the favourite locality.

The best fishing reel ever invented is P. D. Malloch's (of Perth) Sun and Planet reel—a perfect marvel of ingenuity.

The most rare fish in Scottish waters is the Vendeace, which is found only in two lochs—viz., Castle Loch and Mill Loch, in Dumfriesshire—and is said to be known nowhere else. "It is of such delicate organisation that all attempts to transport it to other waters have proved abortive. It is a beautiful fish, from four to six inches in length, and of a bright silvery appearance, with a slight tendency to light blue along the back and sides. Upon the top of the head there is a very delicate shape of a heart, covered with a transparent substance of brownish colour resembling a thin lamina of mica slate, through which the brain is visible. Nothing visible to the naked eye is found in the stomach, and their food is supposed to consist of incredibly minute Entromostracea. Overlooking the fact that the Vendeace dies the moment it is touched or brought in contact with the air, and has defied transportation, the country people speak of its having been brought by one of the James's from Vendois in France."

The Char is found in several lochs throughout the Highlands, including Lochs Achilty, Bruaich, Calder, Coulin, Doine, Duntelchaig, Glass, Katrine, Knockie, Lee, Lubnaig, Lundy, Rosque, and Tarff ; and is a very handsome fish, spotted like a trout. It attains a respectable size, say fifteen to sixteen inches in length, and is very toothsome, and epicures attach high value to it.

C

CLOSE TIME FOR GAME.

Black-game	11th Dec. to 19th Aug.
Grouse	11th Dec. to 11th Aug.
Landrail	2nd March to 31st July.
Partridge	2nd Feb. to 31st Aug.
Pheasant	2nd Feb. to 30th Sept.

Offenders against the Acts refusing their names and addresses are liable to a further penalty of ten shillings.

The Acts do not apply to persons shooting on their own property, or to persons authorised by them to shoot, any wild bird which is not included in the foregoing list.

SALMON FISHERIES COMMISSIONERS.

JAS. LESLIE, Esq., C.E., 72A, George-street, Edinburgh.

H. GORDON CUMMING, Esq., Pittyvach, Dufftown.

ARCH. YOUNG, Esq., 22, Royal Circus, Edinburgh.

There are 120 fishery districts in Scotland.

The annual close time must never be less than 168 days.

The weekly close time for nets is 36 hours, being from 6 p.m. on Saturday to 6 a.m. on Monday.

No fresh salmon may be sold after 3rd Sept., unless the vendor can prove that it came from beyond the seas.

Roe is prohibited as a bait for salmon.

The word salmon includes all migratory Salmonidæ.

Spears, lights, snatches, and similar nefarious instruments are prohibited.

„ „ 6 oz.	„	8 oz.	...	3d.
„ „ 8 oz.	„	10 oz.	...	3½d.
„ „ 10 oz.	„	12 oz.	...	4d.

A letter above the weight of 12 oz. is liable to a postage of 1d. for every ounce, beginning with the first ounce.

(2.) A letter posted unpaid is chargeable on delivery with double postage; and a letter posted insufficiently prepaid is chargeable with double the deficiency.

(3.) No letter may be above 18 inches in length, 9 inches in width, or 6 inches in depth, unless it be sent to or from one of the Government Offices.

NEWSPAPERS.

A postage of one halfpenny is charged for each daily or weekly registered newspapers within this country. The postage must be prepaid by stamp or stamped wrapper. The prepaid rate for a packet containing two or more registered newspapers is one halfpenny for each newspaper, or, if each weigh less than 2 oz., then at the book postage rate of one halfpenny for every 2 oz. No packet must exceed two feet in length, or one foot in width or depth, or 14 lbs. in weight. Newspapers must contain no writing of the nature of a letter. Stamped halfpenny newspaper wrappers may be had singly at $\frac{3}{4}$ d., 3 for $1\frac{3}{4}$ d., 6 for $3\frac{1}{2}$ d., 12 for 7d.; or with the penny stamp singly $1\frac{1}{4}$ d., 2 for $2\frac{1}{4}$ d., 4 for $4\frac{1}{4}$ d., 8 for $8\frac{1}{2}$ d.

Newspapers for abroad must be posted within eight days of publication. If posted after eight days, book postage rates must be paid.

BOOK POST.

The prepaid postage for a book or packet of books, paper, printed matter, manuscript, circulars, or photographs (when not on glass, or in cases containing glass, or any like substance), including binding and mounting, is one halfpenny for every 2 oz., or fraction of that weight. No packet of "printed matter of any kind" must exceed 5 lbs. in weight, eighteen inches in length, six inches in depth, or nine inches in width.

POST-CARDS.

Post-cards for the United Kingdom are sold in packets at 7d. and 8d. per dozen, and may be had singly.

LATE LETTERS.

At the General Post Office letters for the provinces to go the same night may be posted after 6 and before 7.45 p.m., if, in addition to the ordinary postage, they bear an additional halfpenny stamp. The charge for foreign and colonial letters, if posted after 6 and before 7, is one penny; till 7.15, twopence; till 7.30, threepence; and in special boxes at Cannon Street and Charing Cross Railway Stations up to 8.15, with a sixpenny late fee in stamps.

TELEGRAPHS.

Telegrams may be sent to all parts of the United Kingdom, at 1s. for twenty words, and 3d. extra for every five words additional. This charge includes the name of the sender and receiver, and delivery within one mile of the office—beyond that limit the charge is 6d. per mile for the first three miles; if three or more miles, at the rate of 1s. per mile. At the chief office in London and in all large towns, telegrams are received and forwarded on Sundays. They are not delivered after 8 p.m., unless the sender expresses the wish on the telegram.

INDIAN PARCEL POST.

Parcels not exceeding 2 ft. by 1 ft. by 1 ft., nor weighing more than 50 lbs., will be delivered at any post town in British India, Aden, British Burmah, and Ceylon, at 1s. per lb., provided the value is not above £50. Jewellery, gold and silver ware, watches, or precious stones are charged an additional rate of 1s. for every £5 value. Books, 6d. per lb. These parcels must be delivered, free of cost, at the offices of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Company, 122, Leadenhall-street, or at the Branch Office, 25, Cockspur-street, by Monday in each week, marked, To be forwarded by the Indian Parcel Post, charges prepaid or not, at the option of the senders. They can be insured, for 1s. up to £3; for 2s. 6d., up to £10; and for 5s., up to £20.

The Parcel Post is now extended to Penang, Singapore, Malacca, Perak, Selangore, and Sungie Ujong; but the rate is 1s 4d. per lb., or fraction of a lb., on all parcels, whether containing books or otherwise. Jewellery, &c., charged the same rate as in India.

TO ESTIMATE THE WEIGHT OF A STACK OF HAY.

To the height in feet to the eaves add one-half of the height from the eaves to the ridge. Multiply the product first by the length in feet, then by the width in feet, and divide the product by 27, which will give the contents of the stack in cubic yards. A yard of new hay averages 6 stones (of 22 lbs.) in weight, and old hay from 8 to 9 stones; therefore, to find the weight of the stack, the number of cubic yards must be multiplied by from 6 to 9, according to the age of the hay.

TO FIND THE CAPACITY OF A CASK.

Add together, 25 times the square of the diameter in inches at the head; 39 times the square of the diameter in inches at the bung; and 26 times the product of these two diameters. Multiply the result by the length in inches and then by '00003147, the product being the capacity of the cask in gallons.

TO FIND THE AREA OF A FOUR-SIDED FIELD.

Take the average of the lengths in yards of the opposite sides of the fields, multiply the two averages together, and divide the product by 1210—the result being the area of the field in roods.

For example, the N. side of a field is 100 yards long, the S. side 200 yards, the E. 800 yards, and the W. 1200 yards. The average of the N. and S. sides would be 150 yards, that of the E. and W. 1000 yards. Then $150 \times 1000 = 150,000 \div 1210 = 124$ roods nearly, or nearly 31 acres.

TO ASCERTAIN THE CONTENTS OF RECTANGULAR VESSELS.

Multiply together the length, breadth, and depth in inches, and divide the result by 277·274 (the number of cubic inches in an imperial gallon), which will give the contents in gallons.

TO ASCERTAIN THE CONTENTS OF WELLS AND CIRCULAR VESSELS.

Multiply the square of the diameter in inches by the depth in inches. Multiply the result by ·7854, and then divide by 277·274 (the number of cubic inches in a gallon), which will give the contents in imperial gallons.

TO ASCERTAIN THE WEIGHT OF CATTLE.

Take the measurement of the girth where it is smallest (close behind the shoulder), and the length from the front of the shoulder to the juncture of the tail. Multiply the square of the girth in feet and inches by the length in feet, and multiply the product by '23, '24, '26, '28, or '30, according to the fatness of the animal, and the result will give the weight in imperial stones.

For instance, if the girth of an animal in moderate condition be 6 ft., the length as above 5 ft. 4 in., then $6 \times 6 = 36 \times 5 \frac{1}{3} = 192 \times '24 = 46\cdot08$ stones.

This is the Carcase Weight of the animal. The weight of the carcase would be, about $\frac{5}{8}$ ths of the live weight for cattle ; for sheep, from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{5}{8}$ ths ; and for a pig, from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ ths of the live weight.

HOTELS AND THE TARIFFS.

It is true that the charges made by the hotel-keepers in the Highlands are usually of the highest order, but it should be kept in mind that their season is extremely short, and that it is absolutely necessary for them to adopt tariffs which, while laying them open to the charge of extortionate, enable them to keep open their houses, furnished comfortably, and well-found in every particular, thereby adding greatly to the comfort and convenience of the travelling community. It is not quite so bad when one gets comfort in return for payment, however high.

It is impossible to quote the tariffs in vogue at the various hotels, but the undernoted charges may be accepted as a fair criterion of what they usually are :—

ABERDEENSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

ABERDEENSHIRE is the fifth largest county in Scotland, and the tenth largest in the United Kingdom. It is the best cattle raising county in Scotland, and exports to London and other parts of the country about £1,000,000 worth of live and dead meat annually. Nearly 130,000 acres are under natural wood, for the most part fir and birch. It contains the highest group of mountains in the British Isles, viz., Ben Mac Dui (4296), Braeriach (4248), Cairntoul (4241), Cairngorm (4084), Ben a' Bourd (3924), and Ben Avon (3920). As a rule the scenery is tame and uninteresting, except in the interior—in the vicinities of Braemar and Ballater—where it is as fine as any in the Highlands. The climate in the Valley of the Dee is famed for its salubrity. About Peterhead the coast is remarkably rugged and grand.

There are many places of deep interest and many splendid mansions in Aberdeenshire, amongst which are the following, viz.:—The cities of Old and New Aberdeen; the Barmekyne of Echt, with five concentric ramparts of stone enclosing its summit; Aboyne Castle, the seat of the Marquis of Huntly, an imposing-looking turretted structure; Newe Castle, the seat of Sir Charles J. Forbes, Bart., an exceedingly fine building, with beautiful gardens and pleasure grounds (via Alford); Culter House, situated amid fine old trees, and dating back to the reign of King Robert I. (via Aberdeen); the Roman Camp of Norinan Dikes (via Aberdeen); the farmhouse of Ballantrich, where Byron spent his early days (via Ballater); the Burn of Vat, a weird-looking chasm in the Culblein Hills, near Dinnat ; Abergeldie Castle, the Highland residence of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales ; Balmoral Castle, Her Majesty's Highland home ; Glenmuick House, a beautifully situated and spacious modern residence, the seat of J. T. McKenzie, Esq., of Kintail ; Invercauld House, the seat of Lieut.-Colonel Farquharson, perhaps the finest situated mansion in the county ; the Bullers of Buchan, near Peterhead, a huge natural cauldron into which the sea dashes with terrific noise ; Slains New Castle, the seat of the Earl of Erroll, picturesquely situated on a precipitous cliff overlooking the sea ; the battle-field of Harlaw (via Inveramsay) ; Fyvie Castle, the seat of W. C. Gordon, Esq., considered one of the finest baronial structures in Scotland ; the celebrated Shelter Stone, at the foot of Ben Mac Dui, and near the west end of Loch Avon ; the Falls of Garawault and Corriemoilzie (via Braemar) ; the Linns of Dee and Quoich (via Braemar) ; the Linn of Muick (via Ballater) ; and the ruins of the "auld house o' Gicht," Byron's mother's patrimony ; and of the Tower of Balquhain (via Inverurie), Barclay Castle (via Auchterless), Corgarf Castle (via Alford), Corse Castle (via Dess), Coul Castle (via Aboyne), Deer Abbey (via Maud), Dunnideer Castle (via Inch), Glenbucket Castle (via Alford), Harthill Tower (via Inch), Halforest Tower (via Kintore), Huntly Castle (via Huntly) Kildrummie Castle (via Alford), Lesmore Castle (via Gartly), Pitsligo Castle (via Fraserburgh), Tillycairn Castle (via Monymusk), Towie Castle (via Alford), and Slains Old Castle (via Ellon).

There are no lochs of any importance in Aberdeenshire. The principal rivers are the Dee (86 miles), Don (80 miles), and Ythan (40 miles).

The principal deer forests are those of Mar (Earl of Fife), Invercauld (Lieut.-Col. J. R. Farquharson), Glenmuick (J. T. McKenzie, Esq.), Glentanar (W. C. Brooks, Esq., M.P.), and Ballochbuie (H.R.H. Prince of Wales) ; and among the best grouse moors are those of Allargue (C. H. Anderson, Esq.), Candacraig (A. C. Barclay, Esq.), Delnadamph, Edinglassie, Gairnshiel, Glencallatur, Glenmarkie, Huntly Lodge, Inverernan, and Morven (the Messrs. James).

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £30,000.

The following hotels have good angling in connection with them, viz.:—The Fife Arms Hotel, Braemar; the Invercauld Arms Hotel, Braemar; the Forbes Arms Hotel, Alford; and the Inn at Longside.

THE SHOOTINGS OF ABERDEENSHIRE.

ABOYNE.

THIS splendid shooting extends to about 20,000 acres, and forms one of the most desirable sporting places in the United Kingdom.

The game comprises grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, plover, roe deer, &c. Probable bag in good seasons, 1400 grouse, 100 black-game, 400 pheasants, 1000 partridges, 100 woodcock, 200 snipe, 100 ducks, 100 plover, and 40 roe deer, besides other kinds.

The fishing is in the River Dee, and generally yields splendid sport, say 200 salmon.

The Castle is a very fine turretted building, beautifully situated, about one mile from Aboyne Station on the Deeside Railway. It contains dining-room, 2 drawing-rooms, morning-room, billiard-room, business-room, 15 bed-rooms, 8 dressing-rooms, bath-rooms, smoking-rooms, housekeeper's-room, still-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, &c., &c. The stabling consists of 15 stalls and 2 loose boxes, coach-houses, harness-room, and rooms for coachmen and grooms.

There are excellent kennels. The gardens are very fine, and contain vineries, peach-houses, &c., and the pleasure grounds are beautifully laid out and extensive.

The scenery of Deeside is too well known to need description, and the climate is famed for its salubrity.

The shootings are divided into 9 grouse beats, each large enough for 2 guns over dogs, 10 partridge beats, each large enough for 7 guns in line, and 6 beats of covert.

The fisheries extend to three miles of the north bank of the river, and 2 miles of both banks.

In the immediate vicinity and within easy distance of the Castle there are many delightful and charming spots, such as the Fungal Glen, Glen Tanar, the stack of Tilly Lodge, from which a grand view of the Valley of the Dee is obtained, Morven Top (2880), Ballantrich, the cradle of Byron ; Loch-nagar, and the Falls of Muick.

ALLARGUE.

This shooting, situated in Strathdon, extends to about 6000 acres, and in favourable seasons should yield 650 to 750 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, ducks, snipe, &c.

There is very good trout fishing in the River Don, which bounds the property for some distance.

The Lodge, which has been much improved recently, is very good and comfortable, and there are stables, kennels, and a small garden.

It is about 26 miles from Alford and 13 from Ballater, both stations on the Great North of Scotland Railway. Postal address, Gartly.

ARNAGE.

Arnage House contains 4 public rooms, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, servants' hall, pantry, 3 servants'-rooms, &c.

The offices comprise a four stall-stable, a coach-house, and groom's room.

There is an excellent garden.

The shootings extend to about 2000 acres of low country, which should yield about 1000 head of all kinds of game. Arnage Station, on the Great North of Scotland Railway, is about half a mile from the house, and the town of Ellon about five miles.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Ellon, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

BALFOUR.

The House is charmingly situated about three miles from the Aboyne Station of the Deeside Railway, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, 5 bed-rooms, bath-room, with the usual servants' accommodation.

There is a coach-house and four-stalled stable, harness-room, &c., and the garden is productive.

The shootings extend over about 1300 acres, of which 900 are wood, abounding with roe deer, and the low ground shooting is good.

There is a postal and telegraph office at Aboyne, where most kinds of supplies can be obtained.

BREDA.

The House is finely situated, about two miles from the town and railway station of Alford; and contains 3 sitting-rooms, 7 bed-rooms, and 1 dressing-room, besides servants' rooms and domestic offices. There are stables, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 2000 acres, the game consisting of grouse, black-game, partridges, wildfowl, snipe, &c. Probable bag, 100 brace of grouse and black-game, and 100 brace of partridges, besides other game.

There is good salmon and trout fishing in $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of one bank of the River Don, and in one mile of a tributary stream.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Alford, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

BYTH.

Byth House contains 3 public rooms, 6 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 4 servants' rooms, kitchen, housekeeper's-room, pantry, hall, &c.

There is a three-stall stable, with coach-house, harness-room, and also a large and productive garden.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres, principally low country, but a few grouse may also be got.

King Edward Station, on the Great North of Scotland Railway, is within 5 miles of the house, and the town of Turriff is within 8 miles.

CAIRNHILL.

This shooting extends to about 2000 acres, of which 100 acres are moor, the remainder being low country.

There is no Lodge, but excellent accommodation can be got at Turriff, near the ground, where there is a railway station and postal and telegraph office.

CASTLE FRASER.

Castle Fraser is a very large and commodious structure, containing drawing-room, dining-room, school-room, with study, 3 large bed-rooms, and large dressing-rooms with beds, on drawing-room floor; 10 bed-rooms, and library upstairs. On ground floor, gun-room, kitchen, scullery, housekeeper's-room, with bed-room beyond, pantry with bed, servants' hall with bed, footman's room, three other servants' room, making five beds; dairy, cheese-room, wine, beer, and coal-cellar, meat, game, and poultry larders, boot and knife houses, and housemaids closets, six w.c.'s, and two for servants.

It stands in a warm, healthy, and picturesque situation, amidst beautiful woods and grounds.

There are two grape houses, and a productive kitchen garden.

The stabling consists of two coach-houses, harness-room, accommodation for seven horses, and helper's room, with two beds.

In the village of Kemnay, about three miles distant, are railway-station and post-office, with {two posts per diem. Inverurie is distant seven miles, and Aberdeen fifteen.

The shootings extend over about 3000 acres, and the game consists of pheasants, partridges, hares, rabbits, woodcock, wild duck, and occasionally roe deer.

Salmon and trout fishing can usually be hired in the River Don.

CORSE.

The Mansion House of Corse contains dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, business-room, 5 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 2 nurseries, housekeeper's-room, bath-room, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are stables, kennels, garden, conservatory, &c.

The shootings extend to about 4000 acres, of which 2700 acres are arable, 1000 acres wood, and 200 acres moor, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, roe deer, woodcocks, &c. The low country sport is very fair.

Lumphanan, where there is a railway station and postal and telegraph office, is within $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the house, and most kinds of supplies can be obtained there.

CORSINDAE.

The Mansion House of Corsindae contains every accommodation for a large family, and is prettily situated about four miles and a half from Aberdeen, where supplies of every description can be obtained.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres, of which 1000 acres are grouse moor, the remainder being arable land, pasture, and woods. Probable bag, 100 to 120 brace of grouse, and 300 to 500 brace of partridges, in addition to other game.

There is only a small stream for trout, but salmon fishing in the River Dee can generally be rented, and within handy driving distance of the house.

COUNTESSWELLS.

The House, which is well built, large, and commodious, is delightfully situated about 4 miles from Aberdeen, and surrounded by very fine timber and charming pleasure grounds.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres of low country, of which about 750 acres are under wood, and the sport obtained is generally very good.

There is excellent stabling.

Cults Station, of the Deeside Railway, is within two miles of the House.

CRAIGMYLE.

The House is pleasantly situated near the Hill of Fare, about 3 miles from Glassel and Torphins Stations on the Deeside Railway. It contains drawing-room, dining-room, library, smoking-room, sitting-room, 7 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 4 servants'-rooms, kitchen, scullery, laundry, pantry, &c., and there are stables, coach-house, garden, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 2750 acres, of which 700 acres are grouse ground, the remainder being arable land and woods. Probable bag, 100 brace of grouse and 200 brace of partridges, besides other game.

There is good trout fishing in the Burn of Beltie, which partly bounds the property.

Supplies can be got at Torphins, or by rail from Aberdeen.

CULTER.

Culter House is situated about 1 mile from Millitimer Station of the Deeside Railway, and is a fine old-fashioned mansion, dating back to the reign of Robert I., and standing amid extensive and well-timbered pleasure grounds. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, sitting-rooms, 15 bed-rooms, counting servants'-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, &c.

There are stables, coach-house, kennels, and good garden.

The shooting, which is low ground, extends to about 1800 acres, and in a good season should yield 200 brace of partridges, in addition to other game.

There is about 1 mile of capital salmon fishing in the River Dee.

CUSHNIE.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, 5 bed-rooms, 3 servants'-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, &c.

There are stables, coach-house, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres, of which about 2750 acres are hill ground, and 2250 low country. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, wildfowl, roe deer, &c. The sport is generally sufficient for two guns.

There is a daily post to and from Aberdeen, and at Alford, 7 miles distant, all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

Alford is a railway station and postal and telegraph office.

DELNADAMPH.

This splendid grouse moor, situated in Strathdon, extends to about 9000 acres of first-class ground, and in a favourable season is probably the best moor in Scotland. In 1872 7000 brace were killed, 4000 brace of which were shot to dogs, and 3000 brace driving. In 1878 about 1400 brace were killed, and 7 stags, and but for the party devoting considerable time to stalking, probably 2000 brace would have been got, although the season was rather unfavourable. The other game comprises black-game, ducks, and snipe.

There is very fair trout fishing in the River Don.

The Lodge contains 1 large sitting-room and 4 bed-rooms, an excellent kitchen, 2 or 3 servants'-rooms, hall, &c.

Ballater is the nearest railway station, distant 15 miles, by a hilly but otherwise good road. The postal address is Gartly. Supplies are best obtained by rail from Aberdeen via Ballater.

EDINGLASSIE.

This first-class grouse shooting extends to about 15,000 acres, and should yield in a good season 1000 to 1200 brace, besides black-game, partridges, hares, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in about 6 miles of the River Don, and a tributary stream.

The House is delightfully situated in Strathdon, and contains drawing-room, dining-room, 14 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms (counting servants'-rooms), housekeeper's-room, kitchen and scullery, butler's pantry, &c., and outside there are gun-room, bed-room, laundry, and wash-house.

There is a 6-stall stable, with coach-house, harness-room, and 3 servants'-rooms, over stables, kennels, and also garden.

The nearest railway station is Alford, distant about 20 miles by a very charming drive.

FINDRACK.

The House is finely situate within two miles of the Lumphanan and Torphins Stations of the Deeside Railway, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, sitting-room, bath-room, school-room, kitchen, pantry, 6 bedrooms, 2 dressing-rooms, bath-room, servants'-rooms, &c

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, and garden.

The shootings are fairly large, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, roe-deer, &c. Probable bag, 150 to 200 grouse and black-game, and 150 partridges, besides other kinds.

There is fairly good trout fishing in the Beltie burn, which flows through the estate.

There are postal and telegraph offices at both Lumphanan and Torphins, where supplies may also be had.

FOVERAN.

The shootings of Foveran extend to about 1500 acres, and generally yield very fair low country sport.

There is first-rate sea trout fishing in the River Ythan, and good trout fishing in the Foveran burn.

The House contains 3 public rooms, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants'-hall, butler's pantry, &c., &c. ; and there are also stables, and an excellent garden.

It is twelve miles from Aberdeen by the Ellon-road, and coaches to and from Aberdeen and Newburgh pass the lodge gate daily.

There are excellent facilities for sea bathing, the House being within pleasant walking distance of the sea-shore.

GAIRNSHIEL.

This first-class shooting is of considerable extent, and in favourable seasons yields large bags of grouse in addition to black-game, &c.

There is fair trout fishing in the River Gairn.

The Lodge is situated about 5 miles from Ballater on the Deeside Railway, amid very fine scenery, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, hall, pantry, kitchen, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and kennels.

There is a postal and telegraph office at Ballater. Supplies are best got from Aberdeen.

GLACK.

The House is an excellent one, charmingly situated, about 4 miles from the village and railway station of Inverurie on the Great North of Scotland line.

The offices are good, and there is an excellent garden.

The shootings extend to about 1600 acres, and generally yield good sport.

GLENBUCKET.

This splendid shooting extends to about 15,000 acres, of which about 13,000 acres are grouse ground, and 2000 arable and woods. The game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, plover, ducks, &c.

Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 1500 brace. In 1872 5205 brace were killed, the total bag being 10,800 head.

There is excellent salmon and trout fishing in about one mile of the River Don, and trout fishing in the River Bucket.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, &c., &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, and a keeper's house of 5 rooms and kitchen.

The Lodge is about 22 miles from the village and railway station of Alford, and 21 miles from Gartly Station.

HADDO.

Haddo House is situated about 9 miles from Turriff and Huntly, both stations on the Great North of Scotland Railway, and contains 4 public rooms, 10 bed-rooms, 5 dressing-rooms, servants' hall and bed-rooms, butler's pantry, kitchen, and scullery, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 1100 acres of low country, and there is about one mile of salmon fishing in the River Deveron.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Turriff or Huntly, which are postal and telegraph towns.

HUNTLY LODGE.

The House is pleasantly situated in the village of Charleston of Aboyne, but is in no way overlooked. It contains 3 sitting-rooms and 10 bed-rooms, with the usual domestic offices.

There are also stables, kennels, and good garden.

The shootings extend to about 11,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, roe deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 800 to 1000 brace.

There is first-class salmon fishing in several miles of the River Dee.

The railway station at Aboyne is about half a mile from the House, and there is a postal and telegraph office there also. Supplies can be obtained in the neighbourhood or by rail from Aberdeen. The scenery and climate are everything that can be desired.

INVERERNAN.

The House, which is delightfully situated in Strathdon, is about 20 miles from the railway station of Alford on the Great North of Scotland line, and contains 3 public rooms, 9 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, servants'-rooms, &c.

There is stabling for 10 horses, also an excellent garden and good kennels.

The shootings extend to about 10,000 acres of first-class grouse moor, which has yielded 1500 brace. The other game consists of black-game, snipe, ducks, woodcocks, hares, rabbits, roe deer, &c., and there is rather more than the proverbial off-chance of red deer as a few can generally be depended on.

The trout fishing is first rate, and comprises the River Don and its tributaries, the Conry, Ernan, and Nochtly.

Dinnat, 15 miles off on the Deeside Railway, is the nearest station ; but the road from Alford, although much longer, is an easier one to drive.

Alford is a considerable village, with shops, churches, and postal and telegraph office.

This shooting is frequently let along with a smaller house, called Forbes Lodge.

KEITH.

This splendid residence is situated about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Inverurie Station on the Great North of Scotland Railway, and 16 miles from Aberdeen, and contains library, drawing-room, dining-room, billiard-room, smoking-room, school-room, boudoir, entrance-hall, 14 bed-rooms, 5 dressing-rooms, housekeeper's room, butler's room, still-room, servant's hall, butler's pantry, 2 nurseries, housemaid's closet, kitchen, scullery, &c., 11 servants'-rooms, 2 wine and beer cellars, laundry and washing-house, &c.

There is stabling for 12 horses, with 2 loose boxes, harness-room, 3 coach-houses, and 5 rooms for stablemen.

The house and stabling are lighted with gas, the gardens, greenhouses, and vineries are very extensive, and the pleasure-grounds are beautifully designed and laid out with ornamental woods, artificial lakes, and shrubberies.

The shootings extend to about 8000 acres of low country, and in good seasons should yield about 200 brace of partridges, 100 brace of pheasants, 50 couple of ducks, and 20 couple of snipe, besides hares, &c., or in all about 2000 head.

There is excellent salmon and splendid trout fishing in about 8 miles of the River Don, counting the distance along each bank.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Inverurie, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

KNOCKESPOCK.

The Mansion House of Knockespoock is situated about 4 miles from Kennethmount Station on the Great North of Scotland Railway, and about 12 miles from Huntly, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained. It contains 3 public rooms, 10 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c.

There are also stables, coach-houses, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres, one-half of which is grouse moor, of good quality, the remainder being low country. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, hares, &c.

LICKLEYHEAD.

Lickleyhead Castle is about two and a half miles distant from the Insch Station of the Great North of Scotland Railway.

It contains 2 public rooms, smoking-room, 6 bed-rooms, 3 w.c.'s, and ample kitchen and servants' accommodation.

There are washing-house, laundry, four-stalled stable, coach-house, and harness-room, and two bed-rooms for coachman and groom.

The grouse shooting extends over about 1000 acres of the Hill of Benachie, and the low ground is about 1200 acres in extent. Two hundred to three hundred brace of grouse, and about 200 brace of partridges may be killed in ordinary years. The other game comprises hares, rabbits, roe deer, black-game, woodcocks, and snipe.

LINTON.

The Mansion House of Linton contains 4 public rooms, 8 bed-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and very excellent gardens.

The shootings extend to about 1500 acres, chiefly low country, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, &c.

The nearest railway station is Monymusk on the Great North of Scotland Line. Aberdeen is 15 miles distant.

LUMPHANAN.

This shooting extends to about 10,000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, partridges, snipe, ducks, woodcocks, black-game, &c.

Probable bag of grouse, 200 brace.

There is no house, but accommodation can be got at the village of Lumphanan, where there is a railway station, and also a postal and telegraph office.

MORVEN.

This first-class grouse moor extends to about 9000 acres, and should yield in good seasons certainly not less than 1200 brace of grouse, besides a very fair bag of black-game, ducks, snipe, hares, &c.

The fishings comprise a considerable stretch of the Water of Gairn, which yields fair trout fishing, and about half a mile of the River Dee, which is not of much account, however.

The Lodge, which is healthfully situated, contains 2 public rooms, gun-room, serving-room, 11 bed-rooms (counting servants'-rooms), kitchen, scullery, pantry, &c., and there are also stables and kennels.

Ballater, on the Deeside Railway, is distant about five miles.

Supplies can be obtained by rail from Aberdeen, and some kinds at Ballater, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

The view from the summit of Morven Mountain is eloquently described in the QUEEN'S Journal.

MUIRESK.

The Mansion House of Muiresk contains 3 public rooms, 7 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 4 servants'-rooms, smoking-room, kitchen, scullery, pantry, servants' hall, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and excellent garden.

The shootings extend to about 1200 acres of low ground, and there is about a mile of fair salmon fishing in the River Deveron.

The town of Turriff, a station on the Great North of Scotland Railway, is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the House. Postal and telegraph office at Turriff.

PITFOUR.

The Mansion House of Pitfour is an exceedingly fine building, standing in beautifully laid-out and very extensive pleasure-grounds. It contains 6 public rooms, 20 bed-rooms, large kitchen, scullery, &c., housekeeper's room, still-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall, accommodation for a large number of servants, &c. Hot and cold water is laid on throughout the house, and also gas, which is supplied by a private gas-work.

The stabling is for 10 horses, with ample coach-house accommodation and rooms for stablemen.

The shootings extend to about 22,000 acres of first-rate low country, and in favourable seasons should yield 1600 to 2000 partridges, 100 snipe, 50 to 60 ducks, 50 to 100 woodcocks, 10 roe deer, besides pheasants, hares, rabbits, grouse, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in a fine large lake in the grounds, and in the River Ugie, which is also a salmon river.

The village of Mintlaw, where there is a railway-station and also a postal telegraph office, is within a mile of the House.

PITTODRIE.

The Mansion House of Pittodrie is pleasantly situated $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Pitcaple Station on the Great North of Scotland Railway, and about 20 miles from Aberdeen. It contains drawing-room, ante-room, dining-room, library, study, 9 good bed-rooms, 3 dressing-rooms, 8 servants' bed-rooms, gun-room, &c.

The garden is large and well stocked, and the stabling excellent.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, partridges, woodcocks, hares, &c.

SKENE.

Skene House is situated about 12 miles from Aberdeen, and 4 miles from Kintore Station, on the Great North of Scotland Railway. It contains dining-room, 2 drawing-rooms, library, billiard-room, 11 bed-rooms, 8 dressing-rooms, and ample accommodation for servants, with very convenient domestic offices. There is hot and cold water throughout the house, which is lighted with gas, as also are the stables.

The gardens are extensive, containing two hot-houses and a conservatory.

The shootings extend to about 4250 acres, of which about 600 acres are woods, and are well stocked with the usual varieties of low country game. A few grouse may also be got.

Loch Skene is within two miles of the house, and affords fair trout fishing.

TONLEY.

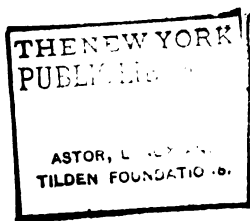

The shootings of Tonley extend to about 4600 acres, of which 800 acres are moor and hill, 800 acres woods, and 3000 acres low ground; and an average bag would be about 200 brace of grouse and black-game, and 300 brace of partridges, besides hares, rabbits, woodcocks, roe, &c.

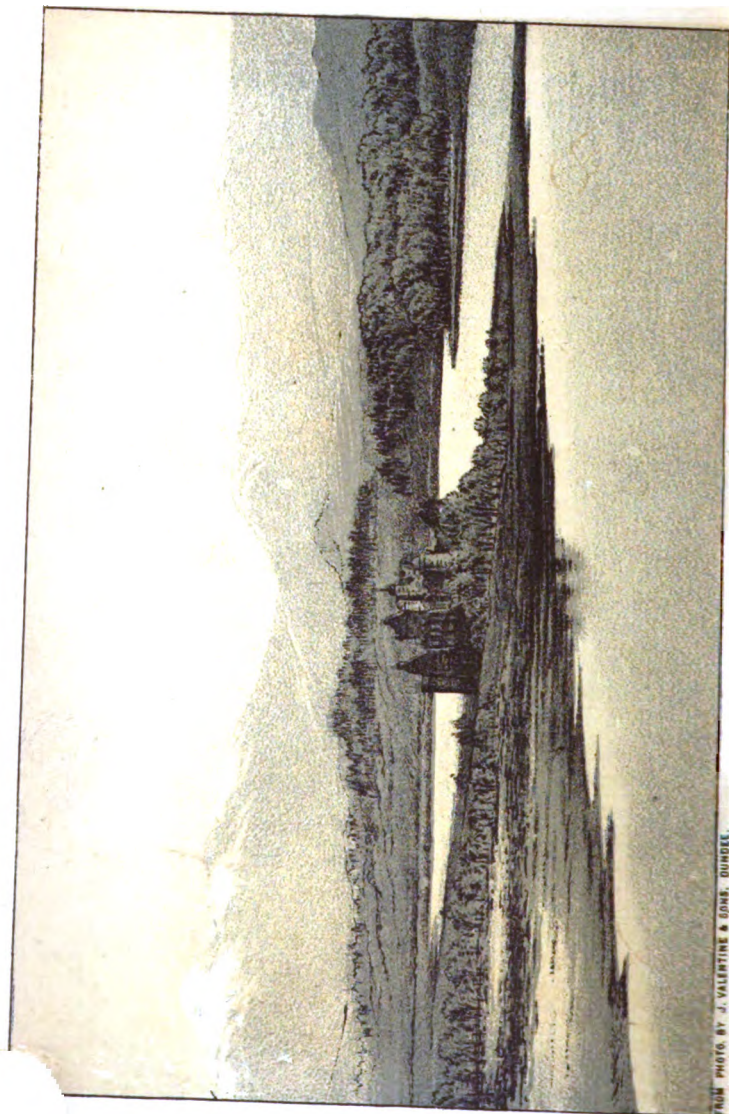

There is no fishing of any kind.

The Lodge is situated near the centre of the shootings, and contains dining and drawing-rooms, parlour, 7 bed-rooms, servants' rooms, kitchen, &c.

The stabling is ample.

Whitehouse Station, on the Alford branch of the Great North of Scotland Railway, is about a mile from the lodge. Supplies can be got from Aberdeen, distant two hours by rail.

ARGYLLSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Argyll, which may be said to be the cradle of the Scots, is the second largest in Scotland and the third largest in the United Kingdom, and is probably the most picturesque of all. The coast is deeply indented with splendid lochs, having steep, bold hills on either side, which, in many instances, are richly diversified with natural brushwood of hazel and birch. The lochs and rivers are exceedingly numerous, and most of them yield excellent sport both with Salmon and Trout; indeed Argyllshire, like Sutherland, is a perfect paradise for anglers. Off the coast, and forming part of the county, are the splendid Islands of Mull, Jura, and Islay, and the smaller yet more famed Islands of Iona, Staffa, and Oronsay.

The peninsula of Kintyre, which is the most southerly point of the county, is about 40 miles in length, with an average breadth of 7 miles, and is the nearest part of Great Britain to Ireland, the distance from shore to shore being about 10 miles.

Chief among the many interesting sights in this large territory are the following, viz. :—The Kyles of Bute; Lochs Goil, Long, Ridden, and Striven, all remarkable for the grandeur of the scenery along their shores; Inveraray Castle, the princely seat of the Duke of Argyll; Dunderawe Castle, an ancient stronghold of the Clan Macnaughten (via Greenock); Carrick Castle, an ancient stronghold of the Dunmore family; Oban, the Brighton of the Highlands; the ruins of Dunolly Castle, once the chief stronghold of the Lords of Lorn (Oban); Dunstaffnage Castle, once a Royal residence, which the celebrated Coronation Stone, now in Westminster Abbey, was taken from to Scone in the year 850 ; the ruins of the Cathedral of Iona and the Monastery of Oronsay ; the famed Pass of Glencoe (via Ballachulish) ; Loch Awe, with the ruins of Kilchurn and Ardconnel Castles ; Ben Cruachan, 3611 feet above sea-level ; the Pass of Brander, near which Robert the Bruce defeated John of Lorn, in which conflict the celebrated Brooch of Lorn first appears in history ; Castle Swen, at the entrance to Loch Swin ; and the ancient Castle of Moy, at the head of Loch Buy, the seat of MacLaine of that ilk.

The largest loch of Argyllshire, indeed of Scotland as regards length, is Loch Awe, which is 30 miles long, and from one to two miles broad, and surrounded by lofty mountains, the highest of which is Ben Cruachan (3611 feet). There are several very lovely islands on the bosom of this loch, and nearly all of these are rich in historic interest, and at the northern extremity stands the extensive ruins of Kilchurn Castle, an ancient stronghold of the Campbells. Loch Awe is also famed as an angling loch, and generally yields excellent sport with Salmo Ferox, Pike, Sea Trout, and ordinary Loch Trout.

There is no river of any importance as regards size ; the longest being the Orchy, with a course of about 20 miles. It is an excellent Salmon-angling river.

The principal Deer forests are those of Blackmount (Earl of Dudley), Dalness (W. Evans, Esq.), Jura (James Campbell, Esq.), and Ardlussa (W. Macfarlane, Esq.) ; and the best Grouse moors are probably those of Black Corries, Glenfeochan, Kinlochbeg, Glenfyne, Kilmory, Maclachlan, Minard, Sonachan, Eridine, and Inveraray.

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £35,000.

The following hotels have good angling for their guests, viz. :—The Argyll Arms Hotel, Inveraray ; Cuilfail Hotel (via Oban) ; Dalmally Hotel ; Kingshouse Inn, 21 miles from Tyndrum Station ; Taynult Hotel, 12 miles from Oban ; and Taychreggan Hotel (via Dalmally).

THE SHOOTINGS OF ARGYLLSHIRE.

ACHAGLACHGACH.

THE House is very comfortable and is suitable for a large family.

There is stabling for six horses, also cottages for four servants, and a good garden.

The shootings extend to about 35,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, wild fowl, snipe, &c. There is excellent winter shooting.

The house is within $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles of Tarbert, and is close to the sea.

ACHARACH.

This shooting, situated in Ardnadmurchan, the most westerly part of the mainland of Argyllshire, extends to about 10,000 acres. The game comprises grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, wild fowl, and red deer.

There is no Lodge, but comfortable lodgings can be got at Salen Inn, near which steamers from Glasgow call.

Salmon fishing in Loch Shiel and the River Shiel can usually be hired along with this place.

The woodcock shooting is excellent.

ACHDALIEW.

This excellent shooting extends to about 25,000 acres, of which one very large corry is cleared of sheep. The game consists of red deer, grouse, black-game, partridges, roe deer, woodcocks, ducks, pheasants, hares, and rabbits.

The Lodge is beautifully situated on Loch Eil, an arm of the sea, and the high road between Fort William and Arisaig passes withing 200 yards of it. It contains drawing-room, dining-room, 7 bed-rooms, 1 dressing-room, 3 servants'-rooms, servants' hall, kitchen, and scullery, pantries, larders, &c.

There is a 3-stall stable with coach-house ; also kennels, kitchen garden, and paddock for ponies.

Banavie, on the Caledonian Canal, is within three miles of the Lodge, and steamers call there daily. Fort William is also within easy distance. Banavie has a postal and telegraph office.

The nearest railway stations are Kingussie and Oban. A coach plies daily between Kingussie and Fort William, and a steamer between Oban and Fort William.

ARDENTALLEN.

The House is charmingly situated on Loch Feochan, an arm of the sea, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, bath-room, kitchen, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 700 acres, and the game comprises grouse, woodcocks, ducks, pheasants, &c.

Oban is distant about 4 miles.

ACHINGARROCH.

This shooting extends to about 5300 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in the River Duror.

The estate lies along the shores of Loch Linnhe.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation can be got at Ballachulish, close to the ground where steamers call regularly. Excellent anchorage for yachts in Kintallen Bay.

ACHNADRISLE.

The shootings of Achnadrisle, in the Island of Mull, extend to about 4000 acres. The game consists of grouse, woodcocks, snipe, red deer, &c. Sport moderate.

There is first-class trout fishing in Loch Freisa and in the River Bellart.

The House contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bedrooms, 3 servants' rooms, servants' hall, kitchen and scullery, pantry, bath-room, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, and garden.

The Lodge is about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Tobermory, where there is a postal and telegraph office ; and 9 miles from Oban. Steamers ply regularly between Oban and Tobermory.

ALTNAFEDH.

This shooting extends to about 4000 acres, the game comprising grouse, black-game, red deer, &c.

Probable bag of grouse, 80 to 100 brace.

There is no Lodge, but the comfortable Hotel at Kings house is on the ground, and a coach passes it daily from Tyndrum Station, on the Callander and Oban Railway. The scenery is very wild and mountainous, and the Pass of Glencoe is within easy distance. Visitors at the Kingshouse Hotel enjoy the privilege of trout fishing in various lochs.

ARDGOUR.

The Mansion House is beautifully situated in one of the finest parts of the West Highlands, and is very accessible, being within two hours of Oban by steamer, and about one mile and a half from Ardgour Pier, where the swift steamers call twice a day during summer.

It contains, on the ground floor, dining-room, morning-room, library, and gun-room; on the second floor, drawing-room, 3 bed-rooms, and 2 dressing-rooms; on the third floor, 4 bed-rooms and 1 dressing-room. The servants' accommodation is ample. The house is surrounded by well-kept pleasure grounds, and there is an excellent garden.

The low ground shootings extend to about 300 acres, and are fairly well-stocked.

ARDKINGLAS.

The Mansion House of Ardkinglas is situated on the banks of Loch Fyne, about two miles from the head of the loch, and is a handsome turretted building surrounded by finely-wooded parks and polices extending to about 400 acres. It is in good repair and well furnished, and contains dining-room, drawing-room with small ante-room, and 7 best bed-rooms, with good servants' accommodation and domestic offices.

The stables are excellent, and the garden large and productive.

The shootings extend to about 20,000 acres, which should yield in fairly good seasons 350 brace of grouse and a very considerable number of black-game, woodcocks, roe deer, ptarmigan, wild fowl, hares, rabbits, &c., and a few red deer.

The fishings are in the capital salmon and sea trout rivers Fyne and Kinglas, and in various other streams and little lochs on the property. There is first-rate sea fishing in Loch Fyne.

Ardkinglas is within ten miles of Inveraray, and eight miles of Lochgoilhead, and may be reached in three and a half hours from Greenock. The church and the post-office at Cairndow are within a few minutes' walk of the House.

ARDLUSSA.

The Mansion House of Ardlussa, in the Island of Jura, contains ample accommodation for a large party, and there is excellent stabling and good gardens.

The shootings extend to about 17,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, woodcocks, snipe, red deer, &c.

There is excellent salmon and trout fishing in the River Ardlussa, and trout fishing in Loch a' Mhorra.

ROUTE.—Steamer to Port Askaig from Glasgow, thence cross the ferry to Inver, from which place post about 25 miles.

AUCHINELLAN.

The Lodge is delightfully situated on the banks of Loch Awe, and commands splendid views of the surrounding scenery, which is equal to any in the Highlands. It contains dining room, drawing-room, 4 bed-rooms, 1 dressing-room, kitchen, scullery, servants'-rooms, &c.

There is good stabling and garden.

The shootings extend to about 1200 acres, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, hares, ducks, rabbits, &c.

Loch Awe affords excellent trout and sea trout fishing.

Coaches run daily during summer through the estate to Oban, Lochgoilhead, and Ardrishaig; and steamers to and from Glasgow and Greenock call daily at Ardrishaig.

There is a post-office close to the House.

AUCHNABA.

The House is beautifully situate near the sea, and contains 3 public-rooms, 11 bed-rooms, servants' hall, pantry, kitchen, &c., and there are also stables, garden, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 1200 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, snipe, wild fowl, woodcocks, &c.

The House is within 4 miles of Lochgilphead, where steamers from Glasgow and Greenock call regularly, and where there is a postal and telegraph office.

BALLACHULISH.

The House, which is very large and commodious, is situated in one of the most beautiful districts of Argyllshire, and within handy distance of famed Glencoe, and is capital quarters for any yachting party.

There is excellent trout fishing in two small rivers.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres, but the sport generally obtained is very indifferent. Woodcock shooting fairly good.

Steamers to and from Oban call two and three times daily. Oban is distant 1½ hours.

BARCALDINE.

The shootings of Barcaldine extend to about 20,000 acres, and the bulk of it is easy walking. A probable bag would be 100 brace of grouse, 30 brace of black-game, 5 brace of ptarmigan, 30 brace of pheasants, 30 to 60 brace of woodcocks, 50 hares, and 12 fallow bucks, besides snipe, roe, partridges, wild ducks, &c.

There is fair trout fishing in two streams, and in a loch. Sea trout ascend one of the streams for about a mile.

The Mansion House is commodious, and surrounded by an extensive park, finely timbered. It contains dining and drawing-rooms, morning-room, business-room, school-room, 10 bed-rooms, 3 dressing-rooms, housekeeper's-room, butler's-room and pantry, servants' hall, bath-room, 3 w.c.'s, servants'-rooms, laundry, kitchen, scullery, &c., &c. The supply of water is abundant, and of excellent quality.

There is a 4-stall stable, with double coach-house, harness-room, and a paddock for ponies; also kennels for 8 dogs, and a walled garden, containing 4 vineries, and 1 peach and camellia house.

Barcaldine is 12 miles from Oban, and the same distance from Port Appin, to which places steamers from Glasgow ply, and 7 miles from the railway station at Connell Ferry. A mail-car passes the House daily. Supplies can be had in the neighbourhood or at Oban.

BARNALIEN.

The shootings extend to about 2000 acres, and are excellent for grouse, black-game, woodcocks, roe deer, &c.

There is also right of fishing in Lochs Awe and Avich, which contain salmon, trout, pike, and perch.

The Lodge, which is beautifully situate on the banks of Loch Awe, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, pantry, &c., &c., and there are also stables, kennels, and garden.

The place is easily accessible from Glasgow or Greenock by steamer to Ardrishaig, or by rail to Dalmally, and thence per steamer down the loch to the House.

BLACK CORRIES.

This fine shooting extends to about 20,000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, red deer, ptarmigan, &c. Probable bag in favourable seasons, 700 brace of grouse and 25 stags, besides other game.

There is abundance of excellent loch trout fishing.

The Lodge contains dining-room, bath-room, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c.

It is situated about 19 miles from Tyndrum Station on the Caledonian Railway, and near to Kingshouse Hotel. A coach, which runs daily between Tyndrum and Fort William, passes close by.

BLACKMOUNT FOREST.

This prince of British sporting places extends to about 80,000 acres of unsurpassed deer ground, and yields annually 100 splendid stags, scarce to be equalled for size and quality by those of any other forest. The ground is not of much account for winged game, although sufficient grouse and black-game for table use can be got. In addition to stags, 100 hinds can be killed, also, without detriment to the forest.

The fishing, both for salmon and trout, is abundant and good, comprising as it does the Rivers Orchy and Kinglass, and Lochs Tulla, Dochart, A' Baw, Na Hachlich, Buie, Na Hurich, Na Ganich, Mair Etive, and Na Sting, besides a number of smaller lochs. The Kinglass yields excellent sea trout fishing, and Loch Tulla contains salmon. The Orchy is well known as one of the best salmon rivers on the West Coast.

The Lodge is picturesquely situated at the western extremity of Loch Tulla, a rather solitary-looking sheet of water, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 8 bed-rooms, 4 dressing-rooms, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, still-room, housemaid's-room, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, bakery, 2 servants'-rooms, &c.; and outside there are 6 servants'-rooms, stables, coach-house, kennels, and garden, and also a large wooden building containing accommodation for 16 men-servants, and a very large hall.

Tyndrum Station on the Caledonian Railway is about 12 miles from the Lodge, and a coach from there to Fort William passes within a mile of it. There is a postal and telegraph office at Tyndrum.

BREINGORTON.

The House is beautifully situate on the sea, near Colintrave Pier, where steamers to and from Greenock call daily; and is a splendid yachting residence, being in the immediate vicinity of the famed Kyles of Bute, and Lochs Fyne, Goil, Long, and Ridden, and the Gare and Holy Lochs.

It contains a sitting-room, 4 bed-rooms, kitchen, servants' accommodation, &c.

The shooting extends to about 1700 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, hares, &c.

CRAIGENTERIVE.

BANFFSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Banff, which is the fourteenth as regards extent in Scotland, is a long narrow track of country nearly 60 miles in length, with an average breadth of about 12 miles. It is extremely wild and mountainous at its southern extremity, where it marches with the counties of Aberdeen and Inverness.

There are several very fine residences in Banffshire, especially those of Gordon Castle, the seat of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, standing in a park of great extent, and timbered with splendid old trees; Duff House, the seat of the Earl of Fife; Ballindalloch Castle, the seat of Sir Geo. Macpherson-Grant, M.P., situated at the foot of Ben Rinnes; and Cullen House, a seat of the Earl of Seafield; and among the places of interest are the ruins of Boyne Castle (via Banff), Findlater Castle (via Cullen), Inchdrewer Castle (via Banff), and Inverugie Castle (via Peterhead), and the three peculiar-looking rocks at Cullen, known as "The Three Kings of Cullen."

There is no loch of any importance whatsoever in this county. The principal river is the Deveron, which is about 45 miles in length, and a capital salmon and sea trout river, ranking among the best in Scotland.

There are several very good shootings, including those of Arndilly, Delfur, Deskford, Glenavon, Glenlivet, Netherdale, and Strathavon.

THE SHOOTINGS OF BANFFSHIRE.

ABERLOUR.

THE Mansion House is a splendid structure in the Grecian style, and is very large and commodious. The offices, gardens, and pleasure grounds are all that can be desired, and the situation of the House itself very charming.

The shootings extend to about 900 acres of low country and moor, but in addition to that there is the right of shooting over 1150 acres of common.

There is very excellent salmon fishing on one mile of the River Spey at its best part.

Aberlour Station on the Highland Railway is within a short drive of the House.

AIKENWAY.

The shootings usually let along with Aikenway Lodge extend to about 4000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, roe deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 200 brace.

The fishings comprise about 5 miles of the south bank and half a mile of the north bank of the River Spey, fished in rotation with the proprietor. It is a splendid stretch of water, quite equal to any on the whole river.

The Lodge is beautifully situated on the bank of the river, and contains 3 public-rooms, 8 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, kitchen, &c., pantry, servants' hall, and bed-rooms, &c.

There are also stables of 4-stalls, coach-house, garden, and croquet lawn.

The Lodge is between 3 and 4 miles from Craigellachie

Station, and supplies can readily be obtained there or at Aberlour and Rothes.

ARNDILLY.

The Mansion House of Arndilly is finely situated, commanding beautiful views of the River Spey. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, billiard-room, business-room, boudoir, conservatory, 9 bed-rooms, several dressing-rooms, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall and servants'-rooms, kitchen, laundry, scullery, &c.

There is ample and excellent stabling and coach-house accommodation, and a good garden.

The shootings extend to between 5000 and 6000 acres of grouse and low country, and generally yield excellent sport.

The fishings embrace about 5 miles of the south bank of the River Spey, and nearly half a mile of the north bank. The angling is considered as good as any on the river, and the pools are unusually numerous for the extent of water.

The House is about 3 miles from Rothes, and the same distance from Craigellachie, where supplies may be obtained. Dandaleith Station is about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles distant.

CARRON.

The shootings of Carron extend to rather more than 3000 acres, of which about one-half is good grouse moor, the remainder being arable land, pasture, and woods. The game comprises grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, hares, rabbits, and roe deer.

The fishings extend to about 2 miles of the south bank of the River Spey, and are quite equal to any in Scotland.

The Lodge is charmingly situated, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, sitting-room, 5 bed-rooms, 3 servants'-rooms, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There is a good small garden, and also stable and coach-house.

Carron Station, where there is a telegraph and post office, is within five minutes' walk of the Lodge and the village of Aberlour, where there are Scotch and English Churches, medical men, and shops, is 3 miles distant.

KEITH.

The Lodge is situated in the healthy and picturesque village of Keith, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, 5 bed-rooms, servants' rooms, kitchen, &c. There are also stabling for 6 horses, coach-house, kennels, game larder, and large garden.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres, of which 2500 acres are moor, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, &c.

There is a considerable extent of free fishing in the Rivers Deveron, Spey, Isla, and Fiddich.

Keith is a station on the Great North of Scotland Railway, and a considerable village, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there is a postal and telegraph office.

LESMURDIE.

The Lodge is small but comfortable, and situated about 10 miles from the town and station of Huntly on the Great North of Scotland Railway, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there is a postal and telegraph office. The shootings extend to about 2000 acres, of which about 1000 acres are moor, the remainder being arable land and woods. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, ducks, roe deer, &c. In good seasons the sport is always of a superior description.

There is some fair salmon and trout fishing in the River Deveron, which partly bounds and partly intersects the property.

STRATHAVON.

The shooting of Strathavon extends to about 15,000 acres, and ranks among the best grouse moors in Scotland. The game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, &c.

Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 800 to 900 brace.

There is very fair salmon and trout fishing in the River Aven, which flows through the ground for about 7 miles.

The Lodge is situated amid very fine mountain scenery, and contains 2 sitting-rooms, 6 best bed-rooms, butler's pantry, kitchen, servants' rooms, &c.

There are stables, coach-house, and kennels. The nearest railway stations are Ballindalloch, distant 12 miles, and Grantown, distant 13 miles. Postal and telegraph offices at both places.

TOCHIENEAL.

Tochieneal House contains 3 public-rooms and 7 bedrooms, with servants' accommodation. There is a large productive garden, also stable and out-offices.

The shooting extends to about 2450 acres of excellent partridge ground; and trout fishing can be got in the Burn of Cullen close by.

The House is situated about a mile from the village of Cullen and about 5 from Portsoy, a station on the Great North of Scotland Railway.

There is a postal and telegraph office at Cullen, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

CAITHNESS-SHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Caithness, the most northerly part of the mainland of Scotland, though tame and generally uninteresting to the sightseer, being simply undulating moorland plain, as barren of trees almost as Sahara, is to the sportsman particularly inviting, as it contains several of the best grouse moors in the Highlands. The fact of its being perhaps the coldest part of Great Britain, and yet yielding such heavy bags of grouse as it does, ought surely to convince those people who ever lament severe winters as certain to exterminate grouse altogether, that grouse and frost and snow get along exceeding well together.

There are several highly picturesque hills in Caithness, including those of Morven, Scarabhein, and the Pap of Caithness; and the coast scenery is extremely grand, one might almost say unsurpassed.

The chief places of interest are the ruins of Dunbeath Castle (via Berriedale), Bishop's Castle (via Thurso), Sinclair, Girnigo, and Keiss Castles (via Wick), Harold's Tower (via Thurso), and Langwell Castle (via Berriedale); John o'Groat's House; Dunnet Head, the most northerly point of the mainland of Scotland; the windowless tower, known as the Old Man of Wick; the Stack of Brough; and a perfect host of Pictish remains. Langwell House, the seat of the Duke of Portland, is beautifully situated, overlooking a charming glen near Berriedale.

The largest loch is Loch Watten, a fine sheet of water 3 miles in length, which yields excellent trout fishing.

The principal river is the Thurso, 20 miles in length, and one of the best salmon rivers in Scotland.

The principal grouse moors are those of Braemore, Dalnawilliam, Dunbeath, Forss, Glutt, Langwell, Milton, Sand-side, Sootscaldier, Strathmore, Watten, and Ulbster.

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £10,000.

Brawl Castle Hotel, about 3 miles from Halkirk, has capital salmon and sea-trout angling in connection with it.

THE SHOOTINGS OF CAITHNESS-SHIRE.

ACHALIBSTER.

THIS shooting extends to about 2000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 200 brace of grouse, besides a number of other kinds of game.

There is no House, but accommodation can be obtained easily at farmhouses near.

Halkirk is the nearest railway station, distant about 5 or 6 miles.

BRABSTER.

This shooting is situated near John o' Groats House, about 10 miles from Wick and the same distance from Thurso, and extends to about 9000 acres. The game consists of grouse, plover, snipe, and wild fowl.

There is excellent trout fishing.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation can be got at a good inn on the ground.

BRAWL CASTLE.

Brawl Castle is very large and commodious, and has excellent stabling, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 15,000 acres of moor and low country. The game comprises grouse, snipe, plover, wild fowl, hares, &c. Very heavy bags of grouse are usually made.

There is good trout fishing in Loch More, and salmon and trout fishing in the River Thurso.

The Castle is situated about 7 miles from Thurso, and one mile from Halkirk Railway Station.

CAMSTER.

This moor extends to about 4600 acres of very excellent grouse ground.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at Lybster Inn, near the ground and about 10 miles from Wick.

Probable bag, 400 to 450 brace of grouse.

A coach runs from Lybster in connection with the trains arriving at and departing from Watten Station, 10 miles distant.

DALNAVULLIN.

Dalnavullin Lodge is situated about 21 miles from Wick, and 16 miles from Dunbeath. Altnabreac Station is 4 miles distant. It is a very comfortable house, and there are stables, coach-house, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 10,000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, snipe, wild fowl, plover, &c. Red deer are occasionally on the ground.

There is plenty of loch trout fishing, and salmon fishing in the River Thurso can usually be hired.

DELNUAN.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, kitchen, pantry, 4 bed-rooms, besides rooms for servants, &c., and there are also stable, coach-house, kennels, and larders.

The shootings extend to about 18,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, snipe, plover, wild fowl, and red deer, and the sport is sufficient for four guns.

There is abundance of loch trout fishing, and some salmon fishing in the River Thurso can usually be hired.

Altnabreac Station is distant about 8 miles, and Wick and Thurso 26 miles.

DORRERY.

The Lodge contains sitting-room, 2 bed-rooms, 2 bed-closets, and kitchen, and is situated about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Scotscladder Station.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, snipe, wild fowl, and red deer.

There is good trout fishing in Loch More, and salmon fishing in the River Thurso can usually be hired.

DUNBEATH.

This splendid shooting extends to about 30,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 2000 to 3000 brace of grouse, besides black-game, ducks, snipe, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in various lochs and streams.

Dunbeath Inn, which is about one mile from the ground, is 16 miles from Helmsdale Station and 21 miles from Wick, and comfortable accommodation can be got at it, there being no Lodge.

FRESWICK.

This shooting extends to about 8000 acres of moor and low country, and the game consists of grouse, snipe, plover, partridges, &c.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be obtained at West Mey Hotel, about 4 miles from the ground, or lodgings can be got at the farmhouse of Freswick.

Wick is 10 miles off.

MUNSARY.

This fine shooting, including that of Swiney, extends to about 12,000 acres, and in good seasons always yields very heavy bags of grouse, besides snipe, wild fowl, plover, &c.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation can be got at the Portland Arms Hotel at Lybster.

The nearest railway station to Lybster is Watten, distant about 10 miles. A coach plies between Lybster and Watten.

SANDSIDE.

This splendid shooting extends to about 30,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, ducks, and red deer.

Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 3000 to 4000 brace.

There is excellent trout fishing in various lochs and streams on the ground.

The House is charmingly situated near the sea. It contains 4 public-rooms, 19 bed-rooms (counting servants'-rooms), bath-room, housekeeper's-room, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, &c. There is a 4-stall stable, with coach-house; also large and productive garden, nice pleasure-grounds, and an entrance lodge.

Good facilities for sea-bathing within half a mile of the House.

There is a postal and telegraph office at Reay, about a mile distant, and all kinds of household supplies can be obtained easily from Thurso, distant 12 miles.

Thurrery Lodge, also on the ground, contains 6 rooms.

STIRKOKKE.

The shooting of Stirkoke extends to about 4700 acres, of which 400 acres are low ground, the remainder being excellent grouse moor, which should yield in average seasons 400 brace. The other game consists of partridges, black-game, hares, &c.

There is fair trout fishing in two streams.

The accommodation in the Lodge consists of dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, kitchen, servants'-rooms, &c. The stabling accommodation is at a farm near. There is no garden, but vegetables can be bought at market prices from the farmer.

The Lodge is about 5 miles from Wick, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

STRATHMORE.

Strathmore Lodge is pleasantly situated in the valley of Strathmore, about 3 miles from the town and railway station of Halkirk. It contains 3 public-rooms, 14 bed-rooms, 6 servants'-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, &c. There are also 3-stall stable with coach-house, kennels, and garden.

The shooting extends to about 26,000 acres, chiefly moor, and in really good seasons should yield at least 2000 brace of grouse, besides black-game, snipe, &c.

As a rule a few miles of the River Thurso is let along with this shooting, but during the autumn months the salmon angling is very indifferent.

There is good loch trout fishing.

At Halkirk there is a postal and telegraph office.

WESTER WATTEN.

This fine shooting, including those of Skelton and Banks, extends to about 10,000 acres of first-rate grouse moor, and yields very heavy bags in favourable seasons.

There is no Lodge, but suitable accommodation can be got at the farmhouse on the ground, or at the Portland Arms Hotel at Lybster.

DUMBARTONSHIRE:

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Dumbarton, though one of the smallest in Scotland, is nevertheless one of the most picturesque, and is rich in historic interest, many stirring episodes in Scottish history having been enacted within its confines. The "Queen of British lakes," Loch Lomond, is for the most part in this county, and that fact alone is sufficient to make it greatly interesting to the lover of the beautiful in Nature.

Among the many places of interest are the following, viz. :—Dumbarton Castle (situated on a rock 240 feet high), the original of which played so important a part in the wars between England and Scotland; the ruins of Dunglass Castle (Bowling); Ardencaple Castle, a very fine turretted structure, and seat of Sir James Colquhoun, of Luss (Row); Roseneath Castle, a seat of the Duke of Argyll, a handsome mansion, charmingly situated on the wooded peninsula lying between the Gareloch and Loch Long; the magnificent Hydropathic Establishment at Shandon, formerly a residence of the Napier family (Gareloch); the beautiful sea lochs of Gare and Long; the ruins of Benuchra Castle (Balloch); the Castles of Balloch and Boturich (Loch Lomond); and Loch Lomond, studded with beautiful islands, many of which are clad with trees and brushwood down to the very water's edge. The sail along this loch is perhaps the most charming and picturesque in the world, and from the deck of the steamer in the afternoon a remarkably weird view of the strangely-shaped mountains opposite Inversnaid is obtained.

The principal river of Dumbartonshire is the Leven, about 6 miles long, which, save for the pollution of its waters by the numerous Turkey-red dye-works along its banks, would take high rank among the salmon rivers of Scotland. As it is, however, it yields moderate sport only, with salmon, sea and yellow trout. It also contains pike and perch.

The principal loch of course is Loch Lomond, 23 miles in length, with a breadth varying from 5 miles to 1 mile. It is very deep in some parts—over 600 feet—and contains salmon, sea trout, pike, perch, and yellow trout; but the sport is only very moderate.

There are several excellent shootings in this county, including those of Arrochar, Camstraddan, Luss, Rosdhu, and Stuckgown; but no heavy bags of grouse are made, the sport being more of an attractive mixed description.

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £5000.

The following hotels have fishing in connection with them, viz.:—Balloch Hotel; Luss Hotel, 8 miles from Balloch; Inversnaid Hotel, 20 miles from Balloch; Tarbert Hotel, 15 miles from Balloch; and Rowardennan Hotel, 12 miles from Balloch.

THE SHOOTINGS OF DUMBARTONSHIRE.

ARROCHAR.

THE House, which is beautifully situated on Loch Long, an arm of the Firth of Clyde, contains several large sitting-rooms, about 25 bed-rooms, and ample and convenient domestic offices, &c.

There is an excellent garden, well stocked with fruit trees, and containing very fine green-houses, and a vinery.

The stabling is for 8 horses.

The shootings extend to about 25,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, woodcocks, roe deer, hares, and ptarmigan, and red deer are very frequently on the ground. Probable bag of grouse, 300 brace.

There is excellent trout fishing in several lochs and streams, including the wild mountain loch—Loch Sloy—and a little salmon fishing.

Steamers from Glasgow call within a mile of the House daily.

The scenery is very fine, and there are splendid facilities for boating and touring.

CAMSTRADDAN.

The Mansion House of Camstraddan is delightfully situated on the shores of Loch Lomond, about a mile from the village of Luss, where there is a post-office, and where steamers to and from Balloch call regularly—twice and thrice a day during the summer and autumn months.

It contains 3 sitting-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, 1 dressing-room, bath-room, butler's pantry, kitchen and scullery, several servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also stables, garden, pleasure grounds, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 9000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, pheasants, woodcocks, snipe, roe deer, hares, rabbits, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 100 to 125 brace. The woodcock shooting is very fair indeed.

Balloch Railway Station is 8 miles from the House, and the town of Helensburgh about the same distance by a very charming drive.

Loch Lomond yields fair salmon and sea and brown trout fishing in spring and summer.

There are many interesting and charming spots within easy distance of the House, including Glen Fruin, the Island of Inchmurrin, the Old Fort at Inversnaid, Rob Roy's Cave, the ruins of Benuchra Castle, the conic hill at Balmaha, and Dumbarton Castle.

ROSENEATH.

This exceedingly charming and very commodious residence is well known as one of the most beautiful places in Scotland, and has almost unrivalled advantages for yachting, the best anchorage on the Firth of Clyde being under the Castle windows.

The shootings extend to about 6400 acres of grouse moor and low country, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, ducks, wild fowl, hares, rabbits, and roe deer. The sport is excellent.

The pleasure grounds extend to about 600 acres, and are beautifully wooded.

There is first-class stabling accommodation and excellent gardens.

The Castle is situated about 3 miles from Helensburgh, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and 5 miles by water from Greenock.

There is a postal and telegraph office close by.

STUCKGOWN.

Stuckgown House, which is beautifully situated on the shores of Loch Lomond, opposite to the famous Ben, contains drawing-room, dining-room, 2 sitting-rooms, 9 bed-rooms, smoking-room, bath-room, kitchen and scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, laundry, &c., with ample bed-room accommodation for servants.

There are also stables, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 7000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, roe, hares, and rabbits.

The fishings are in Loch Lomond and Loch Long, but the tenant usually has the right of one rod on the Rivers Luss, Fruin, and Douglas.

The nearest railway stations are Balloch and Helensburgh, steamers from Balloch call near the House. Supplies are obtained from Glasgow.

It is doubtful if there is a more charming place in all Scotland than Stuckgown, and the places of interest mentioned in connection with Camstraddan are equally convenient to it.

ELGINSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE scenery of the county of Elgin, or Moray as it is sometimes called, is exceedingly picturesque and pleasing ; the glens in particular, which are perhaps the most charming in Scotland ; those through which the Rivers Divie, Findhorn, and Spey flow being especially noticeable. It is also an excellent sporting county, and its antiquities are both numerous and interesting.

The sand-hills of Culbin, about 2 miles north-west of Forres, are supposed to have been the original "Granary of Moray," once a track of extreme fertility. The date of their being overblown remains a mystery.

Chief among the many places of interest are the following, viz. :—The ruins of the Cathedral at Elgin, founded in the year 1224, and supposed to have been the finest in Scotland ; the ruins of Pluscarden Abbey, founded by Alexander II. in the year 1230, beautifully situated in a valley of surpassing loveliness, about 6 miles from Elgin ; the ruins of Duffus Castle, 4 miles from Elgin ; the old Porch at Duffus Church, where Macbeth is said to have killed King Duncan ; the remarkable rocks and caves of Covesea, near Lossiemouth ; the old white tower of Coxton, about 1 mile from the village of Lhanbryd ; the ruins of Kinloss Abbey, founded by King David about the year 1150 (via Kinloss Station) ; the ruins of Burgie and Blervie Castles (via Alves) ; the ruins of Spynie Palace (via Elgin) ; the curious Sweno's Stone, near Forres ; and Darnaway Castle, the seat of the Earl of Moray, a very fine mansion, situated a few miles to the south of Forres.

The largest loch in Elginshire is Lochindorbh, a desolate-looking sheet of water a few miles to the west of Dava Station. On an island in this loch there are the remains of an extensive Castle, once a royal fortress. Lochindorbh is about 2 miles long and 1 mile broad, and yields moderately good trout fishing.

The principal rivers are the Spey, 100 miles long, and the Findhorn, 65 miles long. The Spey is the most rapid river in Great Britain, and ranks as the third best salmon river in Scotland; the Findhorn also takes high rank among salmon rivers. The scenery along the banks of both rivers is remarkably fine.

Among the principal shootings are those of Altyre, Dallas, Dunphail, Kincorth, Knockando, Lochandorbh, Rothes, Tulchan, and Westerton.

The annual value of the shootings let may be set down at £11,000.

ALTYRE.

THE Mansion House of Altyre is beautifully situated, and surrounded by fine woods and pleasure grounds. It is an exceedingly commodious and elegant building, containing dining-room, drawing-room, morning-room, gun-room, hall with billiard-table, 15 bed-rooms, besides servants'-rooms, domestic offices, &c.

There is stabling for 12 horses, with coach-houses and rooms for coachman and 3 or 4 grooms; also kennels, and extensive and excellent gardens.

The shootings extend to about 20,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse, 50 brace of black-game, and 100 brace of partridges, besides pheasants, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, roe deer, &c.

There is capital trout fishing in the River Findhorn and in one or two small lochs.

The House is about 3 miles from the town of Forres, where there is a railway station, and where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

BIRNIE.

The shooting of Birnie extends to between 3000 and 4000 acres, of which 1200 or so are moor, and should yield in favourable seasons 150 brace of grouse and 150 brace of partridges, in addition to other game.

There is no Lodge, but the nearest part of the ground is only 1 mile from the important northern town of Elgin, which has excellent hotel accommodation.

DALLAS.

This excellent shooting should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse, besides partridges, woodcocks, black-game, snipe, ducks, roe deer, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in the River Lossie, and in several small lochs.

The Lodge is pleasantly situated about 8 miles from the town of Forres. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, billiard-room with table, 6 bed-rooms, servants'-rooms, domestic offices, &c. It is lighted with gas.

There are also stabling for 6 horses, coach-house, kennels, and garden.

All kinds of supplies can be got at Forres, where there is a railway station, and also a postal and telegraph office.

GLENAIRNEY.

The shootings of Glenairney extend to about 8000 acres, of which about 7000 acres are first-class grouse moor. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, pheasants, roe deer, snipe, ducks, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 600 to 800 brace.

There is excellent trout fishing in the Rivers Divie and Dorback.

The Lodge is charmingly situated in a wooded glen about one mile and a half from Dunphail Station on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office; and 9 miles from Forres, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

INVERERNE.

The Mansion House of Invererne contains 3 large public-rooms, 8 bed-rooms, several dressing-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, servants' bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There is excellent stabling, and also a very fine walled garden.

The fishings are in the River Findhorn, which flows past the House, and yields capital salmon and very superior trout fishing.

The climate is exceedingly good, and the situation of the House pleasant and picturesque.

Forres, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there is a postal and telegraph office and also a railway station, is within one mile of the House.

KNOCKANDO.

This shooting extends to about 6000 acres, of which about 3000 acres are grouse moor, the remainder being arable land and woods. The game consists of grouse, partridges, pheasants, ducks, snipe, teal, woodcocks, &c. Probable bag in good seasons, 300 brace of grouse and 200 brace of partridges, besides other game.

There is first-class salmon fishing in about 3 miles of the River Spey at its very best part, and in favourable seasons 200 salmon and grilse should be got.

The House, which is pleasantly situated, overlooking the river, contains dining-room, drawing-room, business-room, 7 bed-rooms, 4 servants' rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, pantry, &c.

There are also stable, carriage-house, harness-room, kennels, and garden.

It is situated about 10 miles from Craigellachie, but trains stop at a private station near the House.

Supplies are easily obtained.

LOCHINDORBH.

The Lodge is situated on the banks of Lochindorbh, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, kitchen, pantry, bath-room, servants' hall, 4 servants' rooms, &c.

There are also gun-room, 7-stall stable, coach-house, laundry, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 10,625 acres of moor, and 1375 acres of arable land and woods ; and the game consists of grouse, black-game, roe deer, partridges, snipe, ducks, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 1000 to 1200 brace.

There is fair trout fishing in Lochindorbh, and salmon and trout fishing in $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the north bank of the River Spey.

The Lodge is about 3 miles from Dava Station on the Highland Railway, where there is a post-office, and 10 miles from Grantown, where all kinds of supplies can be got.

MANNOCH HILL.

This shooting extends to about 3000 acres, and should yield 200 to 400 brace of grouse, according to the season, besides other game.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation can be obtained at Elgin, which is 6 miles from the ground.

RANDOLPH.

The House is of a very superior description, and contains accommodation for a moderately large family. It is situated near the town of Forres and within a few miles of the sea.

The shootings extend to about 1000 acres of good mixed.

There is fair trout fishing in various streams. Salmon fishing might be hired in the River Findhorn, which is close by.

There is a railway station at Forres, and also a postal and telegraph office.

RELUGAS.

The shootings of Relugas are low country, and extend to about 1100 acres, fairly stocked with black-game, partridges, pheasants, roe, &c. ; and the fishings comprise about 3 miles of the River Findhorn, here a first-rate salmon river, and a considerable stretch of its tributary, the Divie, which is a capital trout stream.

The House is very picturesquely situated on the south bank of the River Findhorn, near its confluence with the Divie, and is surrounded by extensive and tastefully laid-out lawns and pleasure grounds. It contains 2 drawing-rooms, dining-room, library, 19 bed-rooms (counting servants'-rooms), servants' hall, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, 5 w.c.'s, bath-room, &c.

There is a good supply of excellent water laid on, also hot water.

The stabling consists of 10 stalls and 2 loose boxes, coach-house, harness-room, groom's-rooms, &c.

The gardens are extremely good.

Dunphail is the nearest railway station, distant about one and a half miles.

WESTERTON.

The Mansion House of Westerton is delightfully situated in a beautiful and romantic glen, and near it are the fine old ruins of Pluscarden Abbey. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, gun-room, 9 bed-rooms, 4 dressing-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, kitchen, pantry, and scullery, servants' bed-rooms, &c.

There are also stables, harness-room, coach-house, laundry, washing-house, &c.

The gardens and pleasure grounds are very charming, and in the latter there is a pretty lake studded with islands and beautifully planted with evergreens.

The shootings extend to about 12,250 acres, of which about 6000 acres are low country, the remainder being grouse moor of good quality. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, roe deer, &c. Probable bag, 500 to 600 brace of grouse, and 300 to 400 brace of partridges, besides other game.

There is some fair trout fishing in the Rivers Lossie and Blackburn.

The House is about 7 miles from the important town of Elgin, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and also good shops.

FORFARSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THIS important county, the eleventh in point of size in Scotland, and the fourth in regard to population, is throughout of an excellent sporting character, and contains several very fine deer forests, grouse moors, and low country shootings, and possesses in the Rivers North and South Esk two of the best salmon waters in the country. It is extremely fertile in some districts, and wild and mountainous in others; the glen scenery certainly ranking among the most picturesque and charming in all Scotland. Where it marches with Aberdeenshire and Perthshire north of Mount Blair, the mountains rise to a great height. In many of the glens, such as Glen Doll, there is a rich field for the botanist; and in some districts there is abundant scope for those interested in geological and antiquarian pursuits, as well as for the artist.

Among the many places of interest are the following, viz.:—The ruins of the Abbey at Arbroath, founded by William the Lion, in 1178; the Bell Rock, or Inchcape Lighthouse, off the coast at Arbroath; the ruins of Rostennet Priory (via Forfar); the ruins of Hynd Castle (via Forfar); the ruins of Forter Castle (via Blairgowrie); the ruins of the once splendid Castle of Edzell (via Brechin); the Round Tower at Brechin; the ruins of Inverquharity Castle near Kirriemuir, formerly a seat of the Ogilvies; the Tower of Clova (via Kirriemuir); the ruins of Red Castle, which is supposed to have been erected by William the Lion (via Arbroath); the two Cathertuns (hill forts), 4 miles north-west of Brechin ; the Sculptured Stones of Aberlemno (Brechin) ; Glamis, and St. Vigean's (Arbroath) ; the Reekie Linn of Isla, a charming waterfall, 4 miles from Alyth ; the Falls of Bachnagairn (via Brechin) ; the picturesque and romantic glens of Glen Doll (with a huge and peculiar-looking rock overhanging a part of it, called the Scorrie of the Doll), Glen Esk, Glen Cally, Glen Dye, Glen Mark, Glen Prosen, and Glen Isla ; Mount Blair, 2441 feet high, from the summit of which an extensive and exceedingly fine view is obtained (via Blairgowrie) ; and the splendid Castle of Glamis, the seat of the Earl of Strathmore, considered to be the finest turretted structure in the country.

The scenery along the coast north of the remarkable-looking promontory of Redhead is very wild and picturesque.

There are no lochs of any size in Forfarshire ; but the scenery of several is extremely fine, notably those of Brandy, Lee, and Wharral, situated in rugged glens surrounded by high hills.

The principal rivers are the North Esk and the South Esk, 35 and 45 miles long respectively, and ranking among the best salmon rivers in Scotland.

The principal deer forests are those of Invermark (Sir R. B. Harvey, M.P.), Caenlochan, Glenmuick, and Clova ; and among the best grouse moors are those of Balintore, Gannochy, Glenmarkie, Glen Prosen, Hunthill, and Milden.

The principal bays are those of Carlingheuch and Lunan.

The annual value of the shootings let may be set down at £20,000.

THE SHOOTINGS OF FORFARSHIRE.

AULDALLAN.

THE shooting of Auldallan extends to about 2000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, partridges, hares, &c.

The sport is generally very good.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation might be obtained at one of the farmhouses, and if not at Kirriemuir, 8 miles distant, where there is a railway station and good hotel.

BALINTORE.

The estate of Balintore extends to about 4400 acres, of which 600 acres are arable and 100 acres plantations, the remainder being grouse moor of excellent quality. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 550 to 650 brace. The partridge shooting is very fair, and there are also black-game, ducks, snipe, &c. There is not much fishing, merely small burns for trout.

The Castle is a modern and handsome structure, in the Scotch baronial style, commanding grand views of the surrounding country. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, saloon (with billiard-table), library, 15 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms, 3 bath-rooms, and excellent accommodation for servants, domestic offices, &c.

There are stables, coach-house, kennels, and kitchen garden.

The nearest town and railway station is Kirriemuir, distant 8 miles. There is a post-office and a church within 4 miles.

CAENLOCHAN.

The Forest of Caenlochan extends to 9160 acres, but in addition there is a considerable extent of grouse moor. Probable bag, 40 to 50 stags, and 200 to 300 brace of grouse, besides other game.

The forest adjoins those of Bachnagairn, Clova, and Glencally.

There is good trout fishing in the River Isla, which rises in the forest.

The Lodge is delightfully situated at Tulchan. It contains 3 public-rooms, 13 bed-rooms, bath-room, domestic offices, &c.

The offices consist of stables, coach-house, and harness-room. There are also kennels.

Alyth, a considerable market town and station on the Caledonian Railway, is with 18 miles of the Lodge, and a post-runner from there carries letters to Folda, which is within 6 miles.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Alyth, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

CRAIGO.

The Mansion House of Craigo contains 3 large public-rooms, 15 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms, bath-room, kitchen, and scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, servants' rooms, &c.

There are also stables, coach-houses, gun-room, and kennels.

The gardens and pleasure grounds are very fine.

The porter's lodge at the east gate usually is let along with the place.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres of low country, and in favourable seasons yield capital sport.

The fishing consists of $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the south bank of the River North Esk, a first-class salmon river.

Dubton Junction on the Caledonian Railway is about 2 miles from the House, Craigo Station 1 mile, and the important town of Montrose 4 miles.

DRUMFORK.

The House, which is pleasantly situated about 12 miles from Blairgowrie, a market town and station on the Caledonian Railway, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, bed-closet, bath-room, kitchen, &c.

There are also stables and coach-house, and an excellent garden.

The shootings extend to about 800 acres, and yield, considering the extent, an excellent bag of grouse, black-game, &c.

There is capital trout fishing in the River Blackwater and in a small loch.

Coaches pass the House daily from Blairgowrie and Braemar, and there is a post daily, also carriers two and three times a week.

DRUMORE.

This shooting extends to about 1300 acres of first-class grouse ground, which should yield 250 to 300 brace in favourable seasons.

There is excellent trout fishing in an artificial lake, containing Loch Leven trout.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, bath-room, kitchen, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also stable, coach-house, and garden.

It is situated about 13 miles from Blairgowrie, a market town and railway station, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

FINAVON.

The Mansion House of Finavon contains dining-room, drawing-room, one or two other sitting-rooms, and about 20 bed-rooms, with ample domestic offices.

There are also good stabling, garden, &c.

The shootings extend to about 4000 acres of first-rate low country, and should yield in favourable seasons 1000 to 1200 partridges, besides pheasants, snipe, woodcocks, hares, rabbits, &c.

There is excellent salmon and sea trout fishing in the River South Esk.

The House is about 6 miles from the town and railway station of Forfar, where all kinds of supplies are obtainable.

FOTHRINGHAM.

The House, which is of modern construction, is very commodious, and supplied with gas from a private gaswork.

The offices are excellent, and there is a good garden.

The shootings, including those of Carrot Hill, extend to about 7000 acres, and yield excellent sport.

There is trout fishing in the Kerbert.

The House is one and a half miles from Kirkbuddo Station, 5 miles from Forfar, and 11 miles from Dundee.

A pack of fox-hounds hunt the district.

GLENCALLY.

Glencally is one of the best shootings in Forfarshire, and for its extent probably one of the best in the country. It extends to about 5000 acres, of which 3000 acres are cleared of sheep, and 2000 acres good grouse moor. Probable bag, 25 to 30 stags and 250 brace of grouse, besides a few head of other kinds of game.

There is some fair trout fishing.

The Lodge, which is very picturesquely situated and surrounded by very fine scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-5 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants'-rooms, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, kitchen garden, &c.

The nearest railway station is Alyth, distant 15 miles, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

GLEN DOLL.

This picturesque and beautiful place extends to about 18,000 acres, of which 6000 acres are deer forest. Probable bag, 20 stags, and 200 brace of grouse, besides other game.

There is excellent trout fishing in the River Whitewater, a tributary of the South Esk.

The House contains 3 public-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 4 servants'-rooms, 3 nurseries, kitchen, &c., pantry, hall, &c.

There are also stables and kennels.

The views are extensive and beautiful.

Kirriemuir, a market town and railway station, is within 18 miles of the House.

Glen Doll is a rich field for those fond of botany and is also very attractive for the geologist.

GLENMARKIE.

This fine shooting, as usually let, extends to about 8500 acres of first-rate grouse moor, and should yield in good seasons 700 to 800 brace of grouse, besides black-game, &c.

There is a little trout fishing.

The Lodge contains 2 public-rooms, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, and scullery, pantry, servants'-rooms, &c.

Alyth is the nearest railway station, distant about 11 miles. All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Alyth, which is a postal and telegraph town.

The Hotel at the Kirkton of Glen Isla is about 2 miles from the Lodge.

GLEN PROSEN.

This excellent grouse shooting extends to about 12,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 1000 to 1200 brace of grouse, besides black-game, ptarmigan, hares, &c.

There is some trout fishing in a small river flowing past the Lodge.

The Lodge, which is well built and situated amid fine Highland scenery, contains 3 public-rooms, 12 bed-rooms (counting servants'-rooms), 3 dressing-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, pantry, bath-room, with hot and cold water, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, and kennels.

The nearest railway station is Kirriemuir, 12 miles distant. All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Kirriemuir, which has a postal and telegraph office.

A post-runner leaves letters within 1½ miles of the Lodge.

HILL OF PEARSIE.

This shooting extends to about 3000 acres, of which about 2000 are moor, the rest being arable land and woods. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, roe deer, &c.

Probable bag of grouse, 300 brace.

The nearest railway station is Kirriemuir on the Caledonian Railway.

There is no Lodge. Accommodation might be got at one of the farmhouses.

H O L L .

The shootings of Holl extend to about 7500 acres, of which 685 are woods. The game comprises grouse, black-game, roe deer, &c.

The Lodge is situated at Glenhead, about 13 miles north-west of Kirriemuir and 12 miles of Alyth, both stations on the Caledonian Railway, and postal and telegraph towns. It contains dining-room, parlour, 3 bed-rooms, bed-closet, kitchen, pantry, &c.

A post-runner brings letters daily to within 5 miles of the Lodge.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Alyth or Kirriemuir.

HUNTHILL.

This very fine shooting extends to about 25,000 acres, and should yield in favourable seasons 1000 brace of grouse and 25 stags, besides an excellent bag of other kinds of game.

There is excellent trout fishing in various streams.

The Lodge is situated about 18 miles from Brechin, a market town and railway station on the Caledonian system, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 best bed-rooms, kitchen and scullery, and ample servants' accommodation.

There are also 4-stall stable, kennels, and pony paddock.

Supplies can be obtained at Brechin, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

K I L R Y .

Kilry House, situated within 5 miles of the market town and railway station of Alyth, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, bath-room, kitchen, &c. There is hot and cold water throughout the House.

The stabling is ample, and there is a good garden.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres, of which 400 acres are low ground, the remainder being excellent grouse moor, and should yield 300 to 400 brace of grouse, besides partridges, hares, &c.

KINNORDY.

The Mansion House of Kinnordy is situated in a finely-wooded park, and is very large and commodious, containing 6 public-rooms, 12 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms, bath-room, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, servants' bed-rooms, &c.

The stabling is for 9 or 10 horses, and there are 2 coach-houses, harness-room, accommodation for stable-men, &c.

The garden is large, and contains vineries and peach-houses, and the pleasure grounds are extensive.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres of moor and low country, which in good seasons ought to yield 200 to 250 brace of grouse and black-game, and 200 to 300 brace of partridges, besides snipe, woodcocks, capercailzie, roe deer, hares, &c., with occasional chances of red deer.

Kirriemuir is within two miles of the House, and all kinds of supplies can be obtained there. Railway station and postal and telegraph office also at Kirriemuir.

MIDDLETON.

The Mansion House of Middleton is situated about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Guthrie Junction on the Caledonian Railway, and contains accommodation for a large family.

The shootings extend to about 1800 acres of low country, and afford excellent sport in favourable seasons.

MILDEN.

Salmon fishing in the Rivers North Esk and South Esk can generally be rented without much difficulty.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Montrose, which is a postal and telegraph town.

INVERNESS-SHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THIS great county, the largest in Scotland and the second largest in the United Kingdom, extends to 2,723,501 acres, or about 4255 square miles, being rather more than one-half the extent of Wales, and about a seventh of that of Scotland. The population, however, is insignificant, being only 90,414, according to the Census of 1881, of which rather more than one-fifth is resident in the county town, giving an average of 21 to the square mile, or, deducting the population of the county town, 17 to the square mile, certainly one of the most thinly-populated districts in the world.

The islands of Inverness-shire comprise a no inconsiderable portion, numbering as these do some 250, of which only a few over 50 are inhabited ; the largest being the famed Isle of Skye, which is 48 miles in length, and from 12 to 22 miles in breadth. The lochs take up a considerable portion.

The scenery is extremely fine, in parts equal to any in the Highlands. The scenery along the West Coast is exceedingly grand and striking—indeed a whole lifetime might well be spent in exploring the many and varied beauties of this great county. It has been unfortunately the fashion for those able to afford it to rush off to the Continent and visit the scenery there, when one tithe of the journey and expense would bring them to scenery of equal or perhaps greater magnificence, and save them all the worry and annoyance of foreign travel, and the fleecing which they invariably experience at the hands of the “intelligent” foreigner. After doing the Rhine tour, the Swiss, indeed any Continental tour, it is doubtful whether the same pleasurable reminiscences remain as do after spending a few months in the Highlands of Scotland, with its rich store of romantic and poetic legends inalienably associated with mountains, lochs, and streams. Many people seem blind to the fact that within the very limited confines of the British Isles there is scenery not surpassed by any in the world. If the Highlands of Scotland were more remote, or formed part of some foreign country, doubtless the majority of those who have never crossed the Forth would thoroughly explore every corner of it with enthusiasm and delight.

From a sporting point of view, too, Inverness-shire is one of the finest counties in the Kingdom, boasting of the best deer forests, a perfect host of splendid grouse moors, and many excellent salmon rivers.

Among the many beautiful and interesting places are the following, viz. :—The ruins of Ruthven Castle, near Kingussie, once a stronghold of the Wolf of Badenoch, and where Macpherson rallied the fragments of the Pretender's army after the disastrous Battle of Culloden ; Tor Alvie, near Aviemore, from the summit of which one of the grandest views in Scotland can be got ; Craigellachie Mountain, the rendezvous in olden time of the Clan Grant ; Cluny Castle, the seat of Cluny Macpherson ; Loch Laggan (with its two little islands of "Kings" and "Dogs"), surrounded by lofty and picturesque mountains (via Kingussie) ; the celebrated parallel road of Glen Roy (via Fort William) ; the king of British mountains, Ben Nevis, 4406 feet above sea level (via Fort William) ; the ruins of Inverlochy Castle, once inhabited by Banquo, Thane of Lochaber, near which Montrose defeated Argyll in 1645 (via Fort William) ; the rugged and picturesque glen of the River Nevis (via Fort William) ; the old Castle of Achnacarry, the ancient seat of the gallant Locheils, destroyed by the Duke of Cumberland after the Battle of Culloden (via Fort William) ; the ruins of Invergarry Castle, the ancient seat of the Macdonells of Glengarry, also destroyed by the Duke of Cumberland, where Prince Charlie slept at the beginning of his campaign, and after fatal Culloden (via Fort William); the splendid Valley of Glenmoriston (via Caledonian Canal); the Falls of Foyers, 200 feet high, visited by Burns (via Caledonian Canal); the ruins of Urquhart Castle, the ancient seat of the Seafield Clan, picturesquely situated, overlooking Loch Ness (via Caledonian Canal); the vitrified fort on Craig Phadrick at Inverness; Culloden Moor, where the hopes of the Pretender were finally crushed in 1745 (via Inverness); the charming and picturesque valleys of Strathglass, Strathfarrer, Glenaffric, Glen Urquhart, and Glencannich (via Beaulieu); Loch Ailort, where Prince Charlie landed and also sailed from after Culloden (via Banavie); the picturesque Upper Falls of Nevis (via Fort William); Loch Coruisk, perhaps the most desolate-looking sheet of water in the country (Isle of Skye); the wildly-picturesque Glen Sligachan (Isle of Skye); the remarkable Hills—Macleod's Maidens, the Quairang, and Storr Rock (Isle of Skye); the celebrated Spar Cave, visited by Scott and Wilson (Isle of Skye); Prince Charlie's Cave, near Portree (Isle of Skye); the remarkable Peak of Blaven, 3019 feet high (Isle of Skye); Loch Scavaig, pronounced by many the finest of Scottish Lochs (Isle of Skye); and the mountainous Island of Eigg.

The largest loch of Inverness-shire is Loch Ness, 26 miles in length and about one mile in breadth, and surrounded by very fine scenery. It is not of much angling importance, although salmon have easy access to it. In some places it is very deep, over 130 fathoms. The best angling lochs are those of Morar and Shiel on the West Coast.

The principal river, wholly within the county, is the River Beaulieu, which has a course from its head waters in Glenaffric of about 35 miles, and ranks high among salmon rivers.

Among the principal deer forests are those of Glenstrathfarrer (W. L. Winans, Esq.), Ben Alder (F. Gretton, Esq.), Ardverikie (Sir John W. Ramsden, Bart., M.P.), Achnacarry (Locheil, M.P.), Invermoriston (Alex. Dennistoun, Esq.), Ceannacroe (H. Bruce Meux, Esq.), Glenquoich (M. A. Bass, Esq., M.P.), Kinloch (A. F. Thistlethwayte, Esq.), Balmacaan (Sir Henry Allsopp), Guisachan (Lord Tweedmouth), Glenmore and Abernethy (Earl of Stamford and Warrington), Rothiemurchus (Sir Curtis M. Lampson, Bart.), Glenteshie (Sir Charles Mordaunt, Bart.), Gaick (J. Hargreaves, Esq.), Glengarry (Mrs. Ellice), and Corriechoillie (Lord Abinger); and among the best grouse moors are those of Aberarder, Alvie (C. W. Dawes, Esq.), Coignafearn, Crubenmore, Daviot, Dunachton (J. Austin, Esq.), Drumouchter (A. Sebright, Esq.), Dunmaglass, Farraline, Flichity, Glenmazeran, Glenshiere (Col. Thursby), Glenspean, Invereshie (A. P. Heywood Lonsdale, Esq.), Kinveachy (Sir J. Greville-Smythe, Bart.), Kinrara (Major Bourke), Moy (The Macintosh), Phones (A. H. Brown, Esq., M.P.), and Pitmain (D. Jardine, Esq.).

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £100,000.

The following hotels have good angling in connection with them, viz.:—Lochend Hotel, 6 miles from Inverness; Loch Laggan Hotel, 16 miles from Kingussie; Foyers' Hotel, 18 miles by steamer from Inverness; and Invergarry Hotel, 40 miles by steamer from Inverness.

THE ISLANDS OF INVERNESS-SHIRE.

THE Islands of Inverness-shire number some 251, about 50 of which are inhabited. The scenery of many of them is very grand and striking, especially of those of Skye and Eigg, as well as several of the Outer Hebrides. St. Kilda, the most westerly and one of the most interesting of the British Islands, forms part of the county of Inverness, and lies to the westward of Uist.

THE SHOOTINGS OF INVERNESS-SHIRE.

ABERARDER.

ABERARDER HOUSE, which is situated amid exceedingly fine scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 15 bedrooms, 6 servants'-rooms, servants' hall, kitchen and scullery, butlers' pantry, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, harness-room, garden, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 6500 acres, of which 6000 or so are first-class grouse moor, the remainder being arable land and woods. Probable bag, 700 to 800 brace of grouse, besides other game.

There is some very superior Loch trout fishing, especially in Loch Ruthven.

The House is about 14 miles from Inverness. There is a post-runner daily, and a doctor, and churches and shop about 3 miles off.

ABERNETHY.

This splendid and magnificently situated deer forest, including some grouse moor and low country shootings, extends to about 33,000 acres, and yields a very large number of stags.

The fishings comprise about 5 miles of the River Spey and several excellent trouting lochs.

There is a large and commodious Lodge at Glenmore, and a smaller one within a mile of Abernethy Station on the Highland Railway.

The combined forests of Abernethy and Glenmore are tenanted by the Earl of Stamford and Warrington, and form together one of the finest in the country, and will probably yield 100 stags. The splendid Mountain Braeriach forms part of this forest.

ALDOWRIE.

Aldowrie Castle is beautifully situated on the shores of Loch Ness and surrounded by very fine scenery. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, morning-room, billiard-room, 16 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms, 6 servants' rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c.

There are excellent stables with coach-houses, harness-room, coachman's-rooms, &c., and also good kennels and gardens.

The shootings extend to about 8000 acres, and should yield in favourable seasons 350 brace of grouse and black-game, besides pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, roe deer, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in several lakes, including Lochs Ness and Duntelchaig.

Inverness is 6 miles distant by an excellent road.

Caledonian Canal steamers call at a pier near the house daily.

ALVIE.

The Lodge is new and prettily situated about 8 miles from the village and railway station of Kingussie, and 2 miles from Kincaig Station. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, bath-room, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, servants' rooms, &c.

There is a 3-stall stable with coach-house, also kennels, and small vegetable garden.

The shootings extend to about 8000 acres, and should yield in favourable seasons 600 to 700 brace of grouse, besides black-game, roe deer, ducks, hares, and rabbits.

The River Spey bounds the property for a mile or so, and affords a little salmon and trout fishing, and there is also very good trout fishing in the River Dulnan, about 6 miles off.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Kingussie.

ARDACHIE.

The Mansion House contains 15 rooms, with suitable domestic offices. There are also stable, coach-house, and garden. It is most beautifully situated near Fort Augustus, where steamers from and to Inverness call daily, and where there is a postal and telegraph office.

The shootings extend to about 1800 acres, and the game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, and ducks.

There is fairly good trout fishing.

ARISAIG.

This capital deer forest extends to about 25,000 acres, and should yield 30 stags, besides roe deer, grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, and hares.

There is excellent salmon fishing in the Rivers Morar and Eylort, and very good loch trout fishing in Loch Morar and other smaller lochs.

The house usually let along with this shooting is Treigh Lodge, which contains dining-room, drawing-room, 7 bedrooms, 1 dressing-room, large nursery, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall and rooms. There are also 2-stall stable, coach-house, and garden.

The House is situated near the sea, about 3 miles from the village of Arisaig, where there are churches, doctor, and postoffice, and about 35 miles from Banavie on the Caledonian Canal, by a magnificent drive. Steamers from and to Glasgow call at Arisaig once a week.

ARMADALE.

Armadale Castle is finely situated on the Sound of Sleat, and commands very extensive and beautiful views of the mainland of Inverness-shire.

It is very large and commodious, containing entrance hall, dining-room, drawing-room, music-room, billiard-room, gun-room, 2 sitting-rooms, 14 bed-rooms, 6 dressing-rooms, day and night nurseries, 13 servants'-bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, larders, butler's pantry and bed-room, housekeeper's-room, still-room, servants' hall, laundry, bakery, &c.

There is a 10-stall stable with 2 coach-houses, harness-room, and 4 rooms for stable-men, and a fine large garden, containing peach-house, vinery, and conservatory.

The shootings extend to about 20,000 acres, and should yield 500 brace of grouse and black-game, besides snipe, woodcocks, partridges, red deer, hares, and wild fowl.

There is a little sea trout and brown trout fishing.

A steamer calls daily close to the Castle. Broadford is the nearest postal and telegraph office, the distance being about 16 miles, and Strome Ferry the nearest railway station.

ARNISDALE.

The shootings of Arnisdale or Loch Hourn extend to 25,000 acres. The game consists of red deer, roe deer, black-game, grouse, ptarmigan, snipe, and woodcocks.

There is excellent salmon and sea trout fishing in the River Arnisdale, and plenty good trout fishing.

The Lodge is beautifully situated on Loch Hourn, and is commodious and comfortable.

ROUTE.—Rail to Strome Ferry, thence per boat, or per boat and carriage.

This shooting is well adapted for a yachting party.

BALMACAAN.

The Mansion House of Balmacaan is delightfully situated near Loch Ness, and surrounded by very grand and varied scenery. It contains dining-room, 2 drawing-rooms, 9 bedrooms, 3 dressing-rooms, smoking-room, gun-room, bath-room, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, housekeeper's-room, still-room, butler's pantry, servants'-rooms, &c. It is lighted with gas, and well supplied with excellent water. The drainage is good.

There is an excellent kitchen garden, and a flower garden with conservatory. The stabling consists of 10 stalls and 2 loose boxes, harness-room, and 2 coach-houses with rooms for coachmen, and is also well supplied with water.

The shootings extend to about 41,000 acres, of which 28,000 acres are cleared of sheep, and embrace the celebrated mountain Mealfourvouie, 1250 grouse moor, and about 11,750 low country. The game comprises red deer, roe deer, grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, and fallow deer. Probable bag, 50 to 60 stags, 30 hinds, and 200 brace of grouse and black-game, besides a very large bag of other kinds.

There is good trout fishing in the Rivers Enerick and Coilty, and also in several lochs.

The House is 15 miles from Inverness, and 2 miles from Temple Pier on Loch Ness, where steamers to and from Inverness call daily. Drumnadrochit postal and telegraph office is distant about 1 mile.

BANCHOR.

This excellent grouse shooting marching with Glenmazeraan extends to about 3000 acres, and in good seasons should yield at least 600 brace of grouse, besides other game.

It is situated about 20 miles from Inverness, and about the same distance from Boat of Garten Station.

BEARNOCK.

The shootings of Bearnock in Glen Urquhart extend to about 3000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, hares, rabbits, and roe deer. Probable bag of all kinds, 500 head.

There is plenty good trout fishing in the neighbourhood.

The Lodge is charmingly situated, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c.

The are also stables, kennels, and garden.

The nearest railway station is Inverness, distant about 20 miles. Steamers to and from Inverness call at Temple Pier daily; and at Drumnadrochit, 5 miles off, there are doctor, shops, and postal and telegraph office.

BELLEVILLE.

The Mansion House of Belleville is picturesquely situated on an eminence commanding a splendid view of the valley of the Spey. It contains dining-room, double drawing-room, breakfast parlour, library, business-room, 10 bed-rooms, 3 dressing-rooms, and ample servants' rooms, domestic offices, &c.

There are also excellent stables, kennels, garden, and pleasure grounds.

The shootings extend to about 8000 acres, of which 6000 acres are grouse moor, the remainder being low country; and the game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, wood-cocks, snipe, wild-fowl, roe deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 600 to 800 brace.

There is also some salmon and trout fishing in the River Spey.

The House is situated about 3 miles from the village and railway station of Kingussie, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there is a postal and telegraph office.

BEN ALDER.

This magnificent deer forest extends to about 30,000 acres, and will stand 80 to 100 stags per season. It is intersected by about 18 miles of good bridle paths, and its deer are of unsurpassed quality.

There is not much grouse or other shooting.

The Lodge is situated on the banks of Loch Erocht. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, 3 dressing-rooms, 10 servants'-rooms, and ample and convenient domestic offices.

There are also good stables, coach-house, larders, and kennels.

Loch Erocht affords excellent trout fishing, and there are various other lochs and streams which the tenant has the right of fishing in.

Dalwhinnie is the nearest railway station and postal and telegraph office, and is distant six miles by a good carriage road.

Many sportsmen consider Ben Alder the most perfect deer forest in Scotland.

BRIN.

The Mansion House of Brin contains spacious dining and drawing rooms, parlour, billiard-room, entrance hall, 14 bed rooms, hot and cold baths, servants' hall, butler's and house-keeper's rooms, kitchen, scullery, and ample accommodation for servants.

There is excellent stabling, and a large and very productive garden.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres, of which 600 are arable and 400 woods, the remainder being grouse moor of fair quality. Probable bag of grouse, 300 to 400 brace.

The trout fishing in Lochs Ruthven, Duntelchaig, and Choire, and in the River Nairn, is very good.

Inverness is about 11 miles distant, and there is a daily post to the house. Doctor, church, and general merchants' shop about 1 mile off.

CATLODGE.

This shooting extends to about 3000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, hares, and rabbits.

There is fair salmon fishing in the River Spey, and excellent loch trout fishing.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 4 bedrooms, 1 dressing-room, kitchen, scullery, pantry, and servants' rooms.

There are also stable, coach-house, and kennels.

Dalwhinnie is the nearest railway station and postal and telegraph office, and is distant 5 miles.

The Fort William and Kingussie Coach passes within 2 miles of the Lodge daily.

CEANNACROC FOREST.

This fine deer forest extends to about 51,000 acres, of which 27,000 acres or thereabouts are cleared of sheep. It is first-class stalking ground, with very high hills and excellent wintering. Probable bag, 80 to 90 stags and 400 to 500 brace of grouse, besides other game.

There is excellent trout fishing.

The Lodge, which is about 14 miles from Invermoriston Pier on Loch Ness, is comfortable and commodious, with good stabling and kennels.

The scenery is very grand and wild.

COIGNAFEARN.

This splendid sporting range in the Monagh Leadh Mountains extends to about 40,000 acres, and in good seasons ought to yield 2000 to 2500 brace of grouse, besides red deer, black-game, &c.

There is good trout fishing in various lochs and streams, including the River Findhorn.

The Lodge contains 1 public-room, 9 bed-rooms, 3 servants'-rooms, kitchen, &c., and there are also stables, kennels, and kitchen garden.

It is situated amid grand mountain scenery, about 20 miles from Boat of Garten Station on the Highland Railway, and about 7 miles from the post-office at Tomatin, where some kinds of supplies can be obtained.

CORRIMONY.

The House, which is delightfully situated in the fine valley of Glen Urquhart, contains 4 public-rooms, 10 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, nursery, 4 servants'-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, terrace flower garden, 2 greenhouses, kitchen garden, and charming pleasure grounds.

The shootings extend to about 4000 acres, of which 1000 acres are low country. 300 acres are generally clear of sheep from 25th July to 1st November. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, partridges, ducks, pigeons, red deer, fallow deer, and roe deer. Probable bag, of grouse 200 brace, of black-game 50 to 80 brace, and of stags 4 to 5.

It is not particularly good for deer however, but the grouse shooting is equal to any in the North. Probable bag of grouse, 1500 to 2000 brace. There are also lots of black-game, woodcocks, roe, &c.

The fishings comprise several very good trouting lochs, and about 9 miles of the River Spey.

The House, which is new, is commodious and well built, and situated amid very fine scenery. It contains 4 public-rooms, 13 bed-rooms, 9 servants'-rooms, kitchen and scullery, butler's pantry, hall, &c.

The offices comprise stabling for 12 horses, coach-house, and rooms for six men-servants, &c.

There is an excellent garden.

Boat of Garten Station on the Highland Railway is within a short distance of the House, and has a postal and telegraph office. Supplies can be obtained either from Elgin, Forres, or Kingussie.

KNOCKIE.

The shootings of Knockie extend to about 11,000 acres, and the game consists of red deer, grouse, black-game, &c.

There is good trout fishing in lochs and streams.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 best bed-rooms, 2 smaller bed-rooms, bath, servants'-rooms, kitchen, &c.

ROUTE.—By rail to Inverness, thence per steamer down Loch Ness to Invermoriston Pier on the Caledonian Canal route, which is just across the loch from the Lodge.

Supplies can be got from Inverness, and there is a postal and telegraph office at Invermoriston.

LAKEFIELD.

This charming residence is situated on Loch Meikley in Glen Urquhart, one of the loveliest glens in the Highlands. It contains drawing-room, dining-room, 2 sitting-rooms, billiard-room, 11 bed-rooms, 4 servants'-rooms, kitchen and scullery, pantry, servants' hall, &c.

There are also stabling for 4 horses, coach-house, harness-room, room for coachman, and an excellent garden, with conservatories, vinery, and fernery.

The shootings extend to about 2100 acres, of which 1780 acres are moor and 320 woods and pasture. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, roe, &c. Probable bag, about 500 head of winged game, besides roe, rabbits, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Meikley, which also yields salmon occasionally.

Steamers from and to Inverness call daily at Temple Pier, 6 miles distant.

The village of Drumnadrochit, 5 miles off, has a postal and telegraph office. Letters are delivered at the house daily.

MACDONALD FOREST.

This excellent deer forest in the Island of Skye extends to between 40,000 and 50,000 acres, and should yield 30 stags and about 350 brace of grouse. It is capital stalking ground.

There is first-rate salmon and sea trout fishing in the Rivers Sligachan, Glenmore, and Glenvaragil.

A fine new Lodge is in course of erection at Sconcer, in a beautifully picturesque situation near the sea, and there are stables and kennels.

Steamers from Strome Ferry call daily at Portree, from which place the Lodge is distant about 11 miles.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Portree, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

MEOBLE.

The shootings of Meoble extend to about 20,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, red deer, snipe, &c.

There is excellent salmon fishing in Loch Morar, and trout fishing in Loch Bervraid and the River Meoble.

The Lodge is very small, containing 2 sitting-rooms and 5 bed-rooms, with kitchen. It is 28 miles from Fort William, 6 miles of which is by a very bad track, leading across the moor. A post passes within 6 miles. There is a doctor at Arisaig, 12 miles off.

The scenery is extremely grand and varied.

MONAR (SOUTH).

The shooting of South Monar extends to about 7500 acres, and in favourable seasons should yield 150 to 200 brace of grouse, and 10 to 15 stags, besides ptarmigan, snipe, wild fowl, hares, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Monar, a lake about 6 miles long, which contains pike also.

The Lodge is pleasantly situated on the shores of the loch, and contains 2 sitting-rooms and 6 or 7 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c.

Strathcarron, 15 miles distant, is the nearest railway station and postal and telegraph office. Beauly is distant 30 miles.

This place, being rather difficult of access, would hardly suit a party with ladies.

MOY.

Moy Lodge, beautifully situated, overlooking Loch Laggan, a charming lake, surrounded by lofty mountains, contains dining-room, drawing-room, morning-room, bath-room, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen and scullery, hall, servants'-rooms, butler's pantry, &c.

There are also good stables, with coach-house, &c., kennels, and an excellent kitchen garden.

The shootings extend to about 4000 acres, and should yield in good seasons about 200 brace of grouse and black-game, and 50 brace ptarmigan, besides hares, &c.

The trout fishing is as good as any in Scotland, and comprises Loch Laggan and the Rivers Spean and Gulbin.

Kingussie is the nearest railway station, the distance being about 24 miles. A coach between Kingussie and Fort William passes and repasses the Lodge daily.

Supplies can be obtained either from Fort William or Kingussie. Letters are delivered daily.

NESS CASTLE.

The shootings of Ness Castle are of a mixed character, and extend to about 1000 acres of moor and 2000 acres of arable land, plantations, &c. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, pheasants, roe deer, woodcocks, &c.

There are 2 or 3 miles of excellent salmon fishing in the River Ness.

The Lodge, which is situated almost in the centre of the ground, commands very beautiful views of Loch Ness and the surrounding country, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, and butler's pantry, servants' rooms, &c.

There are also stables, and excellent garden and kennels. Inverness is distant about five miles.

ORBOST.

The shootings of Orbost, situated in the Island of Skye, extend to about 6000 acres, and yield pretty fair sport with grouse, partridges, snipe, wild fowl, and hares.

There is trout fishing in a small river near the House, and excellent sea fishing.

The Mansion House, which is a substantial building situated close to the sea, contains 2 public-rooms, billiard-room, a large number of bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, &c.

There is stabling for 3 horses, with coach-house, also kennel, and a large garden.

A medical man resides within 2 miles of the House, and there is a postal and telegraph office, and also churches at Dunvegan, 4 miles distant, where steamers from Glasgow call once a week.

PHONES.

The shootings of Phones extend to about 10,000 acres, and should yield from 800 to 1000 brace of grouse in ordinary seasons, besides black-game, partridges, woodcocks, ptarmigan, and hares.

The House, which is situated amid some of the grandest scenery in the Highlands, contains 3 public-rooms, 11 bed-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There are also stables and kennels.

Newtonmore Station on the Highland Railway is distant about 6 miles, and supplies can be obtained via it from either Kingussie or Blair Athole.

PITMAIN.

This very fine shooting extends to about 24,000 acres, of which 800 acres are arable, the remainder being first-rate grouse ground, which should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse. The other game comprises black-game, partridges, and hares.

There is a little salmon and trout fishing in about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the River Spey, and some loch trout fishing.

The Lodge, which is nicely situated, contains dining-room, drawing-room, smoking-room, 9 bed-rooms, servants' hall, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, kitchen, pantry and scullery, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, and garden.

The village and railway station of Kingussie is close to the Lodge.

ROTHIEMURCHUS.

This fine deer forest, ranking among the best in the country, extends to about 19,000 acres, a no inconsiderable portion of which is natural pine-wood, which forms splendid wintering. It should yield about 60 stags of large size, besides a considerable number of hinds. Ptarmigan are plentiful.

There is excellent trout fishing in several lochs and streams, and one loch yields char also.

The Lodge, which commands a most lovely prospect, contains dining-room, drawing-room, gun and smoking-room, pantry, kitchen and scullery, bath-room, housekeeper's-room, servants' hall, 13 bed-rooms, 4 attic-rooms for female servants, accommodation for 4 men-servants, &c. Hot and cold water is laid on.

There are also stables, coach-house, paddock, garden, and larders.

The nearest railway-station and postal and telegraph office is Aviemore, distant about one mile and three-quarters.

RUTHVEN.

The shooting of Ruthven extends to about 3000 acres, of which about 200 acres are arable land, the remainder being very good grouse moor. Probable bag, 300 to 400 brace of grouse, besides other game.

The fishing is in the River Findhorn.

The Lodge contains 2 sitting-rooms, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c.

Inverness, 10 miles distant by an excellent road, is the nearest town and railway-station.

SAMLAMAN.

Samlaman House is beautifully situate near the sea, and commands splendid views of the Cuchullin Hills in the Island of Skye and of the Islands of Eigg and Rum. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, 8 bed-rooms, 1 dressing-room, bath, servants' accommodation, domestic offices, &c.

There are also garden, stables, and kennels.

There is excellent anchorage for yachts.

The shootings extend to about 2500 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, roe deer, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in two lochs on the ground.

The House is about 6 miles by sea from Arisaig, where Macbraynes' steamers call regularly.

STAFFIN.

The shooting of Staffin extends to nearly 40,000 acres, and should yield 400 to 600 brace of grouse, besides a very heavy bag of snipe, plover, woodcocks, wild fowl, hares, &c.

The fishings are in two capital sea trout rivers, and in various small lochs. Salmon are also occasionally caught.

Staffin House is delightfully situated, overlooking the bay of the same name, and commanding very fine views. It is an excellent House, containing dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, 6 bed-rooms, 1 dressing-room, 2 w.c.'s, 5 servants' rooms, pantry, kitchen, laundry, &c. Water is laid on.

There are also 2 stables of 2 stalls each, coach-house, coachman's-house, kennels, keepers' houses, garden, and lawn.

There are splendid facilities for boating and sea fishing and bathing.

ROUTE.—Via Strome Ferry to Portree, thence drive. Supplies are easily obtained, and there is a telegraph office within a few miles.

STRATHAIRD.

The shootings of Strathaird and Kilmore in the Island of Skye extend to about 40,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, ptarmigan, woodcocks, snipe, red deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 450 to 500 brace.

There is abundance of excellent sea trout and brown trout fishing in several lochs and small rivers, including the famed Loch Coruisk and the River Sligachan, also some salmon fishing.

The remarkable mountain of Blaven forms part of this shooting.

There are three lodges, the one at Kilmore, containing 2 public-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c., is generally let along with Strathaird shooting, which extends to about 24,000 acres.

ROUTE.—By rail to Strome Ferry, thence per steamer to Broadford, and thence post about 12 miles. Postal and telegraph office at Broadford.

Another Lodge stands immediately above the famed Spar Cave, visited and described by Scott and Wilson.

STRATHMASHIE.

The shootings of Strathmashie extend to about 15,000 acres, chiefly excellent grouse moor. The game comprises grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, ducks, and roe deer. Probable bag in good seasons, 650 to 750 brace of grouse, and 100 brace of partridges, besides other game.

There is excellent trout fishing in the Rivers Spey and Mashie.

The Lodge, which is surrounded by fine mountain scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 7 bed-rooms, kitchen, butlers' pantry, servants' rooms, &c.

There is a stable of 4 stalls, with coach-house and rooms for stablemen, and also a kitchen garden, and pony paddock of 4 acres.

Newtonmore Station is about 9 miles from the Lodge, Dalwhinnie 10 miles, and Kingussie 12 miles. A coach from Kingussie passes the Lodge daily. Letters are delivered daily.

STRONELAIRG.

The shootings of Stronelaireg extend to about 4000 acres, and are situated on the Spey side of the Monagh Leadh mountains. The game consists of grouse, black-game, and ptarmigan; and as the ground is a favourite resort of deer, and not very far distant from several fine forests, a few stags can be got. Probable bag of grouse, 400 to 600 brace.

There is good trout fishing in two small streams near the Lodge, and in Loch Dearg.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 3 bedrooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 2 servants'-rooms, kitchen, pantry, &c., and there are also 2-stall stable for ponies, kennels, &c.

It is about 12 miles from Foyers Pier on Loch Ness, 9 miles from Crathie, near the River Spey, and 10 miles from the Kingussie and Fort Willam coach road.

The ground, which is very high, commands magnificent views of the surrounding country.

TOMATIN.

Tomatin House, which is pleasantly situated in the valley of the Findhorn, contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, gun and smoking-room, 6 bedrooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 3 servants'-rooms, servants' hall, kitchen, laundry, &c.

There are also a 5-stall stable, harness-room, coach-house, kennels, larders, and a kitchen and flower garden.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres, and in good seasons should yield 500 brace of grouse, besides black-game, woodcocks, partridges, roe deer, and hares.

There is capital trout fishing in the River Findhorn, which flows past the House, and in autumn a few salmon are got.

The nearest railway station is Boat of Garten, distant about 14 miles. All kinds of supplies are obtainable at Inverness, 15 miles off, and there is a post-office and general merchant's shop within a mile of the house. Post daily.

TORDARROCH AND ESSICH.

These shootings, which are usually let together, extend to about 4000 acres, and yield excellent sport with grouse. There is also very fair partridge shooting on the Essich portion. Probable bag, 300 brace of grouse, besides other game.

There is excellent trout and pike fishing in several lochs.

The shootings are very accessible from Inverness, there being two capital roads, either of which is convenient for the ground. Essich is distant from Inverness about 3 miles, and Tordarroch about 7 miles.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation might be got at one of the farmhouses.

KINCARDINESHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THIS small county does not contain very much of interest to the sight-seer. The chief places of interest being the ruins of Dunottar Castle, the ancient stronghold of the Earls Marischal, picturesquely situated on a steep, precipitous rock, washed on three sides by the ocean, and covering about 3 acres; the ruins of Muchalls Castle, near Stonehaven; the ruins of Fiddes Castle (via Fordoun); and of the Royal Castle of Kincardine (via Laurencekirk). There is a very charming waterfall in the Den of Finella, near Lauriston. The scenery of Glen Dye is very fine. The coast is for the greater part bold, rugged, and picturesque.

There are no lochs of any importance.

The principal river is the Bervie, 15 miles long, which yields capital sport with salmon, sea and yellow trout. The River Dee bounds the county for about 15 miles, and flows through it for other 6 miles or so.

Among the best shootings are those of Back of Stone, Drumtochty, Fasque, and Hobseat.

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £3500.

THE SHOOTINGS OF KINCARDINESHIRE.

BACK O' THE STONE.

THIS shooting extends to about 5000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good season, 400 brace.

There is excellent sea and yellow trout fishing.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at Banchory, near the ground, where there is a railway station and a postal and telegraph office.

GLENFARQUHAR.

The shootings of Glenfarquhar extend to about 4900 acres, of which about 3300 are moorland, the remainder being low country. The game consists of grouse, black-game, snipe, partridges, woodcocks, plover, hares, and rabbits. Red deer are occasionally on the ground. Probable bag of grouse and black-game, 400 to 500 brace, and of partridges 200 brace.

There is excellent trout fishing in the River Bervie, which also yields salmon and sea trout.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got in the village of Auchinblae, which is on the estate, and about 1 ½ miles from Fordoun Station on the Caledonian Railway.

HARVIESTON.

The shooting of Harvieston extends to about 4000 acres of low country. The game consists of pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, plover, ducks, hares, and rabbits.

There is fair trout fishing.

Stonehaven is about 5 miles distant, and Bervie 4 miles.

Kinneff House is sometimes let along with this shooting. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, business-room, billiard-room, 9 bed-rooms, domestic offices, &c. It is delightfully situated about half a mile from the sea, near Bervie.

HOBSEAT.

This very excellent grouse shooting extends to about 6000 acres, and in favourable seasons should yield 800 brace of grouse, besides other game. It has yielded 1200 brace.

There is a little trout fishing.

The lodge is small, but comfortable enough for gentlemen ; the accommodation being 2 sitting and 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c. There are also stables and kennels.

It is distant about 9 miles from Stonehaven on the Caledonian Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and where all kinds of supplies can be obtained.

INVERY.

The Mansion House of Inverly is beautifully situated on Deeside, about 2 miles from the village and railway station of Banchory. It contains 4 public-rooms, 8 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' rooms, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, garden, and pleasure grounds.

The shootings extend to about 1800 acres, chiefly low country. The game consists of partridges, pheasants, ducks, grouse, hares, and rabbits. The grouse shooting is of no account.

There is fair salmon fishing in a bit of the River Dee, and good trout fishing in its tributary, the Feugh, which also yields salmon and sea trout.

Supplies are obtained from Aberdeen. There is a postal and telegraph office at Banchory.

LEYS.

The shootings of Leys extend to about 10,000 acres, and in good seasons should yield 200 brace of grouse, besides partridges, woodcocks, ducks, snipe, pheasants, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at Banchory, a station on the Deeside Railway, about three miles from the ground.

Excellent salmon fishing in the River Dee usually can be rented along with this shooting.

NETHERLEY.

The Mansion House of Netherley contains 4 sitting-rooms and 10 bed-rooms, with ample domestic offices, &c. There are also excellent stables and outhouses, and a large productive garden.

The shootings extend to about 3000 acres, of which about 600 acres are wood. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, wild ducks, woodcocks, snipe, and hares. The grouse shooting yields from 20 to 30 brace a day in the early part of the season.

The House is about 5 miles from Stonehaven, the county town, where all kinds of supplies can be got, and 12 miles from Aberdeen. Muchalls Station on the Caledonian Railway is distant about 3 miles.

NAIRNSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THIS little county, the smallest in the North of Scotland, contains several very interesting places, notably Cawdor Castle, erected in 1454, which, never having undergone any modern improvement, is probably the most perfect feudal remain in the country (via Nairn); Kilravock Castle, the seat of Major James Rose, erected in 1460, which has remained in possession of this family ever since (via Fort George Station); the ruins of Raits Castle (via Nairn); and the Druidical remains at Clava (via Culloden), and near Urquhart (via Dingwall). There are some interesting lacustrine remains at the Loch of the Clans. Nairn, the county town, has of recent years become a very fashionable and favourite health resort, owing to its particularly fine climate and unsurpassed facilities for sea-bathing, the beach being of great extent. It is a well-built town, containing one or two good public buildings and a large number of handsome private residences.

There is no loch of any importance.

The principal river is the Nairn, 35 miles long, which yields a little salmon and sea trout fishing and capital trout fishing. The scenery along the banks is exceedingly fine.

Among the principal shootings are those of Dunmaglass (see Inverness), Coulmony, Geddes, Glenferness, and Lethen.

COULMONY.

The shootings of Coulmony extend to about 4000 acres, of which about 800 acres are arable land. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, wild fowl, pheasants, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

There is excellent trout and fair salmon fishing in about 7 miles of the River Findhorn.

The House is charmingly situate on a plateau, overlooking the picturesque Valley of the Findhorn, the scenery of which is unsurpassed in the Highlands. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, boudoir, parlour, 10 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 2 baths, housekeeper's-room, 5 or 6 servants' rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, harness-room, kennels, and garden, containing greenhouse and vinery.

It is distant about 9 miles from Nairn and Forres, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there are postal and telegraph offices.

GEDDES.

The Mansion House of Geddes is commodious, and charmingly situate near the town of Nairn. There is good stabling accommodation, and also an excellent garden.

The estate extends to about 900 acres, and affords fair mixed shooting.

There is a little salmon and trout fishing in the River Nairn.

Supplies can be obtained at Nairn, the county town.

PERTHSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Perth is the fourth largest in Scotland, the extent, 1,664,690 acres, being within a little of that of Devonshire. The population in 1881 was 128,985, of which nearly 30,000 were resident in the county town. It is therefore very thinly populated, about 50 to the square mile, the average for Devonshire being nearly 225 to the square mile. Of the entire acreage only about one-fifth is under cultivation. The most fertile districts are the Carse of Gowrie and the valleys of Strathmore and Strathearn, which rank as high as any in the country.

Perthshire is entirely an inland county, with the exception of a small detached portion bordering on the Firth of Forth.

The scenery has been and is still pronounced by many to be the grandest and most varied in Scotland, but that is open to dispute, being purely a matter of taste; but from a sporting point of view it unquestionably bears away the palm. It furnishes ample and abundant scope for the researches of the antiquary and the geologist, and is a perfect storehouse of scenic treasures for the painter, and is also richly endowed in historic incident.

Much of the history of the Scottish people is inalienably associated with the history of this great county, the praises of whose mountains, lochs, and streams have been sung by poets great and small for generations, but it is to Sir Walter Scott that Perthshire owes its deepest debt of gratitude. His mighty pen threw that magic halo of romance round its splendid scenery, which has kept attracting undiminished crowds ever since to gaze upon the scenes which he so graphically limns in verse of unsurpassed vigour and strength.

The City of Perth—flatteringly called the “Fair City”—is a place of great antiquity, and was once the capital of Scotland, but, alas! now contains but little of antiquarian interest. It is almost entirely surrounded by hills of picturesque and pleasing aspect; but the site of the town is ill-chosen, it must be confessed, being far too low down, still it presents a fine appearance when looked at from either of the numerous wooded eminences looking down upon it. That such an ancient city should be so utterly destitute of antiquities is a matter for the deepest regret, and has been entirely brought about by the strong hatred which the good people of it seem ever to have entertained for “ruins and angles.” It is, therefore, now a city rich only in historical associations. The best street is Tay Street, which faces the noble river, and commands a splendid view of the wooded heights of Kinnoull. This street in time will become one of the finest promenades in Europe; but the low elevation of the houses to a certain degree detracts considerably from its otherwise fine appearance. The great width of the river and the height of the hills on the opposite bank demanded a much higher elevation than the one adopted, but the “powers that be” seem to have reckoned without either river or hills.

Among the very great number of beautiful and interesting places in Perthshire are the following, viz. :—Loch Katrine and the Trossachs, rendered for ever famous by the exquisite lines of the master pen of romance; Loch Tay, surrounded by lofty mountains, the highest of which, Ben Lawers, including the cairn on the summit, is 4000 feet above sea level; Loch Rannoch, situated amid very fine scenery of the “wild” description; Taymouth Castle, the princely seat of the Earl of Breadalbane, splendidly situate at the foot of the beautifully-wooded Drummond Hill; Menzies Castle, standing in a park of fine old timber, backed by the picturesquely-wooded Weem Rock; Faskally House, one of the most exquisitely-situated mansions in the country; Drummond Castle, erected 1490, an ancient seat of the Perths, now in the possession of Lady Willoughby d'Eresby—the gardens here are greatly extolled; Abercairney Abbey, the splendid seat of C. S. Home Drummond Moray, Esq.; Kinfauns Castle, a very fine castellated building, charmingly situated in a hollow lying between the beautifully-wooded Kinnoull and Kinfauns Hills; Scone Palace, the seat of the Earl of Mansfield, once a royal residence, which the celebrated Coronation Stone, now in Westminster Abbey, was taken from; the finely situated mansion of Craighall (via Blairgowrie); Meggernie Castle, erected 1590, the approach to which is by an avenue arched over by very fine old trees (via Killin); Blair Castle, the seat of the Duke of Athole, an imposing-looking turretted structure, surrounded by fine gardens and pleasure grounds, and by scenery hardly equalled in the Highlands (via Blair Athole); the Roman Camps at Ardoch (via Dunblane), Dalginross (via Comrie), and Garth (via Aberfeldy); the Round Tower at Abernethy (via Perth); Dunsinane Hill, where Macbeth died (via Perth); the Old Yew-tree at Fortingal, said to be 2500 years old (via Aberfeldy); the Cathedrals of Dunblane (1100), and Dunkeld (1318); the old Castle of Murthly, once a hunting seat of the Scottish Kings (via Birnam); the ruins of Kincardine Castle, once a seat of the Montrose family (via Crieff Junction), of Ogilvie Castle (via Blackford), of Clunie Castle (via Blairgowrie), of Grandtully Castle (via Aberfeldy), of Megginch and Huntly Castles (via Perth), of Doune Castle, once a Royal residence (via Doune), of Garth Castle, once a stronghold of the Wolf of Badenoch (via Aberfeldy), of Glasclune Castle (via Blairgowrie), of Moulin Castle (via Pitlochry), and of Newton Castle, sacked by Montrose (via Blairgowrie); the pine-clad conic hill Tomachaistal, at Crieff; Moncrieffe Hill, with its delightful view (via Perth); the Falls of Bruar (via Blair Athole), and of Moness (via Aberfeldy), visited by Burns, also of Braan (via Dunkeld), and Acharn (via Aberfeldy); Finlarig, the ancient burial-place of the Breadalbane family (via Killin); Rob Roy's Grave in Balquidder; General Wade's Bridge at Aberfeldy; the Pass of Killiecrankie, where gallant Dundee fell in 1689; the charming Village of Birnam, surrounded by scenery hardly matched in the Highlands; the Lake of Menteith, with the ruins of a Priory founded in the eleventh century on one of its lovely little islands, and of Talla Castle, the stronghold of the once powerful Earls of Menteith on another; the picturesque Sma' Glen, described by Wordsworth (via Crieff); the wild and rugged Glen Ogle (via Lochearnhead); the picturesque "Clachan of Aberfoyle"; Loch Ericht, a desolate-looking sheet of water, from the shores of which rises mighty Ben Alder—Prince Charlie found shelter here after fatal Culloden; the broad, swelling, lovely Valley of Strathtay (via Aberfeldy); the rugged Glens of Glenlyon, Glenlochay, Glenshee, and Glentilt; the ruins of Inchaffray Abbey, founded 1258 (via Perth); and the ancient Burial-place of the Clan Macnab, on the little island in the River Dochart, near Killin. The last chief of this clan was a remarkable figure in Edinburgh society some years ago, and many quaint anecdotes are related of him.

The principal loch of Perthshire is Loch Tay, 16 miles long by about one mile broad, and the best salmon angling loch in the country, the sport being magnificent. It is very deep, 600 feet in some places, and nowhere much under 90 feet, and is entirely owned by the Earl of Breadalbane. The scenery is remarkably grand and varied.

The chief river is the majestic Tay, which is also the largest in Scotland, having a course of 126 miles, counting from its headwaters in Glen Dochart. The Tay also ranks as the best salmon river in the United Kingdom, the annual value of the net-fishings being the enormous sum of £15,000, and the rod-fishing realises a very large sum, possibly a fourth of that amount.

The principal deer forests are those of Athole (Duke of Athole), Glenartney (Lord Aveland), and Fealar.

Among the very many fine grouse moors are those of Auch-leeks (H. C. Hardy, Esq.), Auchlyne, Auchmore, Bamff, Castle Menzies (Captain Edwards Heathcote), Craganour (J. Entwisle, Esq.), Dalclathie, Drumour (Barclay Field, Esq.), Fin-nart (R. E. Tomkinson, Esq.), Fealar, Glenbruar (W. Ogilvie Dalglish, Esq.), Glenferate (H. A. Brassey, Esq., M.P.), Glenloch (G. L. Watson, Esq.), Inverchroskie, Invergeldie (Sir Arch. Campbell), Kinnaird (C. T. Lucas, Esq.), Lochearn-head (James Wilson, Esq.), Lochgarry, Lude, Meggernie (C. F. Young, Esq.), Moness, Rannoch Barracks (Major Robertson), Rohallion (John Bett, Esq.), and Talladh-Bheithe.

The following hotels have good angling in connection with them, viz. :—Baillie Nicol Jarvie Hotel, Aberfoyle, 8 miles from Bucklyvie Station; Breadalbane Hotel, Kenmore, 6 miles from Aberfeldy; Ben Lawers Hotel, 13 miles from Killin Station; Crown Hotel, Callander; Rannoch Hotel, 12 miles from Struan Station; Lochearnhead Hotel, 2 miles from Lochearnhead Station; Fisher's Hotel, Pitlochry; and Stronachlachur Hotel, 21 miles from Callander.

The annual rental of the shootings let may be set down at £80,000.

THE OTHER LOCHS OF PERTHSHIRE.

THE other Lochs are classified under the heading of a convenient starting-place, and mostly yield superior trout fishing. The Lochs in the neighbourhood of Blairgowrie yield pike and perch, as a rule. In no instance must the quality of the angling be gauged by the area of the Loch, for some of the most insignificant in point of size often yield much better sport than many of the larger ones do. A small Loch, too, is perhaps the pleasantest to fish when one plies the "gentle art" with the laudable desire of making a good basket. Of course if the angler delights as much in boating as in fishing the case is totally different, and the big Loch then steps into first place.

THE OTHER RIVERS & STREAMS OF PERTHSHIRE.

THE other rivers and streams are classified under the heading of a convenient starting-place. They mostly yield capital trout fishing, indeed some of the smaller streams are better worth fishing than many of the bigger ones. It is all very fine to sneer at "brook fishing," but it is a jolly sight more pleasant (not to say a word about profitableness) to dangle a little rod over a brook teeming with finny denizens, than a big rod over a river with the offchance of hooking a "pounder" or so after an alarming sacrifice of shoulder and elbow-grease. From almost any one of the little streams 10lbs. of trout may be taken in a day without calling for any great skill on the part of the angler, and the skilful zealous angler might easily treble that sometimes. Anglers who obtain permission to fish Perthshire waters, or acquire the right by purchase, would do well to consult P. D. Malloch, the well-known Perth angler and fishing-tackle maker. No one knows better the vagaries of each river and loch in the county than he does ; and his takes of trout are really marvellous, and are often made from "brooks" which most anglers would laugh at.

THE SHOOTINGS OF PERTHSHIRE.

ABERDALGIE.

THE shootings of Aberdalgie, as usually let, extend to about 1600 acres, of which 450 are wood, the remainder being arable land and pasture. The game comprises partridges, pheasants, woodcocks, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

The fishings are in the River Earn and in Dupplin loch ; the latter yielding splendid sport with trout of large size.

The House is pleasantly situated about 4 miles from Perth. It contains 3 public-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, servants'-rooms, domestic offices, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, coachman's-rooms, and good garden.

ARNGIBBON.

The shootings of Arngibbon extend to about 450 acres, of which 250 are moor and 300 arable.

The House is beautifully situated, commanding fine views of the valley of the Forth, and of Ben Lomond and Ben Ledi. It contains 3 public-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, bath-room, 2 servants'-rooms, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There are also stable, coach-house, laundry, wash-house, garden, and a small paddock.

The House is $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Port of Menteith Station on the Forth and Clyde Railway, and 12 miles from Stirling.

ARDVOIRLICH.

The shootings of Ardvoirlich extend to about 7000 acres, of which 6000 acres are grouse ground.

The game consists of grouse, black-game, roe deer, red deer, ptarmigan, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 600 brace.

There is pretty fair trout fishing in Loch Earn, which bounds the estate for about 5 miles, and also in several small streams.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 3 bed-rooms, dressing-room, bath, kitchen, &c., and adjoining there is a cottage containing 5 rooms, also a 2-stall stable, coach-house, room for coachman, garden, and kennel. It is beautifully situated on the banks of Loch Earn, about 3 miles from Lochearnhead Station, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

The march goes to the top of Ben Voirlich, 3200 feet high, from which there is a magnificent view.

ASHINTULLY.

This shooting extends to about 3500 acres, and should yield 400 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, snipe, ducks, &c.

There is good trout fishing in the Rivers Blackwater and Ardle.

Ashintully Castle is pleasantly situated, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, gun-room, 6 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, servants'-rooms, domestic offices, &c. There are also stables, coach-houses, kennels, garden, and pleasure grounds.

It is about 15 miles distant from Blairgowrie on the Caledonian Railway, and the same distance from Pitlochry on the Highland Railway. Supplies can be obtained at either place. A post passes within a short distance of the Castle daily.

AUCHLEEKES.

This splendid grouse moor, one of the best in the country, extends to about 13,000 acres, and yields in good seasons 1500 brace of grouse, besides a very large number of black-game, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, partridges, capercailzie, roe deer, &c.

There is fair pike and trout fishing in Lochs Dhu and Chon, and trout fishing, with a chance of salmon in the River Erochty, which flows through the estate for about 5 miles.

The Mansion House, which is situated amid fine Highland scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-room, morning-room, business-room, library, 7 bed-rooms, 5 dressing-rooms, 6 servant's-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, housekeeper's-room, pantries, &c. There are also laundry and wash-house, gun-room, 6-stall stable, 3 coach-houses, kennels, excellent garden and paddock.

Struan, 5 miles off, is the nearest railway station, and supplies can be obtained either from Blair Athole or Pitlochry. There is a postal and telegraph office at Struan.

AUCHLYNE.

The shootings of Auchlyne extend to about 10,000 acres, chiefly moor. The game consists of grouse, black-game, ptarmigan, roe deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 450 to 550 brace.

There is a little salmon and trout fishing in the River Dochart.

The Lodge, which is situated amid very fine scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 9 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, gardens, and kennels.

Luib Station on the Callander and Oban Railway is distant about three miles from the Lodge, and the village of Killin, at the western extremity of Loch Tay, 3 miles also.

There are postal and telegraph offices, churches, and shops at Killin.

AUCHTERARDER.

Auchterarder House, which is situated in a fine position, commanding charming views of the Grampian and Ochil Hills, is an extremely well-built modern residence. It contains 4 public-rooms, 14 bed-rooms and dressing-rooms, 7 servants'-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There is stabling for 10 horses, with coach-house and house for coachman, and also an excellent garden, and good kennels.

ROSS AND CROMARTY SHIRES.

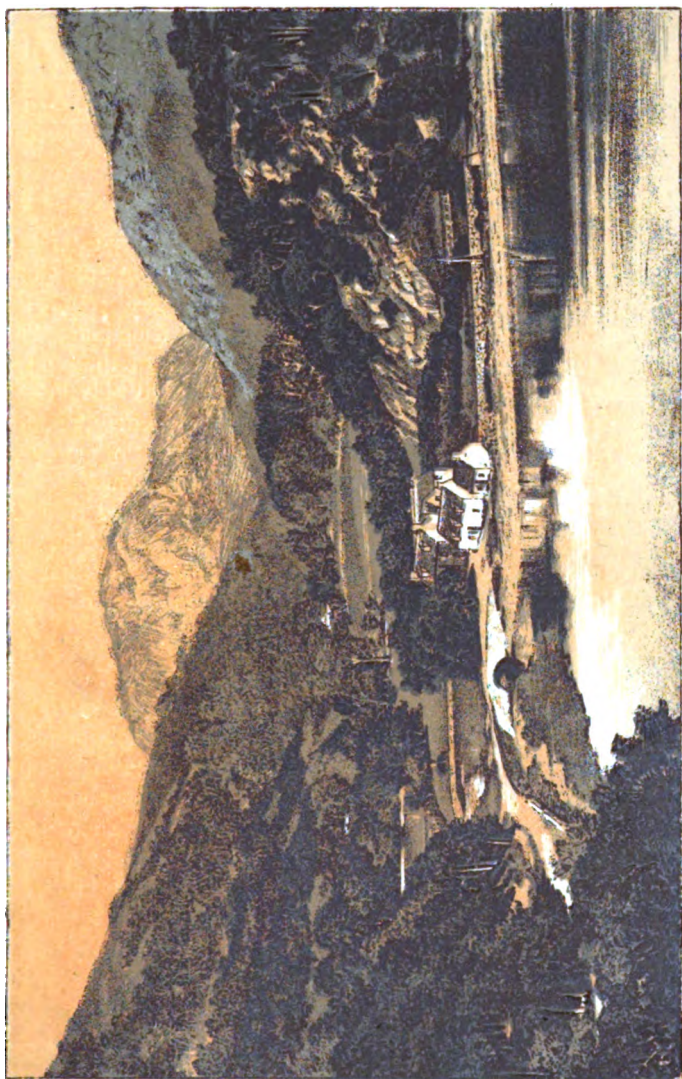

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE combined counties of Ross and Cromarty extend to 2,016,375 acres, or 3150 square miles, about a tenth of which is under cultivation, and form the third largest county in Scotland, and the fourth largest in the United Kingdom. The population in 1881 was 78,539, or about 22 to the square mile—another of the most thinly-populated districts in the world. In no part of the Highlands is the scenery finer or more varied, and the mountains and lochs rival in grandeur those of any other county. By taking rail at Dingwall, and proceeding thence to Strome Ferry, one is speeded through scenery of exquisite beauty and variety; indeed the journey from beginning to end is one ever-changing panorama of gorgeous landscape, embracing mountain and glen, loch and river,

“Crag o’er crag, and fell o’er fell.”

One could never possibly tire of the charming scenery of Strathpeffer and Strathgarve, or of the splendid mountains of Dundonnell and Kintail, not to speak of the majestic beauty of Loch Duich, nestling deep down amid the grand hills springing sheer from its dark glistening waters. There is a grandeur about this loch which strikes the beholder at a glance, and leaves behind it a startling, vivid recollection. It is enchanting, sublime, and well worth journeying any distance to see.

After travelling through the Highlands one can never afterwards wonder at the deep, steadfast attachment the Highlander ever cherishes for his native land, for the hills and glens, lochs and streams seem to engraft themselves firmly on the memory, and one is constantly borne back to them “on fancy’s wings.” How much more keenly, then, must the enthusiastic, superstitious, poetic Celt feel this strange fascination ! No wonder that such countries as his produce the noblest patriots of history.

Among the chief places of interest are the following, viz. :
—The ruins of Eilean Donan Castle, Lochalsh, an ancient stronghold of the once powerful Seaforth Mackenzies, destroyed in the Jacobite wars (via Strome Ferry) ; the beautiful valleys of Strathpeffer and Strathgarve ; the ruins of Gruighach Castle, Lochalsh (via Strome Ferry) ; the Falls of Rogie (via Strathpeffer), of Conon (via Dingwall), and of Glomach, 380 feet high (via Strome Ferry and Kintail) ; the vitrified fort on Knockfarrel, near Dingwall ; the fine old baronial residence of Castle Leod in Strathpeffer ; the exquisitely lovely lochs, Achilty, Garve, and Luichart ; Loch Maree, studded with beautiful islands and surrounded by lofty mountains (via Achnasheen) ; Ardross Castle, the seat of Alexander Matheson, Esq., M.P., of Ardross—a magnificent castellated building, one of the finest in Scotland, delightfully situate in the valley of the Alness ; the fine baronial residence of Balnagown, the seat of Sir Chas. Ross (via Invergordon) ; and of Invergordon Castle, the seat of R. B. Æ. Macleod, Esq., of Cadboll ; the ruins of Fearn Abbey, founded in Alexander II.'s reign (via Hill of Fearn) ; St. Duthac's Chapel, erected 1471 (Tain) ; Duncraig, the west coast seat of Alexander Matheson, Esq., of Ardross and Lochalsh (see Frontispiece), a fine castellated building, delightfully situated amid a perfect labyrinth of evergreens, backed by a range of stupendous cliffs (via Strome Ferry) ; the ruins of Strome Castle, opposite Strome Ferry ; the charmingly situate mansion of Flowerdale, a seat of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie (Gairloch) ; and the exceeding fine scenery of Gairloch, Loch Broom, and Applecross.

That portion of the Long Island (Outer Hebrides) called Lewis forms part of Ross-shire, and is entirely owned by Lady Matheson. The late Sir James Matheson, who acquired it by purchase, spent upwards of half a million sterling in various improvements, and laid the foundation of that prosperity which Lews has enjoyed ever since. Let it be remarked here that the Highlands of Scotland owe much to the liberality and enterprise of such proprietors as the Duke of Sutherland and the Mathesons of Lews, and of Ardrross and Lochalsh.

The extent of the Long Island is 561,200 acres, or about 880 square miles, and the population 27,000, or 30 to the square mile. Its greatest length is 40 miles, and breadth 24 miles. Stornoway, the chief town, contains 2600 inhabitants, and is a clean, well-built town with a splendid harbour. As a fishing port it ranks next to Wick.

There are many places of interest in Lews, which is well worth visiting, and chief among these are the remarkable Druidical remains at Callernish, the Pictish remains at Carloway, and the Butt of Lewis, a bold rocky headland washed by the Atlantic. Stornoway Castle, the seat of Lady Matheson, is a very spacious building—one of the finest in Scotland, splendidly situate, overlooking the magnificent harbour. The gardens and grounds are well worth seeing. The lochs of Lews are exceedingly numerous, probably numbering more than a thousand; Loch Langabhat, 9 miles long, is the largest. The highest hill in the Long Island is Chesham, 2500 feet above sea-level. The Lews shootings are now rapidly getting into favour with sportsmen, and no doubt in time will be as eagerly sought after as are Perthshire moors nowadays. There are one or two good deer forests, but the deer are much smaller than those on the mainland; still the heads are very pretty, and the quality of the venison is said to be much finer.

The largest loch of Ross-shire is Loch Maree (18 miles long and 2 miles wide at its broadest part), a very lovely sheet of water, dotted with beautiful islands of historic interest, and surrounded by lofty rugged mountains, including the nobly lined Ben Slioch. It yields excellent sea trout and brown trout fishing.

In the lovely little Loch Achadnahinich, nestling high up among the hills behind Duncraig, there are some interesting lacustrine remains, popularly called "The Pirate's Isle."

The principal river is the Conon, 30 miles long, which ranks among the best salmon rivers in the country.

Among the principal deer forests are those of Applecross, Alladale (Montgomery Walker, Esq.), Aline, Lews (W. H. Brancker, Esq.), Achnashelloch (Lord Wimborne), Braemore (John Fowler, Esq.), Ben Damph, Clunie, Diebidale (R. Loder, Esq.), Dundonnell, Fannich, Glomach (W. L. Winans, Esq.), Kildermorie (J. S. Clay, Esq.), Loch Luichart (Frank Morrison, Esq.), Morsgail, Lews (Heywood Jones, Esq.), Patt (W. L. Winans, Esq.), Rhidorrach, Strathconon (E. C. Guinness, Esq.), Strathvaich (Lord Ormathwaite), Strathrannoch (Col. Leyland), and Ben Wyvis (Capt. Horatio Ross); and among the principal grouse moors are those of Ardross (Alex. Matheson, Esq., M.P.), Braelangwell, Castle Leod, Fearn (Lieut.-Col. H. Cornwall Legh), Inverlaal, Inverbroom (E. P. Wolstenholme, Esq.), Langwell (M. Williams, Esq.), Loubcroy (F. Hardcastle, Esq.), and Soval, Lews (W. S. Parker, Esq.).

The annual value of the shootings let may be set down at £60,000.

The following hotels have good angling for visitors, viz. :—Achanault Hotel; Aultbea Inn, 27 miles from Achnasheen Station; Gairloch Hotel, 30 miles from Achnasheen Station; Garve Hotel; Loch Maree Hotel, 15 miles from Achnasheen Station; and Shiel House Inn, 21 miles from Strome Ferry Station.

BALMACARA HOTEL (via Strome Ferry or by Macbrayne's steamers from Glasgow) is an exceedingly well-managed, comfortable house, delightfully situated on the shores of Lochalsh, with a beautiful prospect of Skye and Glenelg. Within easy distance are Lochs Duich and Long, the Falls of Glomach, the ruins of Eilean Donan and Gruighach Castles, and the wonders of Skye. It would be difficult to alight upon more charming and attractive summer or autumn quarters. Last fall we observed in the visitors' book a very gratifying tribute to the management of this house signed by Sir William Vernon Harcourt, M.P.

THE OTHER LOCHS OF ROSS-SHIRE.

THE Lochs of Ross-shire are exceedingly numerous, and outnumber those of any other county ; but their angling value is not nearly so great as those of Argyle and Sutherland, still good sport is got in most of them. They are classified under the heading of a convenient starting place.

The Lochs of Lews are counted by the hundred.

THE SHOOTINGS OF ROSS-SHIRE.

ACHANAULT.

THE shootings of Achanault extend to about 4500 acres, and are bounded on three sides by deer forests, and on the fourth by the fine trouting Lochs Achanault and Coolin and the River Conon.

The game consists of red deer, grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, roe deer, and hares.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at the Hotel at Achanault Railway Station.

ACHMORE.

This shooting, situated about 2 miles from Muir of Ord Station on the Highland Railway, and 13 miles from Inverness, extends to about 2000 acres. The game comprises grouse, partridges, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

It is an excellent sporting place, and should stand 300 brace of grouse in a good season, besides other game.

ACHMORE AND SALACHY.

These shootings extend to about 8000 acres, and yield fair sport with grouse, ptarmigan, hares, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 100 to 150 brace.

There is fair sea and brown trout fishing in the little River Fernaig, and also some good loch trout fishing.

No Lodge, but the first-rate Hotel at Strome Ferry is on the ground.

A L I N E.

This first-class Lews shooting extends to about 35,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, woodcocks, snipe, wild fowl, red deer, &c. Probable bag, 300 brace of grouse, and 30 stags, besides abundance of woodcocks, snipe, &c.

There is excellent salmon, sea trout, and brown trout fishing, and very fine sea fishing.

The Lodge is beautifully situated on Loch Seaforth, the scenery of which is very charming. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, smoking-room, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, pantry, &c. There are also stable, kennels, and garden.

ROUTE.—Steamer to Stornoway from Glasgow or Strone Ferry, thence post about 32 miles. Letters are delivered at the Lodge three times a week.

ALLADALE FOREST.

The forest of Alladale, which is certainly one of the most desirable in the country, extends to about 27,000 acres, and abounds in splendid corries, with excellent wintering. It should yield 40 to 50 good stags. The grouse shooting is also very good, as many as 500 brace having been killed one season. In 1880 56 stags and 300 brace of grouse were killed.

There is good trout fishing in the River Carron and several smaller streams, and also in one or two lochs. Some times a little salmon fishing is also got in the Carron at this part.

The Lodge is magnificently situated, commanding splendid views of the surrounding country, the scenery of which is grand and varied. It is an excellent house, containing dining-room, drawing-room, 10 bed-rooms, kitchen and scullery, bath-room, butler's pantry, &c. There is a 4-stall stable with coach-house, and coachman's-rooms.

Ardgay is the nearest railway station and postal and telegraph office, the distance being about 12 miles, and supplies can be obtained from Bonar Bridge, quite close to Ardgay.

APPLECROSS FOREST.

This grand old forest, lying along the western shores of the county, comprises one of the most picturesque and romantic districts in the whole country, and is first-rate stag ground. The corries are stupendous, and the views from the summits of the hills magnificent. Here the geologist finds ample and abundant scope for his researches, the stalker for his rifle, and the sightseer for his wonderment and enjoyment.

The shootings extend to about 55,000 acres, and are surrounded on three sides by the sea. The game comprises red deer, grouse, black-game, partridge, wild fowl, roe deer, snipe, woodcocks, hares, and rabbits. Probable bag, 45 to 50 stags, and 250 to 300 brace of grouse, besides other game.

There is capital sea trout fishing in the River Applecross, which also contains salmon, and also excellent trout fishing in various lochs and streams.

The Mansion House, which is delightfully situated near the sea, is a commodious building, commanding very charming views. It contains double dining and drawing-rooms, 15 bedrooms, nurseries, very complete domestic offices, and ample accommodation for servants. The stabling is for 5 horses, with coach-house and rooms for stablemen; and there are also excellent gardens and pleasure grounds, and good kennels.

The nearest railway station is Strathcarron on the Dingwall and Skye Railway, distant about 20 miles by a drive, the magnificence of which beggars description. Lochcarron, about 15 miles off, is the nearest postal and telegraph office. Letters are left at the House three times a week. A medical man resides close by, and there are churches within pleasant walking distance.

ATTADALE.

The Mansion House of Attadale is delightfully situate on the shores of Lochcarron, an arm of the sea, and is surrounded by very charming and varied scenery. It was recently enlarged and re-modelled, and is now one of the most commodious and comfortable houses in the Highlands. The accommodation is as follows :—Dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, smoking-room, 12 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 6 servants' rooms, bath-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall, housekeeper's-room, kitchen, sculleries, laundry, meat and game larders, &c.

There are excellent stables and coach-houses, harness-room, and house for coachman, also kitchen garden and good kennels.

The shootings extend to about 23,000 acres, 14,000 acres of which are cleared of sheep, and embrace the splendid hill Ben Droneg, which is considered one of the best for stags in the whole country, the remainder being fairly good grouse moor, with a little cultivated land in the Valley of Attadale. The game comprises red deer, grouse, black-game, ptarmigan, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, plover, hares, rabbits, and roe deer. When fully stocked with deer the forest should stand 40 good stags. Probable bag of grouse, 200 brace.

There is excellent loch trout fishing in Lochs Calavie, Monar, Luing, and the Gedd Lochs, all of which also contain large pike, and capital trout fishing in various small rivers, including the Luing and Attadale. Now that the falls of the River Luing have been blown down, salmon and sea trout will no doubt ascend it into the Attadale waters. The sea fishing is equal to any in Scotland.

There is a first-rate iron house at the foot of Ben Droneg, containing 1 sitting and 4 bed-rooms, kitchen, and store closet. This Lodge is distant from Attadale 8 miles, by an excellent carriage-road leading through scenery not surpassed in the Highlands, and the view from its highest point, 1200 feet above sea level, is perfectly delightful.

Attadale Station on the Dingwall and Skye Railway is close to the Mansion House, and Strathcarron postal and telegraph office 3 miles off. Lochcarron or Jeantown, on the opposite shore of the loch, is a considerable village, with churches, shops, and medical men.

BARVAS.

The shootings of Barvas in the Lews extend to about 20,000 acres, and should yield 200 to 250 brace of grouse, besides snipe, woodcocks, plover, wild fowl, &c. Occasionally deer are on the ground.

The fishings are in the Rivers Arnol and Barvas, both good salmon and sea trout rivers.

There is no Lodge, but accommodation can be got at a temperance hotel on the ground, distant 12 miles from Stornoway. Steamers ply five times a week between Stornoway and Ullapool on the mainland from 1st April to 30th September, and thereafter thrice a-week. There are postal and telegraph office, churches, &c., at Stornoway. The nearest railway station to Stornoway is Garve, 32 miles by coach from Ullapool.

BEN DAMPH.

The forest of Ben Damph extends to about 13,000 acres, and is admirably adapted for stalking purposes. The pasture is also excellent, and the hills very high. Probable bag, 30 stags, and about 200 brace of grouse.

There is excellent salmon and sea trout fishing in the River Balgay, and also first-rate loch trout fishing.

The Lodge contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bedrooms, 3 dressing-rooms, kitchen, servants' hall, and 2 servants'-rooms. There are also 2-stall stable, coach-house, rooms for men-servants, kennels, and garden.

Auchnasheen Station on the Dingwall and Skye Railway is distant about 22 miles, and the drive is delightful. There is a daily post. Carriers call once a-week.

BEN MORE.

The shootings of Ben More are of considerable extent, and yield red deer, grouse, black-game, wild fowl, hares, &c.

There is good trout fishing.

Accommodation can be got at the inn close to the shooting.

ROUTE.—By rail to Garve Station on the Dingwall and Skye Railway, thence per coach to Ullapool, and thence post to inn.

BRAELANGWELL.

This fine shooting extends to about 27,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse, 5 or 6 stags, and about 100 brace of black-game, woodcocks, ducks, and snipe, besides roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

There is some capital salmon and trout fishing in the River Carron, and also trout fishing in a nice loch.

The House, which is surrounded by very charming scenery, contains dining-room, drawing-room, sitting-room, 9 bed-rooms, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, 3 servants'-rooms, &c. Outside there is a cottage containing 4 bed-rooms.

There are also 6-stall stable, coach-house, garden, and kennels.

It is distant about 6 miles from Ardgay Station on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and also a posting establishment and hotel. Supplies can be obtained at Bonar Bridge, 6 miles distant.

The drive from Ardgay, along the banks of the River Carron, is very charming.

BRAHAN.

Brahan Castle is a very fine building in the Scotch baronial style, situated amid charming scenery. It contains 6 public-rooms, 13 bed-rooms, ample accommodation for servants, domestic offices, &c.

The stabling is extensive. The gardens are really splendid, and contain vineries and greenhouses.

The shootings, which are low country, extend to about 6000 acres, and in favourable seasons yield excellent sport. There are a large number of fallow deer in the woods and, 15 or so are generally got. The snipe and duck shooting is very superior.

The fishings comprise $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of both banks of the first-class salmon river, the Conon, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of one bank of the same river and its tributary, the Orrin.

Dingwall is distant 4 miles, and Conon Bridge Railway Station and postal and telegraph office 2 miles.

The pleasure grounds and walks are charming and extensive.

CAMASHIE.

The shooting of Camashie extends to about 10,000 acres of very fair grouse ground, which should yield in good seasons 300 brace of grouse, besides black-game, hares, and rabbits.

There is a little trout fishing.

The Hotel at Auchnasheen on the Dingwall and Skye Railway is close to the ground, and is a most comfortable house. Auchnasheen has a postal and telegraph office.

CASTLE LEOD.

Castle Leod is a fine old baronial residence, charmingly situate in the valley of Strathpeffer. It is fairly commodious, and stands amid nicely laid-out pleasure grounds. It contains 3 public-rooms, 7 bed-rooms (one or two of them being very large), kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, house-keeper's-room, servants' rooms, &c.

A detached building contains a gun-room and 3 bed-rooms. There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, and gardens.

The shootings extend to about 20,000 acres of grouse moor, arable land, and woods. The game consists of grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ptarmigan, roe deer, red deer, &c. Probable bag in good seasons, 800 to 900 brace of grouse, 100 pheasants, 100 partridges, 3 to 5 stags, and 4 to 5 roe deer, besides other kinds.

Strathpeffer Station is within 10 minutes' walk of the Castle.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Dingwall, distant about 4 miles.

Postal and telegraph office at Strathpeffer.

CLUNIE AND RATAGAN.

The shootings of Clunie and Ratagan extend to about 24,000 acres, the Clunie portion of which (12,000 acres) is cleared of sheep, and marches with the Forests of Glenquoich and Ceanacroc. Probable bag, 32 stags and about 100 brace of grouse.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Clunie, and salmon, sea, and brown trout fishing in the River Shiel. Salmon now have unimpeded access to Loch Clunie.

The Lodge, which is an excellent one, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 10 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c.

There are also stables, coach-house, harness-room, kennels, garden, and lawn.

It is situated amid very fine scenery, about 26 miles from Invermoriston on Loch Ness, and 23 miles from Cullochy, near Invergarry, at both of which places Caledonian Canal steamers call daily.

The post-office at Tomdown is 10 miles distant.

The drive from Invermoriston is one of the most delightful in Scotland.

COILAMORE.

Coilamore House is most delightfully situated, overlooking Lochalsh, an arm of the sea, and commanding fine views of the Island of Skye. The scenery of Lochalsh is exquisite. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, sitting-room, 7 bedrooms, kitchen, scullery, pantry, servants' hall, and bedrooms, &c.

There are also 3-stall stable, coach-house, keeper's-house, gillies' and grooms' rooms, kennels and garden.

The shootings extend to about 13,400 acres, of which 12,000 are moor, 600 woods, and 800 arable land. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, plover, &c.

There is very good trout fishing and sea fishing.

Strome Ferry, 9 miles distant, is the nearest railway station. Macbrayne's steamers from Glasgow will land passengers at Balmacara, about a mile from the Lodge. Postal and telegraph office at Balmacara, where supplies can be got.

CORRIEHALLIE.

The shootings of Corriehallie extend to about 10,000 acres, and the game consists of roe deer, grouse, black-game, &c. Probable bag, 15 stags and 300 brace of grouse. Corriehallie marches on the south with the deer forest of Glenstrathfarar, and is itself cleared of sheep, and excellent stalking ground.

There are two lochs, which yield very fair trout fishing.

The Lodge, which is very comfortable, contains accommodation for a pretty large party, but the road to it is not very first-rate.

The nearest railway station and postal and telegraph office is Muir of Ord.

CORRIEMOILLIE.

The Lodge is pleasantly situated about a quarter of a mile from Loch Luichart and 3 miles from Garve, both stations on the Dingwall and Skye Railway. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, servants' rooms, smoking-room, &c. There are also a 2-stall stable and a garden.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres, and in good seasons should yield 300 to 400 brace of grouse, besides black-game, hares, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Luichart.

At Garve there is a postal and telegraph office. All kinds of supplies can be obtained from Dingwall, about 11 miles distant by rail.

COUL.

The Mansion House of Coul is beautifully situated in a finely-wooded park, and surrounded by charming and picturesque scenery. It is a very commodious and well-built house, the accommodation being as follows :—Entrance hall, 4 public rooms, smoking-room, business-room, 8 bed-rooms with dressing-rooms, 9 servants' rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, laundry, &c.

There are 2 stables of 6 stalls each, 2 coach-houses, harness-room, coachmen's rooms, 2 gate lodges, gamekeeper's cottage, and kennels. The garden is one of the finest in Scotland, and contains green-houses, vineries, peach-houses, orchard and conservatory.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres of moor and low ground, and should yield in good seasons 250 brace of grouse, 20 brace of black-game, 50 brace of partridges, and 4 or 5 roe deer, besides woodcocks, snipe, ducks, pheasants, hares, and rabbits.

The fishings comprise 2 miles of both banks of the River Blackwater, being from its junction with the Conon to the Falls of Rogie, and as salmon angling is surpassed by none in Scotland.

Dingwall is about 7 miles from the House by a beautiful drive.

COULZIE.

The shootings of Coulzie extend to about 4000 acres of capital grouse moor, which should yield in favourable seasons 300 to 400 brace of grouse, besides other game, including a few red deer. The ground is easily walked.

The Lodge, which is picturesquely situated on Loch Glass, contains dining-room, sitting-room, 7 bed-rooms, kitchen, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, and kennels.

There is good trout and pike fishing in Loch Glass, which also contains char, and excellent trout fishing in a stream which flows out of it.

The scenery is very grand.

Novar Station, on the Highland Railway, is distant 8 miles by a good road, and the village of Evanton about the same distance. Telegraph office at Novar.

CRAIGDARROCH.

This charming place is situated amid the most picturesque scenery in Ross-shire, and close to the greatly-admired Loch Achilty. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, smoking-room, gun-room, 5 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 3 servants'- rooms, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, pantry, store-room, &c. Outside there are laundry, 5 servants'-rooms, meat larders, shoe hall, and gun-room.

There are also excellent stables and rooms for stablemen, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to between 4000 and 5000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, pheasants, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, ducks, roe deer, &c. Red deer are also got.

The fishings consist of 5 miles of one side of the first-class salmon river Conon, being from the Falls to its junction with the Blackwater; and trout fishing in Loch Achilty, which also contains char.

Strathpeffer Station, on the Dingwall and Skye Railway, is distant about 4 miles from the House, and Dingwall about 9 miles. There is a postal and telegraph office at Strathpeffer. All kinds of supplies can be obtained from Dingwall.

DIEBIDALE.

This first-class deer forest] extends to about 12,000 acres, nearly all of which is cleared of sheep, and should yield in favourable seasons 45 stags and 200 brace of grouse, besides hares, ducks, snipe, &c.

There is very fair trout fishing.

The Lodge is small but very comfortable, and situated about 20 miles from Alness on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office. The scenery is very grand.

DORUSDUAN.

The shootings of Dorusduan extend to about 10,000 acres, and march with the Forest of Glomach. The game consists of grouse, black-game, ptarmigan, and red deer.

There is excellent trout fishing, and some capital salmon and sea trout fishing in the Rivers Croe and Elchaig.

The Lodge, which is charmingly situated, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, butler's pantry, &c. There are also stables and kennels.

Strome Ferry is the nearest railway station, distant about 20 miles by a magnificent drive, and there is a daily post to within a few miles of the Lodge.

DRUIDAIG.

Druidaig Lodge, which is beautifully situate on Loch Duich, the "Prince of Lochs," contains dining-room, drawing-room, 4 bed-rooms, butler's pantry, kitchen, servants'-rooms, &c.

The shootings extend to about 6000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, roe deer, &c.

There is good loch trout fishing and excellent sea fishing.

The nearest railway station is Strome Ferry, the terminus of the Dingwall and Skye Line. Steamers from Glasgow call twice a-week at Balmacara, 5 miles distant. There is a daily post.

[DRUMRINIE.

This shooting extends to about 25,000 acres, of which 7000 acres are deer forest, the remainder being grouse moor. The game consists of grouse, black-game, woodcocks, snipe, and red deer. Probable bag, 20 to 25 stags, and 250 brace of grouse and black-game, besides other kinds.

The fishings comprise exclusive right to the River Ruinie and to one bank of the salmon River Gruinard, with several lochs and streams for trout.

The Lodge is situated about 10 miles from Ullapool, and contains one sitting-room, 5 or 6 bed-rooms, besides kitchen, &c.

Garve is the nearest railway station, and is distant about 40 miles.

DRYNIE.

This shooting of Drynie, in the district of the Black Isle, extends to about 2000 acres, of which about 1400 acres are arable land and pasture, the remainder being wood. The game consists of partridges, snipe, wild fowl, woodcocks, ducks, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

The House is of modern construction and beautifully situated on rising ground, commanding a splendid view of the Moray Firth. It contains accommodation for a very large family, and the offices are excellent and complete in every respect.

There is capital anchorage for yachts in Munlochy Bay.

The nearest railway station is Inverness, distant only a few miles. There is a postal and telegraph office at Munlochy, near the House.

DUNDONNELL.

This excellent West Coast shooting extends to about 13,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, red deer, roe deer, snipe, &c. It marches with the well-known deer forests of Braemore, Fannich, and Dundonnell. Probable bag, 600 brace of grouse, and 6 stags, besides other game.

There is excellent trout fishing in various lochs and rivers.

The Lodge, which is situate on the Inchbae portion, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 5 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, 2 large attic bed-rooms, kitchen, servants' hall, butler's pantry, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, larder, and kennels.

Garve, 6 miles distant, is the nearest railway station. Supplies can be got from Dingwall. There is a postal and telegraph office at Garve.

SWORDALE.

The Lodge, which is picturesquely situated about 2 miles from Novar Station on the Highland Railway, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, gun-room, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also 4-stall stable, coach-house, garden, and kennels.

The shootings extend to about 5000 acres, of which about 800 acres are arable, the remainder being first-rate grouse moor. Probable bag, 400 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, snipe, woodcocks, ducks, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

There is fair trout fishing in the Skiach and Aultgraad Rivers.

At Novar there is a postal and telegraph office. Supplies can be obtained from Dingwall, about 7 miles distant.

TARLOGIE.

Tarlogie House, which is pleasantly situated about 2 miles from Tain on the Highland Railway, contains 4 public-rooms, 7 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' hall, and ample accommodation for servants.

There are also stables, kennels, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 2500 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, wild fowl, roe deer, hares, and rabbits. Probable bag of grouse, 250 to 300 head.

All kinds of supplies can be got at Tain, where there is also a postal and telegraph office.

TEANINICH.

The shootings of Teaninich, including those of Kinloch, extend to about 6000 acres, and the game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, pheasants, snipe, woodcocks, roe deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons, 300 brace.

There is excellent salmon and sea and yellow trout fishing, in the River Alness, several miles of which belong exclusively to Teaninich; and there is also good trout and salmo-ferox fishing in two lakes.

The Mansion House, which is large and commodious and pleasantly situated near the sea, contains 4 public-rooms, 10 bed-rooms, 3 dressing-rooms, housekeeper's-room, butler's pantry, servants' hall, and bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There are also excellent stables, good gardens, and kennels.

It is distant about 1 mile from the village and railway station of Alness on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and where most kinds of supplies can be obtained.

TULLOCH.

The shootings of Tulloch extend to about 7000 acres, of which 2000 acres are low country, the remainder being excellent grouse moor. Probable bag, 450 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, snipe, hares, roe deer, and rabbits.

There is a little trout fishing in a small stream.

The Castle is not usually let, but there is a good Lodge, situated about a mile or so from Dingwall, containing 3 sitting-rooms, 5 bed-rooms, servants' rooms, domestic offices, &c. There are also stables and kennels.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Dingwall.

UIG.

This very extensive and excellent Lews shooting extends to about 65,000 acres, of which 54,000 are grouse moor. The game comprises grouse, woodcock, snipe, plover, wild-fowl, and red deer. Probable bag in good seasons, 400 brace of grouse, 15 stags, and 10 hinds, besides other kinds.

There is very excellent salmon and sea trout fishing in the river and loch close to the Lodge, and also in Lochs na Hamnavay and na Creaig, about 18 miles off.

The Lodge, which is well-built and modern, is delightfully situated, and contains parlour, dining-room, gun-room, 6 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, pantry, 5 rooms for servants, larder, &c. There are also stable, coach-house, keeper's-house, kennels, and garden.

It is distant about 32 miles from the town of Stornoway, where all kinds of supplies can be obtained, and where there is a postal and telegraph office. Steamers ply between Stornoway and Ullapool on the mainland five times a-week, from 1st April to 30th September, and three times a-week thereafter. A mail car leaves letters at the Lodge thrice a-week.

A doctor resides close by. Uig is one of those shootings which will ultimately become very valuable on account of its variety of sport and extent. Garve is the nearest railway station to Ullapool, the distance being 32 miles.

SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION.

THE county of Sutherland is bounded on three of its five sides by the ocean, and is the sixth in point of size in Scotland, the extent, 1,207,188 acres, or 1886 square miles, being within a square mile of that of Lancaster. What a vast difference, however, there is between the populations of these two counties—Sutherland 22,366, or 16 to the square mile; Lancaster 3,454,225, or 1830 to the square mile! The extent under cultivation does not exceed 25,000 acres, and excepting one or two favoured spots trees are “conspicuous by their absence” only. Gold is found in the Strath of Kildonan, and also in Strath Seisgill.

In no part of the United Kingdom have greater efforts been put forth to reclaim land than in Sutherland, and a visit to the vicinity of Lairg will show this. The Duke of Sutherland, who owns 1,176,454 acres, has spared neither money nor skill in carrying out a series of magnificent improvements; and the roads, which are particularly good, have been planned with beautiful precision.

As an angling county Sutherland stands unrivalled; the lochs being legion and swarming with trout of good size and quality, and many of the rivers take high rank among salmon waters.

The scenery is very fine in some parts, especially in the vicinity of Loch Inver, but is nothing like so grand and varied as it is in the conterminous county of Ross. The mountains are remarkable for a certain boldness of outline and peculiar isolation. Along the north and west coasts the cliff scenery is stupendous, and well worth journeying even so far to see.

Though rich in Pictish remains, Sutherland does not possess much in the way of "antiquities," the principal of these being the ruins of Ardvreck Castle, an ancient stronghold of the Macleods of Assynt (via Lairg); the Round Tower of Dun Dornadilla at Aultnacallagach (via Lairg); the ruins of Dornoch Cathedral, founded 1220; the ruins of Varrich Castle, near Tongue (via Lairg); and the ruins of Helmsdale Castle (via Helmsdale), of Skelbo Castle (via "The Mound"), and of Down Reay Castle (via Lairg). Among the other places of interest are the following:—The Island of Handa, off the coast at Scourie (via Lairg); Balmakiel, the ancient seat of the Reay family (via Lairg); the Smoo Cave at Durine (via Lairg); the fantastic peaks of Suilvein and Ben Loyal (via Lairg); the finely-situated mansion of Achany, the Sutherland seat of Lady Matheson of Lews (via Invershin); Dunrobin Castle, the magnificent Highland residence of the Duke of Sutherland (via Golspie); and Dunrobin Glen, with its picturesque waterfall (via Golspie).

The largest loch of Sutherland is Loch Shin, 17 miles long and one mile broad, but the scenery is not particularly attractive. Macculloch pronounced this loch a "huge ditch," which is simply absurd. It yields first-rate angling. The most beautiful of all Sutherland lochs is Loch Assynt, 10 miles long, and surrounded by lofty, picturesque mountains.

The principal rivers are the Oykel (30 miles) and Naver (24 miles), which rank among the best salmon rivers in Scotland.

Reay Forest, tenanted by the Duke of Westminster, is the principal deer forest, and is of great extent.

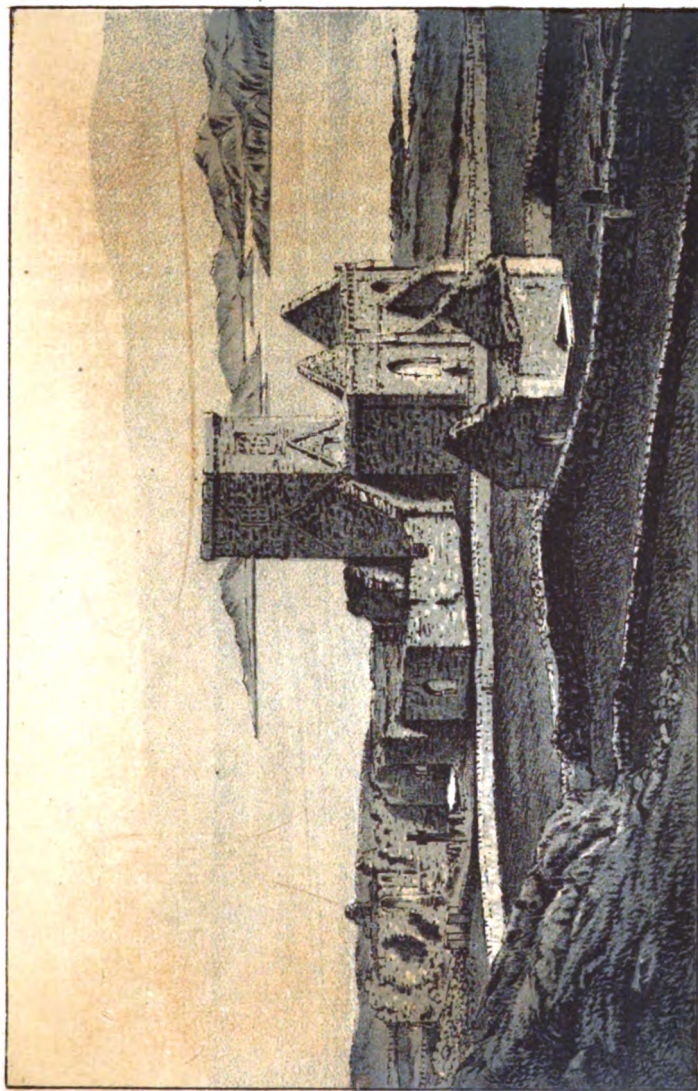

The grouse shootings are equal to any in the country, and yield many of the biggest bags of modern times. Among the principal are the following:—Achany, Aultnaharrow, Big-house, Borrobol, Balnacoil, Cambusmore, Forsinard, Kinbrace, Kinloch, Ribigill, Salachy, Shinness, South Clebrig, Syre, and Tressady.

The annual value of the shootings let may be set down at £20,000.

The following hotels have capital angling in connection with them, viz. :—Inveran Hotel, 1 mile from Invershin Station, near the mouth of the River Shin, an extremely well-managed, comfortable house ; Overscraig Inn, 16 miles from Lairg ; Crask Inn, 13 miles from Lairg ; Lairg Hotel, situated at the foot of Loch Shin ; Sutherland Arms Hotel, Golspie ; Forsinard Inn ; Inchnadamph Hotel, 34 miles from Lairg ; Lochinver and Culag Hotels, 48 miles from Lairg ; Tongue Hotel, 40 miles from Lairg ; Altnaharrow Hotel, 22 miles from Lairg ; Bettyhill Inn, 32 miles from Thurso ; Brora Hotel ; and Oykel Hotel, 15 miles from Lairg.

THE OTHER LOCHS OF SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

THE lochs of Sutherland are exceedingly numerous, and yield first-rate trout fishing—indeed there is no such thing in this county as a “poor loch.” It may be called the “angler’s paradise,” and is beyond doubt the best trout-ing county in the United Kingdom.

The principal among “the other lochs” are as follows, and are classified under the heading of a convenient starting place.

THE SHOOTINGS OF SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

ACHANY.

ACHANY HOUSE is situated amid very fine scenery, about 4 miles from Lairg and Invershin Stations on the Highland Railway. It is commodious and well-built, containing dining-room, drawing-room, bath-room, 9 bed-rooms, servants' hall, butler's pantry, servants' bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, &c.

There is a 6-stall stable, with coach-house, harness-room, and rooms for coachman, also kennels and an excellent garden.

The shootings extend to about 10,000 acres, chiefly moor, and should yield in favourable seasons 700 to 800 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, ducks, snipe, roe deer, hares, and rabbits.

There is splendid loch trout fishing in Lochs Doula and Craggie.

All kinds of supplies can be obtained at Bonar Bridge, about 5 miles off.

ARMADALE.

These shootings extend to about 30,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 800 to 1000 brace of grouse, and 5 stags, besides black-game, snipe, woodcocks, and hares.

There is fair salmon and grilse fishing in the River Strathy, and excellent loch trout fishing.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at Melvich Inn, at the northern extremity of the ground.

A mail-car passes the Inn daily, which is about 15 miles from Forsinard Station, and 16 miles from Thurso.

There is a telegraph office at Melvich.

Near the centre of the ground there are stable, coach-house, keeper's-house, and kennels.

AULTNAHARROW.

The Lodge, which is large and commodious, is situated about 21 miles from Lairg Station on the Highland Railway. It contains dining-room, drawing-room, smoking-room, servants' hall, kitchen, scullery, 10 bed-rooms, butler's pantry, servants'-rooms, &c.

There are also 4-stall stable, coach-house, laundry, kennels, dairy, keeper's-house, and garden.

The shootings extend to about 26,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 800 to 1000 brace of grouse, besides black-game, snipe, woodcocks, hares, &c. Stags are usually limited to 15.

The fishings comprise the salmon River Mudale, and several lochs and streams, which yield good trout fishing.

Supplies can be got by coach from Lairg, where there is a postal and telegraph office, or from Bonar Bridge, a few miles farther away.

BETTYHILL.

There is no Lodge on this shooting, but sportsmen can put up comfortably enough at Bettyhill Inn, about 30 miles from Thurso, and 9 from Tongue, where there are postal and telegraph offices.

The shootings extend to about 25,000 acres, and should yield in favourable seasons 250 to 350 brace of grouse and 5 or 6 stags, besides black-game, partridges, ptarmigan, and hares.

The fishings consist of a mile of the salmon River Naver, and several lochs and streams which yield good trout fishing.

Thurso is the nearest railway station. Letters are delivered at the Inn three times a-week.

BIGHOUSE.

The House, which is an excellent one, charmingly situate close to the sea, contains dining-room, drawing-room, smoking-room, 8 bed-rooms, 2 dressing-rooms, housekeeper's-room, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, butler's pantry, attic-room, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, coachman's house, kennels, laundry, and garden containing vinery.

The shooting, which extends to about 34,000 acres, is one of the very best in the North, and should yield in good seasons 1500 to 2000 brace of grouse, besides black-game, partridges, snipe, ducks, woodcocks, hares, and rabbits.

There is splendid trout fishing in various lochs, including Loch Sletill, one of the best lochs in Scotland, and also some salmon and sea trout fishing in the River Halladale.

The House is distant, by a first-rate road, 14 miles from Forsinard Station, and 16 from Thurso. There is a postal and telegraph office at Melvich, close by.

BORGIE.

This excellent sporting place extends to about 30,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 600 brace of grouse and 5 or 6 stags, besides the other kinds of game.

The fishings comprise the River Borgie and Loch Slam, both of which yield capital salmon fishing, and also several lochs yielding first-rate trout fishing.

The Lodge, which is very comfortable, contains dining-room, drawing-room, 6 bed-rooms, 2 servants' rooms, kitchen, scullery, pantry, &c. There are also stable, garden, and kennels.

The nearest railway station is Lairg, about 45 miles distant. A coach runs thrice weekly between Lairg and Tongue, the latter being within 6 miles of the Lodge. Supplies can be obtained by post-car from Thurso, which passes the Lodge three times a-week. There is a postal and telegraph office at Tongue, where a medical man also resides.

CAMBUSMORE.

This extremely desirable and excellent sporting place extends to about 14,000 acres of moor and low ground, and should yield 800 brace of grouse, besides a large number of black-game, woodcocks, partridges, &c. Red deer and roe deer are also got, and there is excellent wild fowl shooting along the shores of Loch Fleet.

The fishings comprise a rod on the salmon River Fleet, and abundance of lochs and streams yielding capital trout fishing. Salmon take the fly in the salt water at a point just below "The Mound." The sea fishing is also very good.

The House, which occupies a lovely position, overlooking the estuary of the Fleet, contains dining-room, drawing-room, library, gun-room, 7 bed-rooms, bath-room, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' rooms, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, laundry, kennels, enclosed and well-stocked garden and fernery. The water supply is excellent, and the walks and drives very numerous and charming.

It is about one mile from "The Mound" Railway Station, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and four miles from Golspie, where a medical man resides. Dornoch, the county town, is distant 7 miles.

CREICH.

This shooting extends to about 4100 acres, of which 1800 acres are grouse ground, and 1000 acres wood, the remainder being arable and pasture. The game consists of grouse, black-game, red deer, roe deer, woodcocks, partridges, &c.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Migdale.

The scenery is very pretty.

There is no Lodge, but good accommodation can be got at Bonar Bridge, about 3 miles off.

DURNESS.

This shooting extends to about 40,000 acres, and the game comprises grouse, ptarmigan, ducks, snipe, wild fowl, and hares. Probable bag of grouse, 400 brace, but by careful and judicious management the ground should, in the course of 8 or 10 years, yield 2000 brace.

There is excellent salmon and sea trout fishing in the Durness river, and sea trout fishing in the Kyle of Durness.

The ground reaches from Loch Eriboll to Cape Wrath. The scenery along the coast is magnificent.

There is no Lodge, but excellent accommodation can be got at Durine Hotel on the ground, and about 55 miles from Lairg Station on the Highland Railway. There is a daily mail.

The climate is remarkable for its salubrity.

GLENROSSEL.

The shootings of Glenrossel extend to about 2500 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, roe deer, red deer, woodcocks, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 200.

There is fair salmon fishing in $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the River Cassley, a tributary of the Oykel.

The Lodge is new and well-built, and contains every convenience for a small family. There are also stables, coach-house, kennels, &c.

It is situated about 9 miles from Invershin Station on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office.

Supplies can be obtained from Bonar Bridge, about 12 miles distant.

GUALEN.

This shooting extends to about 20,000 acres and yields grouse, snipe, woodcock, ptarmigan, red deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse in good seasons about 300 brace, although ultimately and with careful game-keeping it will yield very large bags.

There is some excellent salmon fishing in the Durness river, and also good trout fishing.

The Lodge is very small, containing a parlour and 2 bedrooms, and is attached to the keeper's house.

ROUTE.—Rail to Lairg Station, thence drive about 50 miles.

INVERNAULD.

The shootings of Invernauld extend to about 1100 acres, of which 700 acres are grouse moor. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, woodcocks, snipe, &c.

There is good sea trout fishing in the Kyle of Sutherland.

The Lodge, which contains accommodation for a small family, is very beautifully situated, and the walks in the neighbourhood are very charming.

It is distant 7 miles from Invershin Station on the Highland Railway, and about the same distance from Lairg. The Lochinver, Assynt, and Lairg coaches pass the gate daily. Butchers and other tradesmen's carts from Bonar Bridge call regularly.

KINLOCH.

The shootings of Kinloch extend to about 60,000 acres, and should yield in favourable seasons 1000 to 1200 brace of grouse and 15 stags, besides black-game, woodcocks, ptarmigan, snipe, and hares.

The fishings consist of one rod in the salmon and sea trout River Kinloch (close to the Lodge), and one rod in the Strathmore River, and abundance of excellent loch trout fishing.

The House, which is pleasantly situated, contains dining-room, drawing-room, gun-room, 9 bed-rooms, butler's pantry, kitchen, scullery, servants' hall, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, garden, laundry, with room over it for laundry-maid, meat and game larders, &c.

Lairg is the nearest railway station, the distance being 42 miles by a capital road, and Tongue, 3 miles distant, the nearest postal and telegraph office. A medical man resides at Tongue, where there are also churches, a capital hotel, and shop.

A coach runs between Tongue and Lairg three times weekly.

LAIRG.

This splendid deer and grouse shooting extends to about 50,000 acres, and reaches from Achinduich, 4 miles south of Lairg Village, to The Crask, 13 miles north of it. It is bounded on the east by Ben Armin Forest, and on the north by Clebrig shootings, and to the north-west is Reay Forest. The northern portion is first-rate stalking ground, and the southern excellent grouse moor.

The Lodge, which is comfortable and commodious, is situated about $1\frac{3}{4}$ miles from Lairg on the Highland Railway, where there is a postal and telegraph office, and where supplies can be obtained.

There is excellent salmon fishing in the River Shin, and abundance of trout fishing in lochs and streams.

LOCH HOPE.

Hope Lodge, which is beautifully situated, overlooking the River Hope, contains dining-room, drawing-room, parlour, gun-room, 7 bed-rooms, servants'-rooms, domestic offices, &c. There are also stables, coach-house, laundry, kennels, &c.

The shootings extend to about 20,000 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, partridges, plover, snipe, woodcocks, hares, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 400 brace.

The angling for sea trout is as good as any in Scotland, and there is abundance of excellent trout fishing, and also fair salmon fishing. As many as 8000 sea and brown trout have been killed in one season with the fly only.

Lairg is the nearest railway station, 42 miles distant, and mails are received at the Lodge five times a-week. The nearest telegraph office is Tongue, distant 8 miles.

RIBIGILL.

This very fine shooting, situated on the North Coast, extends to about 30,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse and 12 stags, besides other game.

There is abundance of excellent loch trout fishing, and a little salmon and sea trout fishing in the River Kinloch.

The Lodge, which is situated in the village of Tongue, is an excellent one of modern construction, and contains dining-room, drawing-room, gun-room, 8 bed-rooms, 2 servants'-rooms, &c.

It is distant about 38 miles from Lairg Station on the Highland Railway. A coach plies three times a-week between Lairg and Tongue.

There is a postal and telegraph office at Tongue, also medical man, good hotel, and posting establishment, and shops.

ROSEHALL.

The Mansion House of Rosehall is large and commodious, with spacious public-rooms, and bed-room accommodation for a very large family. It is beautifully situate at the confluence of the River Cassley with the Kyle of Sutherland, and amid very fine wooded scenery. The walks and drives are very charming.

The shootings extend to about 2500 acres. The game consists of grouse, black-game, snipe, woodcocks, red deer, roe deer, &c.

Invershin Station on the Highland Railway is distant from the House about 8 miles, and supplies can be obtained from Bonar Bridge. Postal and telegraph office at Invershin.

SALACHY.

The shootings of Salachy extend to 20,000 acres, and lie along the shores of Loch Shin. In good seasons 600 brace of grouse should be got, besides black-game, partridges, roe deer, snipe, ducks, and hares.

There is excellent trout fishing in Loch Shin, and also in several smaller lochs.

The Lodge contains parlour, 5 bed-rooms, gun-room, kitchen, servants'-room, &c. There are also stable and kennels.

It is distant 3 miles from the village of Lairg, where there is a railway station, and also a postal and telegraph office, and where supplies can be obtained.

SOUTH CLEBRIG.

This shooting extends to about 16,000 acres, and the march goes to the top of Ben Clebrig, the second highest mountain in Sutherland. The game consists of grouse, black-game, ptarmigan, snipe, red deer, &c. Probable bag of grouse, 800 brace. Stags are usually limited to 15.

The fishings are in Loch Naver (for trout only), and in the salmon River Mallert.

There is no Lodge, but excellent accommodation can be obtained at Altnaharra Hotel, close to the ground.

Lairg Station is distant 21 miles. There are keeper's house and good kennels.

SYRE.

The House is pleasantly situated in Strathnaver, about 15 miles from Kinbrace Station on the Highland Railway, and 40 miles from Lairg. It contains 2 public-rooms, 8 bed-rooms, kitchen, scullery, butler's pantry, servants' rooms, &c. There are also stables and kennels, and a small vegetable garden.

The shootings, which are among the best in Sutherland, extend to about 25,000 acres, and should yield in good seasons 1000 brace of grouse and black-game, 8 to 10 stags, and 50 couple of snipe, besides woodcocks, wild fowl, hinds, &c.

There is excellent salmon fishing in the River Naver, and abundance of capital trout fishing.

Supplies can be obtained either from Lairg or from Thurso, via Bettyhill.

PITKEATHLY WATER,

AS PREPARED BY

REID AND DONALD, CHEMISTS, PERTH,

Is an EFFERVESCENT MINERAL WATER, having Tonic, Refreshing, and Stimulating Properties, also possessing valuable Dietetic qualities, and specially adapted for Mixing with Wines and Brandies.

The following are some of the Testimonials which have been received from Physicians as to the Therapeutic properties of the Water :—

From J. WALLACE, Esq., M.D., Professor of Midwifery and Diseases of Women, University College, Liverpool, and Physician to the Royal Infirmary.

DEAR SIR.—I have intended for the last week or two writing you a reply to your letter, in which you ask me to say what I think of Pitkeathly water. Well, I think I told you before that after a fair trial I think it a most agreeable beverage for table use, either by itself or in combination with wines or spirits, particularly the latter. Unlike all other Saline and Aerated Waters I have experience of, it is not depressing, but tonic in its effects. I presume, from the small quantity of ferric oxide it contains, this tonic action is chiefly felt in the bladder and bowels. It is a powerful diuretic, and produces profuse discharge of lithates, and taken in large doses promotes the action of the liver and is aperient. On considering its composition as seen in the most recent analysis, and its therapeutic action, it struck me as being likely to be of great service in gouty and rheumatic diatheses, and experience has now confirmed this. I know of no better anti-gouty and anti-rheumatic mineral water; nor do I know of any better beverage for old men who have bladder catarrh and enlarged prostate, and in women I have found it equally soothing and curative in similar conditions.

17th January, 1882.

From JOHN NEILSON, Esq., M.D., Edin.

Pitkeathly Water in the aerated form, prepared by Messrs. REID AND DONALD, Perth, is sparkling and pleasing in taste. Taken with wines or cognac as a diluent, the effect is pleasant and agreeable. Being composed principally of magnesium and calcium, the best known absorbers of caloric, this water prevents the destructive action of alcohol on the mucous membrane of the stomach, thereby acting as a corrective as well as an agreeable and refreshing beverage.

BLAIRGOWRIE, 30th Oct., 1881.

From ANDREW BUIST, Esq., M.D., and Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, Edin.

I have frequently prescribed the Pitkeathly Waters, as aerated by Messrs. REID AND DONALD, Chemists, Perth, on account of their exhilarating and tonic qualities, with the greatest benefit to my patients.

ATHOLE CRESCENT, PERTH, 3rd March, 1880.

From ALEXANDER THOM, Esq., M.A., M.B., and C.M., Edin.

I have made trial of the Pitkeathly Natural Waters, as aerated by Messrs. REID AND DONALD, and have much pleasure in bearing testimony to their efficacy. Apart from their utility, I find that they are hailed with much satisfaction by patients. So palatable are they in the aerated form that they compare most favourably with even the best Selters, and, indeed, as a vehicle for stimulants at meal times for patients who require such, few waters equal them.

CYRIL, May, 1881.

NOTICE.—REID & DONALD, Chemists, Perth, have the sole and exclusive right to aerate the Mineral Waters of Pitkeathly.
